MORROW HELD CERTAIN TO BE SENATOR NEXT

HOPE STILL IS FELT BY FEW DEMOCRATS

Weak G. O. P. Candidates Lean on Popularity of Ticket Leader.

TWO HOUSE PLACES DECLARED IN DOUBT

Simpson's 4 Per Cent Beer Plea Has Little Effect Discernible on Voters.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 28.—New Jersey is a State about which one might say chidingly to the Democrats "burny, burny" and push their impatient fingers away.

In the general reshuffling of the political cards this year the Democrats thought New Jersey belonged to them; so did nearly everybody else But they burned their fingers when they reached out for it.

The turn of events must have been one of the greatest surprises that has come in the tempestuous life of Alexander Simpson, who swept onto the front pages in his prosecution of the Hall-Mills murder case. He showed himself then to be a man of vigor and ambition and about the time this latter took the form of his senatorial candidacy, observers generally were agreeing that he would be elected.

Bad to Worse For Foe.

And quite likely he would have had not the man Morrow appeared on the scene. Things have gone from bad to worse for Mr. Simpson since. Now just a few days before election it is with difficulty that he even gets his name in the newspapers.

He may still have that hope that lurks in the breast of every man, but if he has he is one of the few Democratic politicians in the State who has. Indeed, so certain seems a Morrow victory that the campaign is virtually a closed book to the Democratic leaders. They have cast their eyes on beyond November 4 to the gubernatorial election next year in which they have more reason to look for success.

Both Morrow and Simpson are still campaigning, though Simpson has been handicapped by a sore throat. The Democratic leaders seem, too, to have considerably proscribed his course. Simpson is the sort of fellow who would have thought up a lot of things as the campaign progressed, a lot of wild promises, not to mention charges. In fact, he started off with a slogan, "Morrow, Morgan and Misery."

Simpson Toned Down.

Those who have him in hand have toned him down. He is now just discussing depression and prohibition.

It was prohibition that was generally looked upon as making the Republican cause hopeless in this State this year, but Morrow straightened that situation out by coming out for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and forcing the State convention to do likewise.

This was most disappointing to Simpson, but, being a resourceful man, he evolved a 4 per cent beer plan as an added show of his wetness. He is now telling the New Jerseyans that while they are waiting for Morrow to repeal the eighteenth amendment he would give them beer by amendment to the Volstead act beer of at least 4 per cent alcoholic content. After all, Jersey has plenty of beer of at least 4 per cent alcoholic content at present.

At any rate Simpson seems to have made no dent in Morrow's popularity.

Eaton Is in Doubt.

In some of the congressional districts there are Republican candi-

Calvin Coolidge

Says: When we carefully examine it the wonder grows that, under the political practice we have developed, our government is so good. We do not give enough attention to nominations nor elections. We let our choice turn on some immaterial personal characteristic that has nothing to do with the qualifications for the office. We heap so much abuse on public servants that many with every capacity for office will not subject themselves to the ordeal. Conspicuous success in private life is often considered a bar to public recognition. In response to some whim we support candidates who can only succeed in office by disregarding the reason for which they were elected.

All of these practices put our government at a disadvantage. We are only saved from complete disaster because the average person rises somewhat to responsibility. With our increasingly intricate system of government and business we must give more attention to the capacity of candidates. Their decisions affect our whole national life. Public service is a most exacting profession. Honest and good intentions are almost useless unless they are supplemented by ability. When we vote for anything but the best we cheat ourselves, our families and our country.

OWN AIDS DEMAND THAT BALDWIN QUIT

Action of 44 Conservatives Causes Sensation; Seen Boon to MacDonald.

LIBERALS LEAN TO LABOR

London, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Demands by conservative members of Parliament for the resignation of former Premier Stanley Baldwin, their leader, provided tonight one of the major political sensations of the year.

Forty-four conservatives presented a petition to the chief whip of the conservative party submitting that a change in leadership was "essential to the national interest."

Another meeting of the "rebels" is expected to be held tomorrow with a view to giving other members of the party an opportunity of joining the movement against their chief.

Though the outstanding names in the party were missing from the petition, the signatures of several well-known members were attached, including those of Sir John Gretton, Sir Basil Peto, Sir Martin Conway, Sir Vansittart Bowater, Viscount Lymington, F. A. MacQuisten and E. Marjoribanks.

The conservatives have been divided by disagreement over the tariff question, some sections of the party advocating thoroughgoing imperial preference and preferential food taxes.

The rejection of a party leader by so large a proportion of his followers at the very opening of a new parliamentary session is believed to be unprecedented in British political history.

Mr. Baldwin is to address a full party meeting on Thursday, answering critics of his leadership, and it had been predicted a vote of confidence in him would be passed.

What will happen now appears to be unpredictable. Mr. Baldwin, who became prime minister in 1923 and again in 1924, has been under steady fire for weeks from the influential Daily Express and Daily Mail, controlled by Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere, respectively.

Though it had been known the question of the party leadership would come to a head sooner or later, the manifesto tonight was a staggering surprise to both experts and the man in the street.

Political developments of the most far-reaching nature were forecast today after the first day's sitting of the House of Commons in this session and following the attack upon former Premier Baldwin.

Straws which expert commenators interpreted as showing which way the

HOOVER HOLDS OIL CHARGE FABRICATION

Work and Wilbur Also Answer Accusations Made by Ralph Kelley.

NEWSPAPER IS SCORED

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover and the two officials who as Secretary of the Interior had supervision of the Government's oil shale lands spoke their minds yesterday in unanimous denunciation of charges by Ralph S. Kelley, that there had been irregularities in disposing of the lands.

The President described the charges as "fabrications" without "merit or substance" in discussing the matter at his regular press conference.

A little later the Department of Justice, which has investigated the allegations of the former Denver land office official, made public letters by Secretary Wilbur and former Secretary Work. Both asserted they had no knowledge of irregularities and Mr. Wilbur described the affair as "nonsense."

President Hoover interpolated his remarks with forceful accents. He asserted that the charges were made in the midst of a political campaign in "an attempt to charge odious oil scandals to this administration," and said that Mr. Kelley could have determined their falsity by referring to his own office records.

At the same time the President said the newspaper which published Mr. Kelley's charges apparently had made no effort to test their truthfulness. The President did not mention the paper by name.

"As a piece of journalism, it may well be that the newspaper involved was misled," Mr. Hoover said. "It certainly does not represent the practice of better American journalism. As a piece of politics, it is certainly far below the ideals of political partisanship held by substantial men in that party.

"I hope that the American people realize," he said, "that when reckless, baseless and infamous charges in the face of responsible denial with no attempt at verification, are supported by political agencies and are broadcast, reflecting upon the probity of public men such as Secretary Wilbur, the ultimate result can only be damage to public service as a whole."

Mr. Kelley, after making his charges submitted his resignation from the land office but it was refused and he was suspended pending their investigation. The Department of Justice,

VANGUARD OF REBELS REACHES SAO PAULO

Vargas, Definitely Named President, Will Enter Rio in Triumph.

CAPT. TAVARA WILDLY GREETED IN CAPITAL

Offices of American Consul Moved to Embassy as Result of Rioting.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The vanguard of revolutionary troops from the Sao Paulo-Parana sector, marching northward following the collapse of the federal government last week and the end of hostilities, arrived here today from Itarare.

More are on the way and it is understood that by tomorrow at least 10,000 insurgent soldiers will be here commanded by Gen. Miguel Costa.

An Associated Press correspondent traveled from Itarare with the group which pulled in today. At every station the inhabitants were gathered to cheer the victorious southern gauchos, commanded by Col. Joao Alberto de Barros.

1,000 Slain in Battle.

During the trip the correspondent learned some details of recent heavy fighting which did not get out of the country at the time. On the battlefield of Sengues, where federals and rebels fought savagely for a bridge day and night between October 15 and 20, about 1,000 men were killed.

A wrecked locomotive in the bottom of a creek, the bridge over which was blown up by federals near Inginiero schatter station, explained in part a rumor of two weeks ago that a federal troop train carrying 1,000 men had crashed into a ravine between Sao Paulo and Santos. Whether the rumor grew out of this accident was not certain, but officials at the station said that a number of men were killed in the accident.

Col. de Barros said that his work in the revolution had been easy, as his opponents composed only 500 federals strongly entrenched in Capella Abribeira, while he had 5,500 infantrymen and 3,000 cavalry ready to crush the enemy when hostilities ended. He added that the revolutionary troops in his sector suffered very few losses.

Vargas Definitely Chosen.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Getulio Vargas, leading figure in the Brazilian revolution which began October 3, was definitely chosen today for the provisional presidency of Brazil.

He will succeed Washington Luis, ousted by a movement of military and naval leaders last Friday.

Choice was made this afternoon at a meeting of southern revolutionary representatives with the military-naval junta.

Vargas is now the only important rebel leader not in the capital, for Capt. Juarez Tavora arrived by airplane late today from the north and was given a wild welcome.

Plans Triumphal Entry.

The captain, who organized and conducted the revolution in nine northern states, was reported a few days ago to be suspicious of the Rio junta, but said he was willing to cooperate when he learned that Vargas would take the presidency.

Thousands crowded the avenues as the northern chieftain motored to his hotel, while sirens and whistles were tooted in welcome.

Vargas has ordered a special train be made ready by the Central Railroad and will soon come north, it is understood, leading a triumphal entry of southern revolutionary soldiers into the capital.

Rio was quiet today, following the military police mutiny of yesterday.

CAMPBELL ANXIOUS TO FACE JURY, CONFIDENT HIS STORY WILL BRING HIM VINDICATION

"The MAN in the GREEN HAT"

Rum Buyers in Capitol Indicted As Law Violators by Cassiday

Court of Public Opinion Will Judge Them, He Believes.

Predicts That Members Will One Day Vote as They Drink.

By GEORGE L. CASSIDAY
"The Man In the Green Hat."

When I began operating back in 1920, just after national prohibition went into effect, conditions on Capitol Hill were very different from what they are now. My "dry" customers were mostly from Western and Southern States, which had already adopted State-wide prohibition. These members had continued to get their liquor at home and they felt no different about national prohibition. They regarded it as no crime to have an occasional drink in their residences at Washington or in their offices.

My "wet" customers in Congress argued that prohibition had been foisted on the country during the war and felt no pangs of conscience about nonobservance of the law. I have had many a good lawyer in Congress, including men who had served on the bench in their own States or who were later promoted to the Federal bench, tell me that the whole prohibition system was "unconstitutional."

Both the "wets" and the "drys," however, as I encountered them in Congress, seemed to regard prohibition as a fixture back in the early days when it first went into effect and I met only a few Congressmen who looked for early repeal or modification in the law.

Along the Seventieth Congress there came a marked change. I would say that today in the Seventy-first Congress more of the members are looking ahead to the end of prohibition, in its present form, than ever before in the last 10 years.

Naturally, I discussed the prohibition question with a good many Congressmen and Senators and when they talked to me I believe I got their views pretty straight from the shoulder. I remember one Congressman who used to vote for all the enforce-

COURT REJECTS PLEA OF DIRECTED VERDICT

Goddard Proceeds With Slug Study After Bullet Tests.

SUSPECT'S WIFE DUE TO BE CALLED TODAY

(Picture on Page Two.)

Herbert M. Campbell will take the stand in his own defense against the Government charge that he killed Mary Baker.

Meanwhile, Col. Calvin Goddard is proceeding with his examination of test bullets fired yesterday through which he declares he will demonstrate to the jury by use of a microscope the infallibility of ballistics.

As the Government closed its case about noon yesterday, Lucien H. Vandoren, of the defense counsel, moved for a directed verdict of acquittal, which Judge Jesse C. Adkins refused and thereupon the defense outlined the case it will present to the court.

Anxious to Testify.

Campbell seemed pleased that the directed verdict acquittal was refused. "I want to get on that stand and tell that jury my story. I regard a directed verdict as a technical knock-out of the Government's case. What I want is for that jury to say that I am innocent and I know it will," he said.

Col. Goddard has said that it will take from two hours to 24 hours to tell which of the ten bullets were fired from the five guns selected for the experiment by Dr. Albert H. Hamilton, defense expert.

Col. Goddard, observed by Dr. Hamilton and his son Robert, worked all yesterday over the microscope on the test bullets. He stopped work at 7 o'clock last night. He says he hopes to complete the examinations today.

Mrs. Campbell to Testify.

Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, wife of the accused, will be called upon today to tell her story of the evening of April 11 and the whereabouts of her husband on that night.

The defense also plans to call the owners of the beads and a book which was found in the trap sewer with Mary Baker's clothing and which later proved to have been stolen from cars parked in the vicinity of the Ellipse, where the girl was last seen alive.

Mrs. F. X. Sommer, of 386 Tulip avenue, owner of the beads; Hasell H. Burgwin, of 1775 Massachusetts avenue, owner of the book, and Miss Ruth G. Capon, of the Tabard Inn, to whom Burgwin loaned the book and from whose car it was stolen, have been summoned by the defense.

It is evident that the defense intends to attempt to demonstrate by these witnesses that the murder of the girl was probably committed by a parked-car thief, whom Miss Baker may have surprised in the act of stealing things from her automobile.

Through these witnesses Mr. Vandoren will also strive to demonstrate the likelihood that the gloves which were found in the trap basin, which Campbell at first identified as his and then repudiated the identification, were likewise stolen from an automobile.

Dr. Hamilton, defense expert, who has disagreed with Col. Goddard, Dr. Wilmer Souder and Lieut. John H. Fowler in identification of the death gun, will probably be placed on the stand tomorrow, according to Mr. Vandoren.

Mr. Vandoren's opening address held the courtroom transfixed as he out-

TAKE LEAD IN SERIES

By BOB CONSIDINE.

A uniformly good team defeated a sporadically brilliant one yesterday at Central Stadium before an unwieldy crowd of 10,000 when Hap Hardell's Tech middleweights mowed down a slightly slower and slightly heavier Central combination by the score of 18 to 0 to take the undisputed lead in the high school football series.

Tech took the opening kick-off straight down from its 35-yard line to a touchdown, with the ball mostly in the crock of Quarter Back George Sachs' arm. The fleet signal caller gained 49 yards in five rushes, his last sprint placing the oval on a frantic Central team's 1-yard line. Gormley hit left guard hard for the tally. Nelson's pass to Wohlfarth for the extra point went wide.

Tech's victory yesterday served a two-fold purpose, elevating the Manual Trainers to an undisputed lead in the series with two victories and no defeats and breaking the tie that had existed in its long football rivalry with Central that dates back to 1902. Tech has now won twelve games and Central eleven, with five tied.

It was drive, drive, drive all the time for the Manual Trainers, as they turned back the only serious impediment standing in their way to a third successive high school championship. Sachs, Gormley and Reichman kept up a constant series of faked and genuine spinner plays that clicked with errorless regularity as the ball advanced goalward. Dick Nelson's clever toe pulled Tech out of the hole when Central's three big offenses petered out in the shadow of the champions' goal.

Tech went scoreless in the second period in face of Central's then well-functioning attack.

But Tech's smooth offense told in the third period. Taking advantage of a break—reminiscent of the fumble which enabled Tech to tie the score against Central last year—Luther Goldman raced in and snatched a pass from Pinckney's

Divorced Five Times, Man to Marry Again

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 28 (A.P.). A record of five marriages and divorces did not deter Arthur W. Sleeper, 72, from embarking upon another matrimonial venture today. He filed notice of intention to wed Mrs. Mary Curtis, 69, of Calabasas, where he is a Justice of the Peace.

"I know I am doing a brave thing," Mrs. Curtis said to the license clerk. "But I think it is worth it."

She made affidavit she had been married twice but without divorce, both husbands having died.

Woods Reports Campaign, as Winter Approaches, Takes Big Spurt.

The campaign to rid the jobless horde of want in the lean winter months advanced with definite strides yesterday as the Federal Government made plans to create more opportunities for work and outside agencies began functioning to relieve local distress.

Announcements of the Government's action, coupled with reports from different sections of the country of the steps taken by voluntary organizations, greeted Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee for employment, on his return late yesterday from New York.

The members of the staff he recruited there will meet with him today. Dr. Lillian M. Gilberth, consulting engineer, of Montclair, N. J., is

SMITH LAYS SLUMP IN PART TO TARIFF

PLEDGES HELD BROKEN

Boston, Oct. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Before an audience of 15,000 here tonight, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith blamed the Grundy tariff for "a great deal" of the business depression and President Hoover for breaking his pre-election pledges about that tariff.

He charged that the President abandoned his program of "limited revision" and "scientific tariff making," because Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, filler of the Republican campaign chest, "demanded the full delivery of the goods—and at once."

"And he walked out with it, too," declared the former governor while the crowd burst into laughter.

He charged also that Democratic members of the ways and means committee had been excluded from preliminary hearings on the new schedules.

As for President Hoover, who declared his intention of signing the tariff bill "even before the ink of Speaker Longworth, of the House, was dry on the bill," Mr. Smith asserted that "he must have known in that long year and five months of debate what was going into that bill. How could any reasonable person think otherwise?"

"How does the Republican party square its platform pledges and the promises of its candidates with its performance on the tariff?" he continued. "They can't do it. They've just got to take a plea and throw themselves on the mercy of the American people."

There were shouts of laughter when the former governor demanded, "What's become of that chicken that

Gas Overcomes Rescuers Attempting to Aid Miners

Deadly Afterdamp Drives Back Squads at Oklahoma Mine Before They Can Reach Spot Where 29 Men Were Entombed and One Killed in Blast.

McAlester, Okla., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Fighting deadly afterdamp and handicapped by debris, rescue crews continued efforts tonight to reach lower levels of the Wheatley No. 4 mine, where a blast last night entombed 29 men and killed William Donley, working at the ninth mouth.

Lessie Rosso, working with Donley, was injured when he was hurled against the tipple. John Moore, a gassed rescue worker, was taken to a McAlester hospital in an unconscious condition.

Sixty-one men, most of them from neighboring mines, formed the rescue party. Several were overcome by the gas.

Workers who ventured too far into the mine were driven back, choking, to better air.

A report that reached the engine house late today that bodies of four men had been sighted on the sixteenth level, was discounted tonight.

A chance that some may have escaped the terrific blast, which was heard 2 miles away, and the coal damp that followed, led workers to redouble their efforts to break through rock falls, restore ventilation and reach the levels where the men were trapped.

A group of seven who went into the shaft this afternoon, returned to the surface after three hours' work to report they believed they had been within about 400 feet of the victims. Walter Tate, one of the rescuers, said the gas at that point still was too dense to permit him to go farther.

Three falls of debris had been bridged this afternoon to permit rapid removal of any of the men found alive. A half dozen ambu-

30 Jones-Act Indictments Set New Record in Capital

Score of Cars Seized in Latest Rum Drive; Rover's Policy May Cause City Again to Lead Nation in Convictions Under Law.

The greatest blow ever dealt the bootleg racket in Washington was put over yesterday when the District of Columbia grand jury handed down 30 indictments charging violation of the provisions of the Jones 5-and-10 act, which carries with it maximum penalties of $5,000 and 10 years imprisonment.

Thirty individuals are named in the indictments, although there are a number who are indicted more than once along with other persons. The number is the largest in the history of the District since the passage of the Jones act and is said to be a record for the country.

The District led the Nation last year in the convictions of cases under the Jones law and under the new system inaugurated by police and the United States Attorney's office it is expected that the District will lead the Nation this year even to a greater extent.

This follows United States Attorney Leo A. Rover's new policy of presenting cases sent to the grand jury the week after arraignment in Police Court, and also indicates that Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of Police Court prosecution, knew what he was talking about when he urged police to make "bigger and better" liquor cases instead of so many little ones.

More than 1,000 gallons of liquor and a score of automobiles are said to have been seized in the captures which led to return of the 30 indictments.

NO TURNING BACK

The cry of "back to normal" should be changed to "forward to better things!" We do not want to go back to any previous condition. The American people prefer higher standards at the same cost rather than the same standards at lower cost. This is proved by the demand for every commodity. When prices decline as they recently have the public expends the same amount in securing advantages of quality or service. The man who is accustomed to spending fifty dollars for a suit of clothes continues to spend that amount even though his accustomed quality is now available at a lower figure . . . Those to whom the lowering of commodity prices is not apparent will find this to be the reason for a constant level of expenses.

lined the defense, describing the activities of his client on April 11, the day of the murder.

"Charles Henry Smith," he began, "who was scheduled to make this address, is ill, and although in court, has been warned by his physician against using his voice. He has an abscessed ear which precludes his making the opening address."

Then he detailed the account of Campbell's movements during the afternoon and evening of the murder. "If we succeed in proving our outline, Herbert M. Campbell did not and could not have been responsible for the murder of Mary Baker. We will prove that Herbert Campbell never saw or knew Mary Baker. We will also demonstrate to you by experts that Campbell's gun did not kill Mary Baker," he said.

Mrs. Campbell Hears "Low Down" on Herself

There was a much embarrassed woman in the corridors of the District Supreme Court Building yesterday.

Some buxom woman, with a penchant for "gassing," struck up a chance conversation with a woman of small stature. The buxom lady proceeded to tell the small woman all about the Campbell trial.

The smaller woman heard her acquaintance malign Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell to a fare-thee-well. "In fact," said the buxom woman, "I don't see why she hasn't been questioned."

"Have you seen Mrs. Campbell?" asked the buxom one.

"No," said the smaller one.

"You know," said the buxom one in a whisper, "Mrs. Campbell looks much older than Campbell."

"Oh, yeah?"

"Is Mrs. Campbell in the courtroom now?" asked the buxom one.

"No," replied the second one. "I am Mrs. Campbell."

The buxom one leaned on a railing for support. When she had regained her composure she exclaimed: "Why, Mrs. Campbell, it's a shame the way people are talking! Why, you're just a young girl! You ought to do something to stop these people from talking. You should have your picture taken. You're beautiful!"

Mrs. Parsons First Witness.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Parsons, who lives at 2100 Nineteenth street northwest, was the first witness called by the defense.

"On April 11 where did you meet Herbert M. Campbell?" asked Mr. Vandoren.

"At the Investment Building?

"What time was it?"

"About 2:30."

"Where did you go?"

"We took a ride to Virginia."

"How long were you with him?"

With Campbell Many Times.

"How long have you known Campbell?"

"About five years."

"Did you park near Sheridan Gate?"

"Yes, for about a half hour."

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins sought to learn the last occasion on which she went riding with Campbell. She replied that she had been out with him so many times she did not remember.

"Is it true, Mrs. Parsons, that he called you on July 4?" asked Mr. Collins.

"Yes sir, I think that was the date."

"What did he say?"

"He told me that he didn't want me to get my name into the case and that if I was questioned I should say that I was in Arlington County with him looking at some real estate."

"Do you remember Campbell warning you about calling because he believed the wires were tapped?"

"No, sir."

Grocer Tells of Visit.

Harry Taisoff, a grocer in Virginia Highlands, testified that Campbell had stopped in his store at 5:30 one night and asked for a cake box, saying that his wife had baked a cake for a friend. Under cross-examination by Mr. Collins, he admitted that he did not know upon what day this occurred.

Carroll W. Lee, a contractor of Virginia Highlands, was shown a check by Mr. Vandoren, which the witness said he had given to Campbell about 5:40 o'clock on the night of the murder. It was dated April 11. After giving him the check, he said Campbell left his home and went in the direction of the Campbell home.

Mr. and Mrs. Green Testify.

"You did not come forward with this check when Campbell was in Arlington County Jail did you?" asked Mr. Collins.

"No. I came across it later while checking my account. I noticed that it was dated April 11 and I told Frank Campbell about it, which I thought was the right thing to do."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Green testified that at about 6 o'clock on the night of April 11 (about the time that Mary Baker was seen being attacked) they went to Campbell's home and talked with him about some lighting fixtures for their home. Horace Mudd, a paperhanger of Alexandria, was with them on the occasion, they said, but remained outside in a car.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Collins, Mrs. Green said that she remembered the date because on the following day, April 12, they moved into their home which they had purchased. It was in connection with lights for their home that they visited Campbell, she said.

Memory Is Refreshed.

"Why didn't you come forward earlier in the case?" asked Mr. Collins.

"I did not remember."

"Didn't Frank Campbell discuss the case with you and refresh your memory?"

"Yes."

"When police officers discussed the case with you who was present?"

"My mother."

"Wasn't the remark made that Mary Baker got what she deserved?"

"I don't remember."

Witness Is Stirred.

Horace Mudd, the paperhanger, proved to be the most belligerent of the defense witnesses.

Under examination by Mr. Vandoren he corroborated the stories of the Greens.

"When did you first come forward with your story?" asked Mr. Collins.

"In August."

"Why didn't you come forward earlier?"

"I didn't remember the incident."

"Was your memory any better in August than in July?"

"Of course not," he barked at Mr. Collins, "If I asked you what you had for breakfast on——"

"That's enough," interrupted Mr. Collins.

Telegram Is Introduced.

Warren T. Norwood testified that the Postal Telegraph Co. had called Campbell's office to deliver a telegram.

Mr. Vandoren introduced in evidence as defense exhibits a copy of the telegram which A. T. Lutz, manager of the Postal Telegraph Co., said he delivered to a person who called there at 6:08 or 6:13 o'clock on the night of the murder. Norwood had notified Campbell that a telegram was awaiting him.

Mr. Lutz said that the person to whom he delivered the telegram said that he was Herbert Campbell.

Telephone Man Testifies.

J. A. Deutermann, manager of the Clarendon office of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., testified that Campbell had made three calls from his home on the afternoon of the murder. One was to National 8800 at 3 p. m.; a second was to Alexandria 84 at 6:13 o'clock, and a third to Decatur 5922 at 6:26 o'clock.

The Alexandria call was to the Postal Telegraph Co., and the Decatur call was to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mishel Manoukian, of this city, on a business proposition, according to Mr. Vandoren.

Thomas A. King, who lives at 1329 Harvard street, a scoutmaster of Troop 69, told the court that on April 11 Mr. Campbell brought his stepson to a scout meeting at the Columbia Heights Christian Church. Edwin Callahan, the stepson, is a member of his troop.

Stepson Is Mentioned.

According to King's testimony, Campbell and the boy arrived there about 7:30 o'clock. Three other boy scouts, Charles Wenrich, Charles Morris and William Hunt, were there when they arrived, according to Mr. King.

Mr. Vandoren asked the witness to have the boys present today. One of the boys will introduce a register of the troop which will show, according to the defense, that Edwin Callahan was present on that night.

Then, continuing with the chronological development of the defense case, Mrs. Marion Steuart, of 630 Hamilton street northwest, testified that Campbell had visited her home from 7:30 or 8 o'clock until after 9 o'clock.

"Didn't Campbell make a long distance call to you from Montreal?" asked Mr. Collins.

"Yes," she replied.

"What was the nature of the call?"

"I don't remember."

"Didn't you also receive a special-delivery letter from him?"

"Yes."

"What was the nature of the message?"

"I don't recall."

Box Purchase Is Cited.

Charles W. Fastnaught, of 1219 Thirty-first street northwest, testified that Campbell stopped at Schneider's Bakery one night in April and obtained a cake box. He did not know what night it was.

Edwin Callahan, the stepson, was the last witness of the day. He corroborated the stories of the time of Campbell's arrival home, his departure for the scout meeting and his attendance at the meeting.

Other witnesses to be called by the defense today are Mrs. Harry Taisoff, wife of the grocer; Mr. and Mrs. John W. McLane, of Falls Church, Va., who will testify that they had a conversation with Campbell by telephone soon after 6 o'clock on the night of April 11, and Mrs. Anna Good, a friend of Mrs. Campbell, for whom the defendant's wife baked a birthday cake.

Plea for Directed Verdict.

Mr. Vandoren based his argument for the directed verdict on the grounds that the Government had not established a prima facie case. "No venue has been proved," he said, "and it has not even been shown that Mary Baker was the person seen in the automobile in the Ellipse."

"From the time that she left her friends after attending church," Mr. Vandoren said, "we have absolutely nothing until Mary Baker's body was found the next day in a culvert. The Government case seems to rely upon conjecture. There is not a scintilla of evidence to prove that Mary Baker was even in the car when killed. Venue remains to be established."

In reply, Mr. Collins said that the defense attorney had "based his motion on his interpretation of the facts and not the facts themselves." Mr. Collins cited Federal statutes which prove that a defendant may be brought to trial in the jurisdiction where the injury was committed as well as where the person died. He also pointed out another section of the code which provides that where there has been an attack from which death might result the person responsible for the attack might be placed on trial in the jurisdiction where the attack occurred if death should result.

Court Upholds Prosecution.

Mr. Collins said that there was ample testimony that the crime was committed in the District. In support of this he cited medical testimony and testimony of the witnesses of the Ellipse atack.

Justice Adkins ruled that there was sufficient evidence shown and testimony given to warrant the giving of the case to the jury. "In my opinion, there is sufficient evidence to indicate that the crime occurred in the District of Columbia," he said.

Mr. Vandoren made an exception to the ruling. Then he asked the Court upon which count, choking or shooting, did the Government elect to go to trial on.

Mr. Collins said that the jury should be allowed to decide this for itself. The Court agreed with Mr. Collins.

Procedure of Gun Tests.

The bullets for the crucial tests were fired in a guarded room across from the District Supreme Court Building. Only attorneys for both sides, the jury, Dr. Hamilton and Court Clerk Wesley Gardner were present. The number of shots fired from each of the five guns is known only to the court clerk. Ten bullets in all were fired.

Mr. Gardner placed secret marks on the bullets and only he knows which bullets were fired from the same gun. Dr. Hamilton was permitted to select the four guns which, with the Campbell pistol, were used in the tests.

When the bullets had been fired they were placed in one envelope and were transmitted to Col. Goddard who will attempt to classify them according to their similarity and the guns from which they were fired.

Final Prosecution Witnesses.

Mr. Collins has announced that if Col. Goddard fails in his tests he will ask for a directed verdict of acquittal for Campbell.

Robert R. Dye, superintendent of Arlington Cemetery, and Mildred Sperry, housemate of the dead girl, were the last witnesses called by the prosecution. Mr. Dye testified that he had seen a car parked near the spot where Mary Baker's automobile was found on April 12.

Sheriff Dies in Battle As Robbers Loot Bank

Harrison, Mont., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Sheriff Frank Metzel was killed by robbers who looted the Harrison State Bank of between $2,000 and $2,500 last night.

Two of the trio of robbers escaped on foot after exchanging shots with half a dozen officers who had surrounded the bank on a tip that there would be a robbery. They were being sought near here today. One was believed to be wounded. The third man was trapped in the bank and captured. He said he was Ralph Harrington, of Butte, Mont.

EMPLOYES TRUSSED AS PAIR GETS GEMS

$150,000 In Jewelry Taken When Safe Combination Is Obtained.

PORTER FORCED TO AID

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—After keeping the staff of a Broadway jewelry shop cowering under their guns for more than hour today, two robbers forced the Negro porter to get the combination of the safe by telephone from the owner of the establishment and escaped with gems valued at more than $150,000.

One of them was dressed as a messenger boy. He presented an envelope to Charles Lewis, the porter, a trusted employe of fourteen years' service, then forced his way into the store which is next to the Capitol Theater, at Fiftieth street and Broadway, at the point of a pistol.

Confederate Is Admitted.

The "messenger" admitted a well-dressed confederate and the two trussed up the porter with wire in a chair near the door.

As the clerks arrived for work, the porter admitted them with one free arm and the robbers tied them up.

They waited, apparently at ease, until the manager, Julius Fox, arrived. They asked him for the combination to the safe, but he declared, "You've scared me so it's gone clean from my mind."

Scooped Up Jewelry.

Still undisturbed they forced Lewis to the telephone and made him call up the owner, Joseph Rosenthal, to get the figures that would open the safe. The well-dressed robber listened as Rosenthal talked, and in a minute the safe was opened and the robbers were scooping out the jewelry. They stuffed a small black leather bag and left.

It wats 15 minutes before one of the clerks freed himself from the picture wire that bound him, and turned in an alarm. Police said the robbers overlooked a packet of uncut diamonds in their haste.

The missing jewels were insured for $150,000, and Mr. Rosenthal said the loss probably would not amount to much more than that.

Alleged Bank Looter Caught in Hollywood

Los Angeles, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—H. Edward Jackson, 25, alleged embezzler of $72,000 from the First National Bank of Laurel, Miss., was arrested at a fashionable Hollywood hotel today. Taken to the City Jail, he was booked on the charge made in a fugitive warrant telegraphed from Mississippi.

Claim to $325,000 Estate Backed by Freak Thumbs

Right-Angle Digits Held Up in Court by Emery "Heir," to Show He Possesses Rare Family Characteristic.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—A man held up his thumbs in Chancery Court here today to substantiate his claim to inheritance of a $325,000 trust fund.

He was James E. Nicholson, jr., of Baltimore, one of eleven claimants to a fund established for a grandson by the late William E. Emery, of Flemington. The heir is said to have been missing since birth. Vivian E. Cornelius, of Surrey, England, heir to a similar fund, asserts there is no grandson and seeks the bequest now in litigation.

Nicholson's thumbs, when extended, were at right angles to his forefingers, the tips pointing downward. Witnesses testified that the father of the missing heir had a similar characteristic.

Held Rare Deformity.

The father, Francis F. Georger, and the mother, Florence Emery, are dead. Dr. Henry S. Kessler, orthopedic expert, said the characteristic was very rare and termed it a "symmetrical congenital deformity."

Testifying to other physical resemblances, Mrs. May T. Higgins, of Plainfield, cousin of Mrs. Georger, said Nicholson's profile, mouth, teeth, nose and shoulders were similar to those of the Georgers and of Emery.

In opposing the claim, counsel for Cornelius introduced evidence to show no child was born to Mrs. Georger at Washington in 1896, when the alleged heir was supposed to have been born and placed in the care of one Sophie Landgraf.

Only Five Are Present.

Only five of the eleven claimants appeared. The trustees of the fund, the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, seeks a court disposition of the estate.

Counsel from Baltimore, New York, Newark and elsewhere, with the claimants, witnesses and a curious crowd, filled the little courtroom of Vice Chancellor John H. Backes.

The other claimants who appeared and will be heard are Leo Sova, of Milwaukee; Herbert Thompson, of Middleboro, Mass.; Albert Childers and Howard M. Offutt, whose addresses are not available.

Population Suit Lost by Atlanta

Official Figure Remains at 270,367 as Justice Dismisses Case.

Officially the city of Atlanta will be recorded in the 1930 census as having a population of 270,367, an action brought by the city to force the Census Bureau to raise that figure to 360,692 having been dismissed yesterday by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in the District Supreme Court.

Justice Siddons ruled that Census Director Steuart had no power under the law to take populations of cities, except to determine State populations; therefore the court could not order him to do something he had no power to do in the first place.

Atlanta, under a Georgia State legislative act of 1929, was grouped with five other outlying towns and fifteen unincorporated communities into "Greater Atlanta" which has a population of 360,692. Director Steuart issued Atlanta's population as 270,367, covering the "borough of Atlanta" as it was previous to 1929, and appended a note explaining that the larger area was entitled to the 360,692 population. City officials of Atlanta indicated they might seek an injunction to prevent publication of populations of other cities without giving Atlanta the higher figure.

Women's Retreat House Dedicated

The Right Rev. John A. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, yesterday officiated at dedication ceremonies for the Washington Retreat House, new Catholic institution for women on Harewood road northeast.

This structure, erected by the Franciscan Sisters of the Atonement, is in a secluded section, between the southern boundaries of the Catholic University of America and the north side of the Soldiers' Home Grounds. It was meant to attract retreatants who desire restful and quiet surroundings. There are accommodations for 35 to 40.

Assisting Bishop McNamara were the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception; the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, of St. Francis Xavier Church, and the Rev. Francis X. Cavanaugh, of St. Martin's Church. The Right Rev. Mgr. Edward A. Pace attended the exercises as a representative of the Catholic University.

Following the dedication program, solemn benediction was offered by Bishop McNamara in the chapel of the new retreat house.

Unknown Escapes Pauper's Grave

Crash Victim, Disinterred From Arlington, Again Buried.

The body of the automobile crash victim killed September 14 near Baltimore, Md., and given a military funeral in Arlington Cemetery as "Robert J. Marcey," yesterday was reburied at Cedar Hill Cemetery, thus escaping a pauper's grave.

Marcey's reappearance at his Lyonhurst, Va., home after a prolonged absence created a joyful scene in the Marcey home and provided the village with a sensation not soon to be forgotten.

The unidentified man buried at Arlington was disinterred when it was learned that he had no service record. It had lain for six weeks at the District Morgue awaiting claimants. Through arrangements made by W. W. Chambers, local undertaker; Superintendent W. H. Harrison, of the cemetery, and the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, of the Grace Lutheran Church, the body escaped a potter's field burial.

Two Shot Dead in Car; Murder, Suicide Seen

Alton, Ill., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The bodies of Lester McCormick, business agent of the Building Trades Council here, and his once intimate friend, Frank Jefferson, both shot to death, were found today in McCormick's automobile in front of his home here.

Indications were that Jefferson shot McCormick, then turned his revolver on himself. Jefferson, about 35 years old, had threatened to kill McCormick, police were told, because he thing to do with the action of Mrs. Jefferson in obtaining a divorce recently. McCormick was 32 years old. Jefferson had no occupation, police said, being classed as an occasional bootlegger.

Philadelphia Indicts 85 Election Officers

Philadelphia, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Eighty-five election officers, comprising the boards of seventeen districts, were indicted here today for alleged fraud in the primary of last May.

Man's Bond Fixed In Driving Charge

Condition of Young Woman in Auto Crash Said to Be Serious.

William Gray, 25 years old, of Fifth street, near G street northwest, who was charged with reckless driving and leaving after colliding, following an automobile accident in which several persons were seriously injured Sunday night, yesterday demanded a jury trial in Police Court when he was brought before Judge Ralph Given. Bond was fixed at $700.

Gray was hunted for more than 36 hours after the accident until he gave himself up to police at the First Precinct.

Miss Gertrude Harris, 20 years old, who was a passenger in Gray's car when it collided with a taxicab at Twelfth and G streets, is in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital, suffering from peritonitis and a fractured jaw. Mrs. Eleanor Yate, who was in the taxicab and who suffered a fractured back, will recover, hospital officials said.

IT'S DAYLIGHT---

Open wide the windows of your mind. Let the sunlight of encouraging facts light up the dusty corners and the fresh winds of optimistic truths blow away the cobwebs. Business is on the upward swing, not a spectacular one, but progressing surely and steadily toward a solid, economic future.

Here in Washington we are especially fortunate. The United States Government—largest cash buyer of real estate in the world—has acquired vast new properties, putting millions of dollars into circulation, and assuring steady work in the construction fields for several years to come.

The Government is not the only optimist concerning Washington's future. A financial genius from the South and another from the West have in the last eight months bought real estate here totaling millions. They bought, not in an altruistic mind to boost Washington, but because they realize that real estate in the Nation's Capital is a sound investment.

Surely, then, First Mortgage Notes on this valuable real estate are the logically safe investment for your savings. As the Capital of the Nation is sound, so are the investments in it. And throughout times such as the country has just experienced, these notes have been steady; unfailing in return, and at par every day in the year.

We have much cheerful food for thought. Conditions are better all over the country, and particularly encouraging here. Give yourself a mental twist and face the daylight.

G. O. P. SENATORIAL FIGHT COST $47,005

Mrs. McCormick Refuses to Account for Sums to Spy on Nye.

CANDIDATES ALSO FILE

(Associated Press.)

The campaign report of the Republican senatorial committee was filed yesterday showing expenditures of $47,005 up to October 22, most of which was spent in Western States.

The committee sent $10,000 into both Montana and Colorado, where Republican senatorial nominees face stiff contests. The money sent to Montana was given to Joseph A. Hanlon, of Helena, while that sent to Colorado went to A. H. Hahn, of Denver.

Meanwhile, another Republican senatorial nominee, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in Illinois, submitted her campaign expenses to the Senate with announcement that she would make no accounting for "private investigators" employed by her to check up on activities of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee in its inquiry into her primary expenditures.

Statement by Mrs. McCormick.

"While it was intimated," Mrs. McCormick said in her report, "by Chairman Gerald P. Nye during the course of the hearings held at Chicago on September 16 by the special committee of the Senate investigating campaign expenditures of senatorial candidates, that I should account for my expenditures for private investigators engaged by me during the summer of 1930, I am not reporting such expenditures herein, because of the fact, and upon opinion of counsel, that such expenditures were not made in aid or support of my candidacy for election, and, therefore, are not items required to be reported by the terms of the Federal corrupt practices act, 1925."

Mrs. McCormick listed her campaign expenditures at $10,842, and contributions to her campaign at $12,052. James Hamilton Lewis, her Democratic opponent, Monday reported expenditures of $13,877.

The Republican senatorial committee's report which was filed by Theodore Gary, of Kansas City, treasurer, listed contributions of $50,000 to the committee from the Republican national committee.

List of Disbursements.

The following disbursements to Republican candidates were reported:

Senator McMaster, of South Dakota, $2,500; Senator McNary, of Oregon, $5,000; L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, $5,000; Herbert B. Holt, of New Mexico, $2,500; and George M. Pritchard, of North Carolina, $2,000.

The committee also sent $7,500 to George E. Brimmer, of Wyoming, where there is a senatorial contest.

Albert J. Galen, Republican nominee in Montana, filed his accounting yesterday, listing no contributions to himself and expenditures of $1,049 of which $500 was given to the Republican State central committee.

G. O. P. SENATE EDGE SAFE, MOSES HOLDS

34 SEATS ARE AT STAKE

(Associated Press.)

Optimistic over the outlook in Republican senatorial contests in the East, Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, the chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, yesterday predicted that the next Senate will be "safely Republican."

Senator Moses, at conferences with party leaders here, reported that "prospects have brightened" considerably for the Republicans in the Atlantic seaboard States, "from Massachusetts to Delaware."

"I think we shall meet some net losses in the election the extent of which I hesitate to state in detail," he said. "I would expect, however, that when we are all through, the Senate will be safely Republican.

"In some States where we had gloomy forebodings the prospects have brightened. In others, where our hopes were high, we have encountered unforeseen difficulties, but the net result will be as I have stated."

The campaign chairman said he referred to the contests in the East when he spoke of brightened prospects.

Democratic leaders have been slow to claim a majority in the next Senate, although Senator Tydings, of Maryland, the chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, is very hopeful of such a result.

There are 35 seats at stake in the 1930 elections. Representative White, of Maine, a Republican, already has been elected to one of these. Of the remaining 34 the Republicans now hold 21 and the Democrats 13. Ten of the Democrats up for election are in the normally Democratic South. All the 21 Republicans face contests. The Republicans now have a majority of 16.

HOUSE CANDIDATES FOR REPEAL IN POLL

99 ARE FOR RETENTION

(Associated Press.)

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced yesterday that 371 replies to 823 questionnaires it sent to congressional candidates to ascertain their prohibition views showed 265 for and 99 against repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Henry H. Curran, president of the association, added that "scattering answers favored modification of the Volstead act or putting the question of repeal up to popular vote of the people and a few candidates evaded the question entirely."

The questionnaire, Mr. Curran said, asked: "Do you favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment?" He said that 265 replied "Yes" and "only 99 asserted their support of the amendment."

How Sections Responded.

"The replies," he continued, "showed the candidates in the Northeastern seaboard and Great Lakes States to be strongly against the amendment with a total of 162 for repeal to 25 for retention of the dry law. "Similarly the Midwestern States showed a preponderant protest with 78 answers for repeal and 26 dry replies.

"The answers from States west of the Rockies showed thirteen for repeal against nine for retention. The South, however, continues to show most candidates supporting the amendment, with 39 negative replies to 11 for repeal.

"On the basis of replies received, repeal and antirepeal fights will be staged in 34 of the 48 States. Repeal candidates are in congressional races in such hitherto dry States as Iowa, Arkansas, Texas, Oregon, Utah, West Virginia and Vermont.

One Ohioan for Amendment.

"From Ohio, the home of the Anti-saloon League, only one dry candidate had the temerity to say that he favored the eighteenth amendment, whereas fourteen other candidates answered for outright repeal.

"In Illinois the ratio was even greater, with 26 repealers against only 3 drys.

Machine Gunner Sought In Campaign Shooting

Chicago, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The name of "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, a gangster whom police seek to question after nearly every gang affray, was brought into the investigation today of the first violence of the election campaign.

Harry Haas, Democratic precinct captain, who was shot and probably fatally wounded by two men last night, said that one of the men resembled pictures he had seen of McGurn. Haas is a worker for Sanitary District Trustee John J. Touhy. The men gained entrance to Haas' rooming house by posing as political friends.

Delinquency Issue Outlined by Judge

(Associated Press.)

A national juvenile delinquency problem described as so pressing that "in sheer size it threatens our smug door-steps" was outlined yesterday by Judge Frederick P. Cabot, of the Boston Juvenile Court, in a report for presentation at the coming White House Child Conference.

Mr. Cabot, chairman of the juvenile delinquency committee, reported that almost 1 per cent of the children of juvenile court age came before the court as delinquents in a single year in the area for which statistics were available.

These delinquent children, he said, are still treated too much like criminal adults.

Abbott also was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of operating a smoke screen. Police declared that when they seized him after a blinding chase they found the smoke screen in the automobile.

The chase, which began at 3 o'clock on the morning of October 11 at Fifth and W streets northwest, ended many blocks away only when Abbott and the driver attempted to escape afoot, according to police. Abbott was seized, but the driver made a getaway. Two hundred and forty half gallons of whisky were found in the machine, it was declared, and it was for this that Abbott faces the Jones law charge.

Only one person charged with violating the prohibition act was excused by the grand jury. He is Diaz Paris, and it was understood that evidence was of an insufficient nature.

KELLEY'S CHARGES BRANDED AS FALSE

WILBUR ALSO REPLIES

after a study, has declared them unfounded.

President Hoover said out of 8,000,000 acres of Government holdings of such lands, the administration had approved old claims for some 43,000 acres arising under the mineral law prior to 1920.

"Under my orders no leases or titles have been passed under the new law," the President said.

Says Charges Baseless.

He added that of these oil claims, Kelley had approved about 20,000 acres, the court ordered about 16,000 acres and about 7,000 acres came up on appeal to the heads of the department for decision, only part of which Kelley had opposed on technical grounds. Further, the President said, these lands, instead of being worth billions, can be bought from private owners for a few dollars per acre.

Painstaking investigation by Attorney General Mitchell, and Seth Richardson, an Assistant Attorney General, of the "records upon every statement and innuendo made by Kelley," was said by the President to have proved them "baseless, without merit or substance."

Pointing out that Mr. Kelley had been called from Denver to Washington during the summer for about six weeks, Mr. Hoover said he had given no hint then of his charges, but at that time was negotiating for their publication.

Files Always Open.

In his letter Mr. Work said the department files were always open to inspection and that he did not believe any had been destroyed. He described the departmental routine and said "at no time was I urged to rule in favor of any individual or corporate organization by any member of Congress from Colorado or elsewhere."

"Party politics was never intruded into the departmental decisions," he added.

"Complaints were frequent and recurring against Mr. Kelley by homesteaders, claimants for patents to oil shale lands and from those who wished to buy patented claims. His discharge or transfer from the Denver office was repeatedly urged by citizens under his jurisdiction, but he was protected in his place by Assistant Finney, whom he now assails in the press."

Mr. Work said the Government sold no oil shale land and added:

"I never suspected and refuse to believe that the administration of the oil shale lands in Colorado or other States under my jurisdiction was irregular, unlawful or prompted by political influence or personal gain of a Government employe."

Wilbur Makes Reply.

Mr. Wilbur called attention to the conservation policy inaugurated by the President and said it had been rigidly enforced.

"As to the oil shale lands," he said, "unlike oil prospecting permits, the Secretary is under the law without discretion to refuse the application for patent if the law has been complied with."

He added that in passing upon patent applications, his action "was not in any single case influenced by any personal, political, financial or other interests or pressure and the decision of the General Land Office, of this department and of myself personally have been based on the merits as disclosed by the record."

"My office is, and always has been, open to any man who has business there, including Mr. Kelley, who has never crossed its threshold," he said.

World Answers Hoover.

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The New York World tonight issued the following statement, which it will print in its Wednesday morning edition:

"President Hoover has issued a statement criticizing as 'reckless, baseless and infamous' the charges made against the Department of the Interior by Ralph S. Kelley and published in a 'journal identified with the opposition party.' The journal which Mr. Hoover thus describes is, of course, the World.

"To the best of our knowledge the facts with respect to the Kelley articles are these:

"The articles were prepared by a Government servant, who has an honorable record of more than a quarter of a century behind him in the Department of the Interior. The articles were written, Mr. Kelley informed the World, and the readers of the World, because Mr. Kelley believed that only a public protest on his part could put an end to methods which he regarded as a scandalous betrayal of the public interest.

"Replete With Facts."

"The articles themselves were replete with specific facts, names, dates and figures. They raised questions which seemed to the World at the time and still seem to the World to call for exhaustive investigation. The only investigation which they have had is a brief survey into Secretary Wilbur's department conducted by an agent of one of Secretary Wilbur's colleagues in Mr. Hoover's Cabinet. This agent has denied the accuracy of Mr. Kelley's charges. Mr. Kelley, speaking as the former expert of the Government and speaking on the basis of his 25 years of honest service to the Government, has repeated his charges.

"It seems to us that these charges call for a more thorough investigation than they have yet received, by an agency whose motives are perhaps less partisan. Such an agency is the public lands committee of the Senate. It is quite apparent that the public lands committee will initiate an investigation as soon as Congress meets. It will be time, then, we suggest to Mr. Hoover, to determine precisely how 'reckless, baseless and infamous' Mr. Kelley's charges are."

DEADLY GAS HINDERS RESCUERS' EFFORTS

lances waited near the mine mouth. An emergency hospital had been set up on the ground.

Ventilating fans were kept in operation to clear the mine of gas as barrier after barrier was penetrated.

The first rock barrier on the third level was opened sufficiently to permit workers to squeeze their way through shortly after the blast. The rescuers had reached the fifteenth level at dawn.

Some of the more optimistic said there was some hope for the men if they had closed the ledge doors. The force of the blast appeared to have occurred higher in the mine than where the men were at work and the force usually went upward, they said.

Miller D. Hay, chief mine inspector, however, said he believed all had perished.

RASKOB PROPOSALS RIDICULED BY FESS

Called Hardly Sufficient to Justify Exchange in Administration.

HELD DUBIOUS REMEDIES

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Taking cognizance of suggestions by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, for a referendum on prohibition and a five-day week for workers, United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, in a statement here tonight, said:

"These proposals will not be convincing reasons for the American people to exchange a Republican for a Democratic administration."

Fess, the Republican national chairman, declared the five-day week "an economic problem, to be worked out by industry, rather than a political issue, to become a football of partisan politics." This proposal, he asserted, "must be considered in the light of agriculture as well as industry. It raises the question whether you can increase consumption by decreasing the number of days' labor."

Referring to Raskob's plan for a prohibition referendum, Fess said: "Mr. Raskob's position on the liquor question is well known. His position, as a solution, can not be that of the American people, who will stand by the Constitution as the surest guarantee of liberty under law."

Fess averred the tariff could not be taken out of politics by the appointment of a bipartisan commission of seven, as suggested by Raskob. Such a commission, he added, "would be strictly partisan because the majority would rule. The only way it can be assured to be bipartisan is as in the present law, providing an even number so that each party can be equally represented. Where the Congress reviews the rates recommended by the commission, politics is inevitable."

MORROW TO WIN; FOE IS ECLIPSED

dates who wish they were in Morrow's shoes. Representative Eaton in the Fourth, has been a dry, but he accepted the wet plank in the State platform, a convert, so to speak. Running against him is a man who has always been very wet, and like Mr. Eaton a very upstanding man, Charles Browne. Morrow will probably save Eaton, however, though the sun has not yet arisen for him.

The youngest member of Congress, Fred A. Hartley, jr., who slipped in on a recount in the Democratic Eighth district two years ago, is decidedly up against it. It is doubtful if he can hold his seat.

And Representative Fort's old district, the Ninth, where Peter A. Cavicchia and Daniel F. Minahan are the Republican and Democratic candidates, respectively, is in doubt. The district is strongly wet, admittedly, though Fort with his personal popularity, has always been able to hold it as a dry. Both Cavicchia and Minahan are wets, but in these predominantly wet districts the saturation of the Democrats always has its appeal.

G.O.P. Reorganized In South Carolina

"Mass Convention" Ignores Tolbert Regime; 400 Form New Party.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Formation of a new Republican party in South Carolina was completed here today. J. C. Hambright, of Rock Hill, was elected State chairman.

Approximately 400 attended the "Republican mass convention," which moved according to a prearranged schedule. Joseph W. Tolbert, Republican national committeeman and recognized patronage dispenser for many years, was not present.

No Negroes sat on the first floor of the Columbia Township Auditorium, where the delegates were grouped by counties, but a score were in the balcony. When one attempted to speak, however, he was not recognized and his continued efforts to make himself heard brought only an order from the chairman for the band to play "Dixie."

Judge Kelly Nash, general counsel for the Treasury Department in Washington, was the keynote speaker. He urged unity of party members in the State and lauded President Hoover, declaring him the best friend the South has had in the White House since Abraham Lincoln.

STIMSON, ON RADIO, ASSAILS ROOSEVELT

MRS. PRATT IS PRAISED

(Associated Press.)

The record of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Governor of New York, was assailed last night by Secretary Stimson in a radio address in behalf of the candidacy of Charles H. Tuttle, Republican gubernatorial nominee.

Emphasizing that he was speaking as "a citizen of this State, my home and birthplace," the Cabinet member reviewed recent judicial scandals in New York City and asserted that Gov. Roosevelt had limited grand jury investigations and had "shown his unfitness to deal with the great crisis now confronting New York State."

On the other hand, he described Mr. Tuttle as "a strong, brave, energetic public official," and said "there can be no doubt as to which of these candidates will best serve the public interest in the coming two years."

Mr. Stimson also praised President Hoover and asserted that in the present business depression "common sense indicates that he should be supported during the remainder of his term" by the election of a Republican Congress on November 4.

The Secretary of State concluded with a tribute to Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, of the Seventeenth New York District, in which Mr. Stimson's home is located. He said that she had shown a "loyalty, intelligence and steadiness which will be most valuable during the next two years."

Mr. Stimson spoke from Washington over the Columbia Broadcasting System, which had arranged a hook-up covering New York State.

was to be in every pot? Where were all "them"—and he said "them"—"silk stockings every workman was going to wear." What has become of Republican prosperity—not the prosperity of the United States, but Republican prosperity which was promised to be continued? Instead of that, we have the admission by Republican spokesmen that this is a "critical situation."

Mr. Smith was given a tumultuous welcome when he entered the arena. The huge audience jumped to its feet, stood on chairs, tossed torn paper from the galleries, and yelled so vociferously that it almost drowned out the inevitable Al Smith anthem, "The Sidewalks of New York." Smith marched to the front of the platform, waving his brown derby right and left. The band struck up "Tammany."

On the train journey to Boston, Mr. Smith predicted that Gov. Roosevelt will carry New York State, saying that through friendships he had access to "some of the secrets of the Republicans." The campaign of Tuttle has "fallen flat upstate," he remarked.

Immigration Cut Laid to New Order

Ban on Aliens Who Might Be Publci Charges Credited With Reduction.

(Associated Press.)

The recent order against admitting aliens into the United States who might become public charges was credited yesterday by Immigration Commissioner Hull with causing a 36 per cent decline in September immigration compared with the same month last year.

Mr. Hull announced that 17,792 immigrants were admitted into this country last month, compared with 28,026 in September, 1929. He predicted a further decline in future months. United States citizens returning from abroad last month totaled 80,900, a new record, while there were in addition 10,515 aliens admitted as returning from visits to their native lands.

The total number of immigrants for the quarter from July 1 to September 30 was 45,981, compared with 70,866 for the same period last year.

Boynton Set to Push On in Record Flight

Chicago, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Stanley Boynton, 18-year-old transcontinental flier, plans to take off from here tomorrow for Phoenix, Ariz., if weather conditions are favorable. Should inclement weather prevail he will stop over at Kansas City. Boynton, who is attempting to establish a new junior transcontinental flying record, arrived here this afternoon from Detroit, negotiating the distance in 2 hours and 30 minutes.

He is endeavoring to lower the present Coast-to-Coast junior record of 27 hours and 40 minutes, held by Robert Buck, of New Jersey. His destination is Los Angeles.

Jobless Man Ends Own Life.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Discouraged, police said, over a long and futile search for work, John W. Clark, 59, of Conshohocken, a suburb, wrote a note advising his son to "be a good boy" and then committed suicide today. He shot himself in a field near his home. The son, a golf caddy, survives.

Harindranath Chattopadyaya, poet and dramatist, succeeds her as president.

Steer Escapes Death To Terrorize Traffic

Boston, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—An 800-pound steer escaped while being unloaded at the Brighton Abattoir today and galloped off on a rampage that threw almost the entire Brighton district into a state of fear before police bullets brought him down.

The steer charged abattoir employes, then romped through heavy traffic to a playground more than half a mile away, making lunges at scattering pedestrians in his path. It paused in the playground and then raced down Soldiers Field road to the Metropolitan Driving Club Race Track and had completed two laps on the half mile loop before three rifle bullets stopped its flight.

Action on Packers' Plea Likely to Be Speeded Up

Possibility that the hearing on the petition for modification of the meat packers consent decree, which has been under way in the District of Columbia Supreme Court for three weeks will be shortened was seen yesterday when by stipulation of counsel testimony of 100 witnesses was given to the court.

Stipulations cover testimony of 80 live stock producers who were scheduled to testify that there is open competition in the buying of live stock but that returns are not of a satisfactory nature and possibly could be increased if better meat distribution could be put into effect.

VOTERS' TENSENESS INCREASES IN CUBA

TWO SCHOOLS BOMBED

Havana, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Cuba has entered the last week of one of the most hectic electoral periods in its history as a republic.

The senatorial and congressional elections scheduled to be held Saturday will climax months of uncertainty and political maneuvering.

As a precaution against possible disturbances, parades and political meetings of all kinds have been forbidden until November 21; groups are not allowed to form in the streets; bridges and drains are being closely watched, and military supervisors have been ordered to their posts until after the elections. Troops are garrisoned at strategic points, particularly in Matanzas and Santa Clara Provinces.

The newspaper El Pais today said two schools at Matanzas had been partly wrecked by bombs placed by students at noon. According to El Pais, students from the National University here placed dynamite bombs under the provincial institute and under the normal school.

Several Girls Trampled.

There were no injuries, but several girls were trampled in a stampede at the normal school. One university student, Carlos Simeon, has been arrested in connection with the affair.

In the City of Havana, where more than one-tenth of Cuba's population is centered, special precautions have been taken. The palace has been placed under a heavy guard. Army planes at Camp Columbia have been equipped with rapid-fire guns, police are traveling in pairs and during the night are armed with rifles, and the secret police is busy checking minor plottings.

Reports are circulating that there is a possibility of a general industrial strike occurring simultaneously with the elections, but labor leaders as yet have made no definite announcement to this effect. For the last several weeks, however, preparations have been going forward to insure tranquillity during the electoral period.

Machado Made Dictator.

The greatest measure taken was the investment in President Machado, by a special session of congress, of authority to suspend constitutional guarantees if necessary and put the whole island under a state of martial law.

A presidential decree threatening expulsion from any national educational institution of students and professors guilty of sedition was calculated to halt antigovernment activities by students and toleration of such activities by instructors.

President Machado said in an interview tonight he believed the precautions taken by the government were sufficient to handle the situation and added that he had absolute faith in the army being loyal to him.

Used to Be Soldier Himself.

"As I have belonged to the army and worn its uniform," the president said, "I feel qualified to comment upon it. Many of its officers were my comrades during the war for independence; many served under me and are imbued with respect for constituted authority. This, coupled with their oaths as soldiers, is the best guarantee I could have."

Dr. Machado declared that Cuba's difficulties were mainly economic, caused principally by the low price of sugar.

"My opponents," he continued, "are a disunited group seeking to take advantage of an unfortunate economic situation. They are working without a definite program and are accomplishing nothing constructive. They have failed in their agitation schemes and will continue to fail.

Believes Self Popular.

"No one may dispute the strength of my administration. My popularity throughout the island was well demonstrated in a recent manifestation given in my honor. Congress' faith in me is well illustrated by the readiness with which it invested in me the power to suspend constitutional guarantees.

"I always will have some opposition, but I am convinced that my administration commands national popularity and foreign respect."

The president said in conclusion he would use his power to suspend constitutional guarantees if absolute need arose, but added that he did not believe such a step would be necessary.

CORRECTION

(Associated Press.)

When first news of the Brazilian overturn reached Washington, the Associated Press telephoned Ambassador Gurgel do Amaral of Brazil, who had received no word of it.

Informed of the dispatch, he was understood to say:

"How absurd"

Later the ambassador said he had made no such remark.

The Associated Press gladly presents this statement and regrets that there should have been any misunderstanding about the matter.

MUSSOLINI PARADES ITALY AS IF AT WAR

Big Military Demonstration Celebrates Anniversary of Fascism.

VATICAN TAKES PART

Rome, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Italy today showed the world the "youthful strength" to which Premier Mussolini referred in an address in which he ushered in the eighth anniversary of Fascism.

The blackshirt militia, stirred to patriotism all over the country by the Duce's words "unmasking a warlike Europe," marched in every city and village.

Moving columns gave an inkling of what Mussolini meant yesterday when he promised that two years hence the tenth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome would witness the greatest military concentratoin there in 3,000 years.

Scores of fighting planes droned over the capital this afternoon, while the chief of state here and his ministers elsewhere officially opened hundreds of public works which fascism has built to give employment and to develop the country's economic strength.

Cardinal Blesses Banner.

The Vatican participated. Cardinal Sincero, standing beside the Duce, blessed a military banner which Mussolini presented to a group of war wounded. It was the first time a prince of the church has in such public manner identified himself with fascism.

Mussolini spoke briefly, directing his talk mainly to wounded, black shirts, among whom were 40 blind. Himself a wounded veteran, the duce called them "comrades" and added that it was eloquent that they, already proven in conflict, should feel the need of entering the militia to defend the Fascist revolution.

"I am sure," the duce declared, "that if events required it you, who already have given so much in yesterday's war, would be ready, even tomorrow, to march ahead of all the armed nations."

His hearers shouted, "yes!"

"Will you do it?"

"Yes!" the throng repeated.

Says Italy Welcomes Oath.

"All Italy welcomes your oath and knows you will be faithful to her in every instant of your lives."

"Italy and the whole world must take note that the Fascist regime every year conquers new consciences of upright and valorous men, capable of renewing the gesture by which they made themselves great in victorious war," the premier continued.

"The great family of the state's armed forces. The army to which we are all proud to belong; the navy, aviation, the militia—all this formidable mass of arms and hearts welcomes you with cordial comradeship and fraternity."

Revolt In Brazil May Make Orphan of $15,000,000 Gold

Most of Bullion and Specie, Due to Arrive at New York Today, Was to Be Used to Buy Arms for Insurgents.

New York, Oct. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The shots being fired in Brazil may have their echoes around New York during the next few days to decide the ownership of $15,000,000 in gold.

This specie and bullion, tightly stowed in casks, is now in the bullion room aboard the Munson liner Western World, expected to arrive at her Hoboken, N. J., pier early tomorrow morning. Officials of the line hope it will not be an orphan shipment, but earnest Brazilian revolutionary committees in New York assure them it will not.

At least $12,000,000 of this gold, according to recent statements made by Augusto Amaral, New York head of the revolutionary committee, represents funds sent by the recently overturned government to buy arms in this country. The money, however, was hurried out of the country before the actual overturning of any government. The Western World made her call and sailed from Buenos Aires on October 16.

The Luis regime was overthrown four days ago, at which time the Western World, with her cargo of gold, was far at sea, nearing Bermuda, her last port of call.

No official banking statement could be obtained on the gold today. Officials of the Munson Line were not certain, nor had they been advised whether this treasure is being sent here to pay interest on foreign-owned Brazilian bonds, or to buy rifles, guns and ammunition to permit the government headed by President-elect Prestes to defeat the revolutionary thrust from the south of Brazil.

Senhor Amaral, in his public utterances, seemed more sure. While part of this money might be consigned here to meet foreign banking obligations. He insisted at least $12,000,000 was being sent here to purchase ammunition. The action of Secretary Stimson in permitting this move, said Senhor Amaral, had been regarded as decidedly unfriendly by the revolutionary party seeking to free "a harassed country."

Although the revolutionary party seems to hold power in Rio de Janefro, with the rest of the country under their control and only occasional sporadic clashes, no recognition has been given the group by the United States. This lack of recognition may cause complications when Senhor Amaral tries to fulfill his promise of securing the gold for his party.

Royal Yacht Safe In Stilled Waters

Boris, Giovanna, on Way to Sofia, Pass Through Canal of Corinht.

Corinth, Greece, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—After having braved an Adriatic storm of gale proportions, the Bulgarian royal yacht, Czar Ferdinand, bearing King Boris and Queen Giovanna, tonight had safely passed through the Canal of Corinth. The newly wedded couple is en route to Sofia, where on Thursday a civil marriage is scheduled to be performed.

This marriage, Premier Liaptcheff is understood to have said, will take place at 10 o'clock in the morning and will resemble more closely the Orthodox marriage form than a simple benediction.

The royal yacht was caught by a violent gale while the couple was crossing from Brindisi to Varna, Black Sea port. After being out of touch with the world for hours, due to atdinand radioed she would pass mospheric interference, the Czar Ferdinand radioed she would pass

Heart Attack Causes Contractor's Death

He was 48 years old. Relatives were notified, also his business partner.

LOWER STRAW HAT TARIFF IS FOUGHT

LABOR ENTERS PROTEST

(Associated Press.)

Conflicting pleas for higher and for much lower duties than those established by the 1930 tariff act for straw hats were made yesterday before the United States Tariff Commission recently reorganized by President Hoover.

Opening the first public hearing under the altered flexible provision, all six members of the commission heard straw hat importers, backed by a plea from the Italian government, urge a slash of at least 50 per cent in present rates. At the same time domestic manufacturers, joined by labor leaders, pleaded for more protection.

The hearing was the first of fourteen to be held during the next month.

Italian Attache Speaks.

Romolo Angelone, commercial attache of the Italian Embassy, told the commission the straw hat duties levied by the Smoot-Hawley act had so decreased exports from his country "as to forecast a complete shutting off of any legitimate business in that article from Italy to the United States." He contended a balance of trade unfavorable to Italy was being further overbalanced because duties on 70 per cent of Italian imports into this counttry were raised under the act.

"Such a tariff is fully unjustified," the Italian attache said, "by any comparison in the native costs of production prevailing in Italy and in this country."

Pleading the cause of labor, M. J. Flynn, of the American Wage Earners Protective Association, attacked the holding of tariff hearings at this time as "contributing to unrest," and as "holding industry in suspense."

J. G. Whitelaw, of New York, representing the National Council of American Importers and Traders, said the duties on straw hats under the new tariff law had acted to decrease imports from Italy, England and Switzerland to such an extent that the business of importers was threatened.

More Protection Asked.

S. George Wolf, of Baltimore, representing the straw hat group of the Hat Institute of America, told the commission hat manufacturers believed the investigation already made by the commission's field workers would show a need for additional protection. He asserted imports had increased heavily, and that domestic producers now had only 52 per cent of the straw hat business and were operating at a loss.

The hearing yesterday was the first held under the new order requiring that the burden of proof be placed upon those desiring the duties altered. The commission next will report to President Hoover, recommending that the straw hat rates either be raised or lowered or left unchanged. The Chief Executive must either put into force the specific recommendation of the commission or let it die through inaction.

The commission will hold a hearing on pig iron tomorrow.

Broker Loses $40,000 In Gems to Robbers

Zion City, Ill., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Max Plan, a diamond broker, of Chicago, reported to police tonight that he had been held up and robbed of $40,000 in diamonds in Sheridan road near the Wisconsin-Illinois line late today.

He had been driving to Milwaukee.

Gangster Gossip Is Taken for Ride

Wagging Tongue of Friend of "Legs" Diamond Is Silenced by Gun.

Millburn, N. J., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Gang guns today silenced forever the wagging tongue of Joseph Hamley, dubbed "Windy" by the underworld because he loved to gossip.

Slot machines were Hamley's racket. He also was a close friend of Abe Figura, New Jersey chief of staff for Jack "Legs" Diamond, who was taken for a ride the day before diamond was shot by gunmen in a New York hotal room.

So the police believe either "Windy" knew too much about Figura's demise and wasn't averse to talking about it, or a difference of opinion among the slot machine racketeers was responsible for their discovery of Hamley's body in a nearby wood this morning, a bullet through the brain.

CHANGE IN COUNTY REGIME EXPLAINED

H. A. Fellows, in Statement, Urges Manager Form for Arlington.

BUDGET SYSTEM GIVEN

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Harry A. Fellows, of East Falls Church, former mayor of the town of Falls Church, and a strong backer of the proposal to adopt the county manager form of government, in a statement last night pointed out the advantages of the budget provisions under the plan.

"One of these provisions," said Mr. Fellows, "requires the county manager, within 15 days after the close of each fiscal year, to file an itemized statement of the expenditures of the county for the year previous, showing the amount expended on each road, bridge or for other purposes. Such a report is not required under the present form of government.

"The annual audit now published by the board of supervisors shows only the total amount of money expended out of each of the county and several district road funds. It does not show what roads have been improved, nor the amount of money expended on each one. This is information which the tax payer is entitled to have, but which he does not receive under the present form of government."

T. B. Manny, of Lyon Village, an authority on governmental systems, is announced as the principal speaker at the mass meeting to be held tonight in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon. The meeting, sponsored by the Clarendon Citizens Association, is being held for the purpose of bringing before the voters the features of the proposed change in the form of county government. Mr. Manny has made an exhaustive study of local government, and is the author of several books on the subject. Walter U. Varney, member of the Arlington County Civic Federation Committee in charge of the campaign, will preside.

President E. Lester Bennett announced last night that Chairman Robert N. Anderson, of the campaign committee, with other members, will attend the meeting and will be ready at all times to answer any questions.

A jury in the circuit court, Judge Walter T. McCarthy presiding, returned a verdict yesterday of three years in the penitentiary in the case of William Keys, indicted on a charge of housebreaking.

The case, which consumed the entire day, was full of exciting incidents. The first came early in the morning, when Keys on the stand, the jury having been excused, said that he was beat up in the office of Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth and forced to make a confession. Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth declared the statement to be false and that he was confident the Court would believe both himself and the two officers in preference to a self-confessed thief who admitted having stolen articles from men in jail.

The Court ruled that Keys' statements were not true; that his confession was voluntary, and ordered him to trial.

Attorney Homer R. Thomas, who had been appointed by the Court to defend the defendant, fought the case from every angle and during the course of the trial the jury was excused from the room while he argued different points to be overruled by the Court.

Motion by the defendant's attorney to set aside the verdict was overruled.

Speaking at the monthly meeting of the Ballston Citizens Association, held last night in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon and Hugh J. McGrath, members of the legislation and legal action committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, outlined the proposed change in the form of county government.

Both speakers strongly indorsed the county manager plan and explained the advantages that could be accomplished under the recommendations of the Civic Federation, which carries with it the county manager plan and the election of the county board at large.

The president, Grover E. Payne, was instructed to draft a petition and secure as many signatures to it as possible to be presented to the county board of supervisors requesting that there be a traffic control or traffic stop signs installed at the intersection of Garrison road and Clements avenue. It was pointed out that this intersection is one of the most dangerous in the county and that a week does not pass that there are not one or more accidents at that point.

The resignation of Emmett C. Scott, secretary and delegate to the Arlington County Civic Federation, was accepted. Ira P. Harbaugh was elected to serve the unexpired term as secretary. The election of delegate to the federation will be held at the November meeting.

The progressive women's class of the Ballston Christian Church will hold its October meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alice Luckett, at Veitch Summit, at 2 o'clock.

A Halloween party will be given Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Hugh T. Clarkson, at Clarendon, for members of the George Johnston Society, Children of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Harry Hunt will give a book review at the monthly meeting of the Fidelis Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. C. Welburn at Ballston.

The county board of supervisors at its meeting to be held at the courthouse tomorrow morning will further consider needed extensions of the county water mains.

The board in the past month, according to the records in the office of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, have made extensions exceeding two miles.

Bids for the purchase for fire hose will be opened.

Mrs. L. W. Lockling, principal of the Cherrydale Chautauqua, Kindergarten and Graded Schools, with the aid of her two assistants, is arranging a chautauqua play to be given by the pupils of the school.

The Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, held its weekly luncheon at Clarendon yesterday.

This is a new departure for the local post, and Commander George Ricker reports that he is confident that the weekly gathering of a large number of members will be most profitable to the post in the way of creating more interest.

The Ballston Presbyterian Church Community Club will give a Halloween party in the Sunday school rooms of the church tonight at 8 o'clock.

Frederick P. Dewey, heading the movement looking to the organization of a Parent-Teacher Association at the Washington-Lee High School, announces that arrangements have been completed for the meeting to be held tomorrow night in the school auditorium. It is hoped to perfect the organizatoin at this meeting.

County Treasurer E. Wade Ball last night announced that for the purpose of receiving taxes due for the year 1930 he and his deputies will be at the following named places within Washington Magisterial District from 9 a. m. to 4 o'clock. The real estate offices of W. H. Anderson, at East Falls Church, on Wednesday, November 5; Mrs. Martha Langston's store, Walkers Chapel, Tifursday, November 6, and at the People's State Bank, at Cherrydale, Friday, November 7.

Treasurer Ball states that a penalty of 5 per cent will be added to all tax bills unpaid on December 5, 1930.

W. H. Beattie, who has been appointed by the Clarendon Citizens Association to head the committee in charge of the annual Red Cross roll call, announces that he will hold a meeting at his offices on Wilson Boulevard at Clarendon tomorrow night for the purpose of perfecting his organization.

There will be a meeting of the Mission Study Class of the Clarendon Methodist Church tonight at the church. Mrs. C. P. Caldwell will discuss the last chapter of a book on India, after which there will be a debate on "India is not ready for independence." The affirmative will be taken by Mrs. S. V. Hilderbrand, Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. W. H. Cheesman, while the negative side will be taken by Mrs. Ralph Boss, Mrs. George Parker and Mrs. Charles Dreschler.

Wallace Lawrence, Alexandria's city manager, addressing the mass meeting held last night in the Woodrow Wilson Schoolhouse under the auspices of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, strongly advocated the adoption of the county manager form of government.

Discussing the various forms of government, he stated that the county manager plan offered to counties the greatest number of advantages. He further stated that the modified commission plan was the first type but has since been replaced by the county manager plan as far more successful.

He said that he has operated under county boards which have been elected at large and by districts. He said that he has found that the voters have far more representation on the board when they are elected at large.

Other speakers were Robert N. Anderson and William D. Medley, members of the Arlington County Civic Federation committee, sponsoring the movement for its change.

NEW REGULATIONS ON ZONING APPLIED

Montgomery County Board Given Wider Powers ni Revised Code.

ROCKVILLE TO GET GAS

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday adopted the amended zoning regulations prepared by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. These, having been advertised in county papers for 30 days, are now effective.

They provide more power for the regulation of sanitariums, private schools, orphanages and nuisance industries, as well as for new ideas in the zoning of apartment house areas. Greater height, with proper setbacks and ground space, is provided for apartments.

A permit to extend the gas mains authorized by an earlier permit, so as to enter the town of Rockville by way of Harding street, was granted to the Georgetown Gas Light Co. yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners.

The mains extend along Veirs Mill road from Wheaton to Rockville. Authorization to cross several county roads was needed before the work could be completed. The gas company guarantees to return the roads to the condition in which they were at the time the work was started. The company is represented by Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., of Rockville.

Montgomery County's expenditures for the quarter ended September 30 were $559,379.97, according to the report of J. Forest Walker, treasurer. Receipts for that period were $825,333.29.

These receipts, added to the balance on hand July totaled $1,499,913.35. The balance on hand at the end of the quarter was $940,533.38, the report shows.

James Is Renominated As Head of Federation

Stephen James, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, has been nominated to succeed himself by the nominating committee which has prepared a slate for the annual election to be held November 10 at Bethesda School.

Other nominations presented by the committee are: Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, vice president; Walter B. Armstrong, recording secretary; Orville M. Kile, corresponding secretary; John A. P. Farnham; elected members of the executive committee, John A. Dickinson, Col. Alvin B. Barber, Ralph Lee and Frank B. Severance.

Court Excuses Juror Given Postoffice Job

Maher explained that he had just received word of his appointment. Justice Gordon instructed the jury commission to draw a special panel of 25, from whom Maher's successor will be selected.

SHOUSE SEES FLAW IN WLIBUR'S APPEAL

Declares Secretary Hinted Certain Republicans Deserve Defeat.

FAILED TO BACK HOOVER

(Associated Press.)

Jouett Hhouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, last night interpreted the recent radio address by Secretary Wilbur as a request for the defeat of several Republicans, along with Democrats, in the forthcoming congressional elections.

In a statement through the Democratic national committee Shouse said that when the Interior Secretary asked "that support of Mr. Hoover be the measure of the support to which candidates are entitled," he was "really asking for the defeat of such Republicans as Senator Borah, of Idaho; Senator Norris, of Nebraska; Senator McMaster, of South Dakota; Senator Pine, of Oklahoma, and numerous others whose attitude during the recent sessions of Congress filled Mr. Hoover with grief."

These senators, Shouse added, were those "who were denounced by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, as 'sons of thhe wild jackass,' who have been denominated by Senator Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, as 'pseudo Republicans,' who were arraigned by Senator Grundy, of Pennsylvania, as representing 'backward States' and who, therefore, ought to take a back seat in the business of government."

"Dr. Wilbur stated in so many words," Shouse said, "that the test in next Tuesday's election was support of the Hoover policies. The Democrats are perfectly agreeable to this suggestion."

Shouse added that "it may be quite correct for Secretary Wilbur to speak in behalf of the Republican congressional candidates" and that "certainly his activity is less flagrant than that of some of his colleagues who are barnstorming in the same behalf in Government planes, driven by Government pilots."

Will of Gen. Kennedy Disposes of $287,724

An estate valued at $287,724.94 was left by Brig. Gen. James M. Kennedy, according to the petition for the probate of his will filed yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court. There is a $35,000 life insurance policy and personal property estimated at $252,724.

Under the will filed with the petition, the widow, Mrs. Mary B. Kennedy, of San Francisco, receives the household effects and one-half of the interest from a trust fund to be created by the remaining estate. The other income is to be distributed among Katherine K. Kean, of Staten Island, N. Y., and Laurence B. and Archibald B. Kennedy, of San Francisco. The Riggs National Bank is named executor and trustee.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN AIELLO SLAYING

Flight After Assassination of Chicago Gangster Arouses Suspicion.

Chicago, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Patsy Presto was booked today on the charge of accessory after the fact in the murder of Joe Aiello, North Side gang leader, who was machine-gunned to death Thursday in front of Presto's home.

John Sorce, Preston's nephew and treasurer of the Italo-American Importing Co., headed by the slain man, also was held.

Detectives said Presto's flight, after the assassination of Aiello, and his failure to assist the police in any way, constituted evidence sufficient for his prosecution as an accessory.

Sorce's statements, according to detectives, have been conflicting and false. Although it was learned Sorce had visited Aiello several times while the gang leader was in hiding at the Presto home, Sorce denied ever having seen Aiello there, officials said.

Examination of the importing company's books today revealed that the firm did a business of more than $23,000 monthly in yeast and sugar alone. Most of this, police said, was distributed to illicit liquor manufacturers.

ORPHANAGE OFFICER IS ON TRIAL IN FRAUD

Virginian Pleads Not Guilty to $37,000 Peculations; Jury Selected.

DEMURRER IS OVERRULED

Richmond, Va., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The State of Virginia today brought to trial a member of its General Assembly, an acknowledged leader among the lawmaking body's moral forces, on charges of embezzlement and grand larceny of $37,976.40 from an orphanage of which he was treasurer.

The defendant, James P. Jones, of Richmond, former treasurer of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage, pleaded not guilty before Judge John L. Ingram in Hustings Court after motions to quash the indictments against him were unsuccessful.

Jones, also a former treasurer of the Antisaloon League of Virginia, went to trial on an indictment charging embezzlement on thirteen counts totaling $4,944.55. With the completion of a jury, during which 38 veniremen of 50 examined were dismissed, court was immediately adjourned and the first witnes swill be heard tomorrow morning at 9:30.

Penalties Are Described.

Instructions given the jury were that if found guilty the defendant might be sentenced to from one to ten years imprisonment on each of the thirteen counts.

There are five other indictments against Jones, four for embezzlement and one for grand larceny, involving at total of $37,976.40, the grand larceny indictment covering the entire amount. All the charges were returned at the September term of Hustings Court.

The indictment under which Jones' trial began today charges that between July 27, 1929, and January 8, 1930, he converted to his own use sums belonging to the Virginia Methodist Orphanage ranging from $144.06 to $765.81 for a total of $4,944.55.

Motion to Quash Killed.

Alfred Kirsch, of defense counsel, filed a motion to quash the motion as court opened today, basing the proposal on alleged omission of essentials which Kirsch said made the indictment invalid and illegal under Virginia law.

A demurrer was filed on the same ground, but both the motion to quash and the demurrer were overruled by Judge Ingram.

A settlement of the entire amount alleged to have been taken from the orphanage funds has been made with trustees of the institution by Jones and members of his family.

Police Seek Relatives Of Woman Found Dead

The woman was employed at the Raleigh Hotel. When she failed to report at 4 o'clock, Mrs. Minnie McNerhaney, a friend, went to investigate and found her lying on the bed lifeless.

Limit Sentences Urged For Taxi Violations

William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel assigned especially to Public Utilities Commission work, yesterday announced that he intended to seek to have the courts impose as heavy penalties as possible on all persons convicted of violating the police regulation requiring operators of taxicabs to have their names or the name of their companies printed plainly on the sides of taxicabs.

Those convicted so far, Mr. Roberts said, have been let off with personal bond and the promise to conform to the regulation. This procedure, he added, apparently has not constrained others to obey the regulation and heavier penalties will be asked of the courts in future.

DEMOCRACY AGAINST PROTECTION.

Some shrewd campaigner might make a name for himself by explaining the attitude of the Democratic party on the tariff. Ever since the national convention pretended to indorse the protective principle at Houston in 1928, while leaving loopholes for a return to the out-and-out free trade policy if that should prove advantageous, confusion on the subject has become more confounded. A Democrat can hardly mention the subject now without contradicting some other Democrat.

Last week James M. Cox, who is said to have been presidential candidate of the Democratic party in 1920, gave assurance that the tariff issue would be reopened if the people should elect a Democratic Congress. Now comes John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, with a promise that the party, if given a majority, will take the tariff out of politics. The general Democratic practice has been to denounce the "billion dollar Grundy bill," but, of course, the Democrats who voted for tariff protection for their home States and those who voted for the bill itself are finding plenty of arguments to defend themselves.

Mr. Raskob's plan is particularly amusing. He would set up a bipartisan tariff commission of "about seven members" who would be appointed for life by the President and confirmed by the Senate. Salaries would be sufficiently high to attract first-class men. After this commission began to function "the tariff as a whole should never come before Congress again." The commission would continuously engage in a study of duties, submitting separate recommendations on each schedule to Congress. There would be no more log rolling, no more political trading, no more corruption. The tariff would be wholly scientific, and the Nation would be prosperous

Mr. Raskob did not explain how he would take the tariff out of politics by placing it into the hands of a commission made up of representatives of both parties. He did not say how he would keep the commissioners from favoring their own States out of mere love of the home folks. Perhaps he would import foreigners for these jobs. Nor does he specify what magic he would use to insure the adoption by Congress of the commission's recommendations, or to prevent reopening of the entire tariff question whenever a report might be submitted.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Raskob's plan would abolish, or at least diminish, American protective duties. Congress is not capable of impartially considering tariff rates on single items. Suppose, for example, the commission should recommend a higher duty on steel. Congressmen from the agricultural States would term it preposterous, and would not dare to vote in the affirmative. On the other hand, if the commission should advise a higher duty on wheat, congressmen of the great metropolitan centers would feel compelled to vote against an increase in the price of food. The general effect would be disintegration of the tariff structure, because no one is willing to see the other fellow get an advantage unless he gets one too.

Mr. Raskob was more tactful than Mr. Cox in making his attack on the tariff. But there can be no question as to the Democratic party's intention to undermine the protective structure on which American industry has grown up, if that party should gain a majority in Congress.

POLICE COURTESY.

On several occasions Commissioner Crosby has told the police force that courtesy is a fundamentally essential attribute of the satisfactory policeman. Now he proposes to weed out discourteous members from the force. Hereafter, he says, policemen charged with discourtesy will be haled before the trial board charged with "conduct unbecoming an officer." The trial board has already adopted the policy of recommending for dismissal policemen found guilty on this count.

Police deal with two kinds of crime and two classes of offenders, although frequently they do not seem to differentiate between the two groups. There are crimes against society and violations of the peace, generally perpetrated by professional criminals, which call for firm, courageous police action unmixed with gentleness. The police also are called upon to deal with infractions of various regulations. Usually the offenders in these cases are reputable citizens. There is no necessity of a show of force or brusque discourtesy in dealing with them. Commissioner Crosby says: "When a policeman is called on to handle a tough customer, he can't be expected to handle him in the same manner he would employ in giving a ticket for a traffic violation." The Commissioner evidently recognizes the fact that there are two general classes of offenders with whom the police have to deal.

If members of the force can be taught to differentiate between criminals and casual infractors of simple regulations, the important step toward establishing courtesy in the Police Department will have been taken. Washington fully approves the firm stand taken by Commissioner Crosby against police discourtesy.

PARLIAMENT'S FATEFUL SESSION.

With pomp and ceremony the British Parliament was opened yesterday. In the gilded state coach King George and Queen Mary drove from Buckingham Palace to Westminster through streets lined with cheering crowds. The fact that this was the first appearance of the king at Westminster since his serious illness of two years ago lent unusual interest to the occasion. But from now on popular interest in Britain will center in Parliament itself, for this promises to be one of the most controversial and fateful sessions of years.

Great Britain is perhaps more seriously affected by the world depression than any other country. Economic questions promise to hold the spotlight in Parliament. The British public is in a temper to demand action of any sort looking toward the improvement of its condition. Unless the Labor government is able to evolve and introduce legislation that the public will accept as calculated to meet the emergency, a general election may be precipitated. By promising election reforms, however, the government hopes to solidify the Labor-Liberal coalition. Such solidification might serve to stave off the general election.

The last general election was held in 1929. Labor, with a total vote of 8,300,000, gained 287 seats; the Liberals with a total vote of 5,250,000, captured 59 seats; while the Conservatives, with 8,591,000 votes, gained 260 seats. Labor gained one seat for every 32,000 votes; the Conservatives captured a seat for every 33,000 votes, while the Liberal party gained a seat for every 90,000 votes cast in its favor. Obviously, election reform based upon a system of proportionate representation would benefit the Liberal party more than either of the others, and the Labor government, by promising to introduce election reform legislation, sets in motion a force that makes it to the best interests of the Liberal party to prevent an overturn of Parliament at this time. Its tendency will be to go along with the prime minister, supporting all government bills at least until the election reform legislation is introduced.

Whether it will be able to do this, however, is another question. The imperial conference is about to break up, having accomplished little except to sow the seeds of controversy with respect to the traditional British free-trade policy. It may be that the tariff controversy will become a public issue and that it will lead to a demand for action that will result in breaking the government. The round-table conference on India will be convened shortly. This conference promises to result in acrimonious dispute. The government promises to repeal the trades dispute act, a measure making general strikes illegal and imposing severe restrictions on the political activities of trades unions. This repeal will not be easily accomplished.

But above all else, the unemployment situation in Great Britain is becoming increasingly serious, and there is a universal demand that Parliament do something to alleviate economic distress.

TRAFFIC SUGGESTIONS.

The important recommendations of the traffic advisory council and committee bid fair to be lost sight of in the dispute that was precipitated when it suggested that the gasoline tax be doubled. They are: That registration of solid tire vehicles be restricted to those already in operation; that a motor vehicle inspection law be adopted; that registration fees be increased but that the personal property tax on motor vehicles be eliminated; that a special police squad be established to test headlights, brakes and other safety equipment; that the Police Department discontinue its practice of selling confiscated vehicles no matter what their mechanical condition may be, and that all funds derived from the gasoline tax, the Borland levies and operators' permits be devoted, with minor exceptions, to street and highway improvement and maintenance.

The question of increasing the gasoline tax demands further study. If the Borland law has to be abandoned, as seems likely in the light of a recent Supreme Court decision, a new source of revenue for highway work will have to be developed. The gasoline tax offers a simple way of raising the required funds and it has the further advantage of distributing the burden directly upon the highway user in proportion to the actual use he makes of the highway. The inequitable feature of the gasoline tax so far as its application in Washington is concerned lies in the fact that the Government, with its extensive automotive equipment, pays no gasoline tax. This is a problem that should be studied of and by itself, however.

The elimination of the personal property tax on motor vehicles would find general favor. This tax is collected in a lump sum or in two installments. It would be far less burdensome if it were collected a few pennies at a time through a tax on gasoline.

Other recommendations of the council and committee have a direct bearing upon public safety. Clap-trap automobiles have come to be a serious menace everywhere. It is generally agreed that means must be found for driving them from the streets. If inspection were made a prerequisite to licensing, if licenses were refused for vehicles that are mechanically defective, and if the police were empowered to drive unsafe vehicles from the streets, Washington would be far safer than it is now.

The council and committee are on sound ground when they recommend that funds derived from the gasoline tax, operators' permits, &c., be applied exclusively to highway work. During the recent international road congress a report was unanimously approved by the delegates of 61 nations in which was embodied the principle that all funds derived from gasoline taxes or other automotive sources should "be applied exclusively for highway purposes." Automobiles should not be taxed to provide general revenues.

FOR CHILD WELFARE.

For more than a year 1,100 experts on child care have been engaged in gathering data for presentation to the White House conference on child health and protection, which will convene in Washington, November 19. The findings and recommendations of the experts, condensed into 140 reports, were placed in the hands of Secretary Wilbur, who is chairman of the conference, and these reports, in turn, have been boiled down into eighteen 10,000-word summaries. With these summaries as a basis for its work, the conference will undertake to evolve means for improving and equalizing the opportunities of the children of America.

In general, says Secretary Wilbur, the findings "show that the child in the rural home now has the maximum biological opportunity, for he is closest to the vitamin supply. The fresh vegetable patch and the family cow are in his back yard. The city child, on the other hand, is revealed as enjoying superior advantages in disease prevention and educational opportunities. Applying the findings so as to give city and country child what each lacks will require a rearranged distribution of educational and social and medical services."

It will be no easy task to arrange this redistribution of educational, social and medical services, even though the Nation may be awake to the need. So far as bringing "biological opportunities" to city children, science is working toward this end by developing window glass that lets through the health rays of natural light, through the utilization of so-called health lamps, by imprisoning the vitamin content in canned foods, and in other ways. As for the country child's lack of opportunity for disease prevention and education, the recent growth of interest in county medical services and centralized "social unit" schools has been remarkable. The tendency is toward equalizing the advantages and opportunities of children everywhere, but there is need for speeding the redistribution of facilities.

It is this task that confronts the conference on child health. What may be done to speed the redistribution of educational, medical and social services so that the city and country child may be given what each lacks? The country has high hope that the White House conference on child health and protection will succeed in evolving an answer to the question.

The Democratic party has become so wet that it is beginning to feel hilarious about the election.

Science is experimenting with a process for cooking with radio tubes. That'd be convenient. Mother wouldn't have to keep running from the kitchen to the parlor to keep the set in adjustment.

NAVAL READINESS TODAY

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. N.

In previous articles we have demonstrated two essential points in naval policy: First, a navy must be ready; and second, only vessels in commission are ready.

This second point requires some further definition before the readiness of two navies for war can be compared. Vessels in commission have varying proportions of their full complements of officers and men on board. We would not present an accurate comparison if vessels with only 10 per cent of personnel were given the same weight as those with 90 per cent. We propose to count as ready only those ships which have at least 50 per cent of their full complements. Let us see how this applies to the three great navies.

In the case of the United States we have counted as ready: (a) Vessels in full commission. Practically all of our ships in commission are in this status. They have about 90 per cent of complements. About 15 per cent of these vessels are undergoing navy yard overhaul at any time, but all are counted ready. Detachment of nucleus crews would reduce their complements to about 85 per cent. (b) Training destroyers. There will be eight such ships. They will have 40 per cent complements. Though these are somewhat under the standard set, they are included because possibly some British destroyers slightly under the standard are also counted.

Vessels out of commission, particularly destroyers, are not counted.

In the case of Great Britain we have counted as ready: (a) Vessels in full commission. This category contains a great majority of their ships in commission. They have about 85 per cent complements. (b) Destroyers with special or reduced complements. Such vessels have about 50 to 60 per cent complements. Some may have slightly less personnel.

The following British ships have not been counted: (a) Vessels in reserve. These are usually cruisers or destroyers. They have about 10 to 15 per cent complements. (b) Vessels under care and maintenance. These have a few men for caretaking only. (c) Vessels undergoing long refits. These ships are not in commission, but have small nuclei of officers and men. (d) Vessels out of commission without crews. There are very few ships in this category. Usually they are waiting for disposal.

In the case of Japan we have counted as ready: (a) Vessels in full commission. These have full complements of officers and men. (b) Vessels in first or second reserve. These have from 50 to 90 per cent of their complements. A large and well trained naval reserve is available for bringing them immediately to full complements.

The following Japanese ships have not been counted: (a) Vessels in third or fourth reserve. These have 25 per cent complements or less. They are either undergoing extended overhaul or are of little war value.

It is difficult to compare the readiness of capital ships at this time, because nine of them will be scrapped in the near future and many are temporarily unavailable while being modernized. We have therefore assumed that all capital ships allowed by the London treaty will be kept ready for service.

It is believed that the three attached tables will present a clear and accurate picture of the relative readiness of the three great navies.

UNITED STATES.

JAPAN.

	Treaty Tonnage	Available on June 1	Ready on June1
Aircraft carriers	81,000	61,270	61,270
Cruisers	208,850	166,815	163,055
Destroyers	105,500	108,975	96,475
Submarines	52,700	69,338	56,975
Total	448,050	406,398	377,775
Plus 9 capital ships			272,070
Ready tonnage			649,845

These tables speak for themselves. Compare the figures in the three columns. Please note particularly the ready tonnage columns. For ease of comparison their totals are repeated below. Beside them are placed the ratios of ready tonnage and of the London treaty.

	Ready Tonnage.	Ratios of Ready Tonnage.	Ratios of London Treaty.
United States	803,662	10.00	10.00
Great Britain	992,595	12.35	10.20
Japan	649,845	8.08	16.30

These figures and ratios of ready tonnage measure the war readiness of the three navies today. They give a close approximation to their actual relative fighting strengths. Compare them with the tonnage ratios of the London treaty, as recently announced by the State Department. The contrast, to say the least, is striking.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

OLD PETE.

He isn't the kind of a friend you'd choose
From the throng on a city street,
He is black with grime and red from booze
And gross are his hands and feet,
But out at the camp where we go for deer
In the last few days of fall,
In spite of his habits and manners queer
He's the wisest man of us all.

Old Pete is friend to a millionaire,
And a banker's comrade, too;
They ask him often his wealth to share,
But he never asks for a sou.
They beg for his knowledge of field and sky,
Of beaver and bear and deer,
And he spins them yarns with a twinkling eye
The city folks never hear.

Old Pete has habits the world thinks bad;
For that matter so have we;
But many a time we've wished we had
His knowledge of bird and tree.
He looks like a beggar when he's in town,
But far from the haunts of men,
By the log fire's blaze, when night slips down,
It is we who are beggars then!

The Right to Sell Spoiled Meat Exists Only in a Society That Likes Meat Spoiled.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ANYTHING that a normal man does is natural.

It has become the fashion to talk about leading a "free and natural life," meaning a life free of the restraints commonly imposed by conscience and civilization.

It is foolish talk, for restraints are as natural as liberties.

No intelligent person would think an apple seedling unnatural because of its failure to bear fruit, nor think the tree unnatural when fruit appeared in later years.

It is natural for a young tree to be barren, yet it has in itself the natural capacity to develop fruit when it matures.

So it is natural for man to develop the qualities and customs required to match his progress, and the germ of all modern civilization lived in the lousy and unclothed savage who used a club to defend his cave.

When philosophers say that virtue and honor and self-restraint are not natural to man they mean that these qualities were not natural to the primitive man.

They are natural to the modern—as natural as fruit to the matured tree—and their development was equally logical and inevitable.

Is intelligence natural to man? Then any development prompted by his intelligence is equally natural.

The rules of conduct we call ethics were made necessary by the advance of civilization, and are as natural as primitive man's resentment of injury.

One man in the world alone would have unlimited rights and little need of moral standards. But the appearance of a second man would reduce the rights of the first by half, and when thousands are crowded into a small area their rights are so divided and subdivided that none of the first man's "natural rights" remain intact.

The truly natural rights that remain are the rights prescribed and circumscribed by logic and necessity. The right to walk abroad unclothed no longer exists, for nakedness is an offense to many and man's natural intelligence naturally prompts him to forbid it.

Much of the loose talk concerning rights and liberties refers to the rights and liberties of the unwashed primitive whose neighbors were not offended by things that now seem indecent.

To claim as natural rights the liberties that could be inoffensive only in a society without ethical or cultural standards is to confess the possession of a mind many thousands of years behind the times.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

The World's Worst.
Detroit News.

The bands are playing in Illinois and, if we may adapt an old idiom to the times, the boys and girls are marching. By all accounts the Ruth Hanna McCormick campaign for United States senator is one rousing political campaign. Flags fly and verses spout.

On the verses our authority is no less than a leading editorial in the Chicago Daily News. Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman, bade the Illinois Republican Women's Clubs, when in formal session last week, to arise and march, singing:

The main point being the administration to defend
All we have to do is our support lend
To Ruth Hanna McCormick from our own State,
Whose election will strengthen the political fate
Of President Hoover and the G. O. P.
And seat him again in thirty-three.

The exceptional interest and validity otherwise of the Illinois campaign this fall have had recognition. With Mrs. McCormick spending $400,000, with her defection in part from the dry cause, with a bone dry opponent and the sparkling James Hamilton Lewis against her, it is an outstanding campaign. The present departure from prose now coming in addition, if minor, also seems to present an outstanding phase. For an unqualified estimate probably a jury should be impaneled, with women on it. But let us have a verdict. Is it or is it not—at last, the climax awaited for years and years—the world's worst verse?

Skoal, Einar Hoidale!
Minneapolis Journal.

Einar Hoidale, candidate though he be, is a modest man. Whereas others have emotionalized long and loud over their boyhood struggles, Einar Hoidale has had nothing to say about his own early life.

But others have told the story of Einar Hoidale's early years. He knew bitter poverty. He suffered the long, cold winters. He drove oxen. He battled blizzards. He twisted hay for fuel to keep alive in a sod shanty. He made his own way from boyhood through school and university.

These hard experiences of early life have left their mark upon him. Though he rise from a sod shanty to the Senate, Einar Hoidale will never lose his contacts with the soil of Minnesota, whose product he is.

If Congress Goes Democratic.
Houston Post-Dispatch.

Should Democrats hold power in both the Senate and the House, or should they control the latter body by a sizable vote, they must be prepared to present a program of constructive legislation. Whether anything could be done with such a program in a Congress having a Republican Senate and a Democratic House is a difficult question. Even should the Democrats control both houses, they would face a problem in legislation with the administration Republican. But if they gain power in the coming elections they must accept the added responsibility that goes with it. Answers must be presented from the Democratic side to the several questions now agitating the popular mind. Otherwise the elections of 1930 will have little bearing upon the outcome of the next presidential campaign.

To Place the Blame.
Judge.

Astronomers assert that the universe is now "hundreds of quadrillions of miles" smaller than it used to be. Mr. Raskob should point out that this shrinkage took place during the Republican administration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Train the Ape to Become the Menial Servant of Mankind, Is Mr. Snyder's Novel Suggestion—Some Tasks for Which the Domesticated Ape Might Be Made a Specialist, With Wages No Object.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is my belief, founded on the principles of evolution, that the chimpanzee can be made of great service to man if taken in hand and bred to a stature and efficiency requisite for manual labor. The ape is at present a tender animal, but the existence of animals in the polar regions proves that by the processes of evolution they have become able to endure the cold.

Specifically, the horse and the dog, as companions of man in his explorations, have acquired endurance and been molded to their various forms and sizes, while at the same time becoming tractable and faithful servants. The pigeon is perhaps the most conspicuous example of man's ability to fashion life to his fancy. From the original Rock pigeon we have now many forms of various sizes and markings, with the characters constant in each variety, yet in some cases produced in a few generations.

By utilizing the ape for such labor as men would avoid, we add immeasurably to the comfort of mankind and give opportunity for the attainment of ideals so much desired by apostles of good taste. By the employment of these creatures in the several departments of housework and other duties on private estates, we eliminate the servant problem. In labor requiring team work and mass production there would be no strikes among a docile and speechless crew. In all kinds of work the cost would be limited to food, clothing and shelter, with wages no object and no inclination to take their employer's place.

There also would be no conflict with labor, as the consummation of the project must be remote, although in terms of evolution it would be vastly nearer than if left to nature, or even to the crude ways of our ancestors. With our knowledge of physiology and heredity we could effect in 50 years what it required our ancestors a thousand to accomplish.

In any case, the work is entirely altruistic, as this generation and its grandchildren could be interested academically only. The advantages of its completion would fall upon posterity, on whom it should be the pleasure of this prosperous age to bestow such a benefit.

I have suggested to the managers of the Carnegie Corporation that they add this scheme to their research work, but would like to publish it through your columns, in the hope that some other body or individual philanthropist will enter into the project if rejected by them.

Fourth Dimension Applied to Baseball and Football Will Work Wonders.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At last a few people have come forward with explanations of Prof. Einstein's theory of the fourth dimension. An English scientist says, "It means that in a four-dimension world we could turn a tennis ball inside out without cutting it." Other eminent scientists give the following explanations of the fourth dimension:

"In a four-dimension world a man could stand behind himself and shave his own neck."—H. J.

"In case of a stomach ache a man could turn himself inside out and see what was the trouble."—W. K.

"Hiawatha, making his mittens, could take a skin and turn the warm side, fur side, outside inside."—L. C.

Therefore, if it is possible to turn the inside outside, meet oneself going some place when coming back, &c., the wily baseball manager will instill the theory of the fourth dimension into his pitchers this spring. Then when the series opens up he will have a few wonder hurlers. When the batter takes a swing at the ball it will reverse and return to the pitcher, and the batter will come into contact with nothing but thin air.

Football coaches might also profit by delving into the theory of the fourth dimension, so that the ball toters might turn themselves inside out at the moment of being tackled, elude the would-be tacklers and romp down the field unmolested to a touchdown. Those who can devise means of putting the fourth dimension into practice can certainly work wonders in this world of ours.

Does Not Believe That Typeleggers Will Be Added to the List Which Includes Bootleggers and Bookleggers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note that "experts" of the U. S. Bureau of Standards are advocating that manufacturers of typewriting machines change slightly the typefaces of their product once every five years as a guard against the falsification of documents, letters, &c.

Personally, I think that their intentions are good, but that their usually fine-working brains have for once slipped a cog. Anybody at all familiar with typewriters and their operation knows that such a thing is impossible of accomplishment.

There is absolutely but one way in which the scheme could be made to work, and that way, even, would require 25 years to get going. The manufacturers would have to sell their product with the understanding that every five years their patrons would be required to place a new set of keys on their machines, either at the owner's expense, or that of the manufacturer. If the latter, he would lose money; if the former, he or she would kick. Even if there were no complaints on this score and the keys changed every luster, there would still remain to be reckoned with the unscrupulous party who was the cause of all the rumpus; any fraud could at any time buy or hire a typewriter of any model or make, since it is true that perhaps the only prohibited thing not procurable is a Maxim silencer. We may have bootleggers and bookleggers and other 'leggers, but I doubt if we ever will have typeleggers.

KING GEORGE READS MESSAGE OF LABOR

50 PERSONS OVERCOME

London, Oct. 28 (A.P.). — King George read from the throne in the House of Lords today his first address ever prepared by Labor ministers to deal with the problems of the British Empire.

In the shadows behind the bar which separated him from the colorful actors in the royal pageant stood the Laborite prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, who, with his colleagues, put the words of the royal pronouncement into the monarch's mouth.

The king opened Parliament with Queen Mary at his side, with the ceremonies of which London through the centuries never has tired. In the clear, resonant voice familiar before his long illness he intoned his speech.

Dawes in Evening Dress.

The Soviet Ambassador was garbed much like Ambassador Dawes of the United States, in formal evening dress. Tom Henderson, controller of the king's household, once a ship's carpenter, and Ben Smith, treasurer of the royal household, once a taxicab driver in London streets, wore their court attire as if born to such occasions.

In this "peaceful revolution" was another change to the modern. The peeresses wore their shimmering, trailing gowns very long. Only one old-fashioned aristocrat showed her knees, clinging to the skirt length of two years ago. Ankle-length dresses were the rule, just revealing silver slippers.

The ceremony in the House of Lords lasted only twenty minutes. Then the king took his queen by the hand and the procession retraced itself to the royal coach which rolled back through crowded streets to Buckingham Palace.

50 Persons Faint.

Bands at corners along the route played "God Save the King." The weather was sultry. Fifty persons who fainted were treated near the Admiralty Arch.

The serious business of parliament began in debates based on the government's program as announced in the king's speech. In the commons H. C. Charleton, a former locomotive engineer, moved the motion relating to the royal address, and W. B. Taylor, a former saddler, seconded it.

Its important provisions called for legislation to deal with unemployment, agriculture, electoral reform, trades union disputes, town planning, preservation of rural amenities, taxation of land and the raising of the age at which juveniles might leave school.

It was a heavy program for what is expected to be a stormy session. "I pray that under the blessing of God the outcome of your deliberations may advance the happiness and well-being of my people," was the admonition which the king left in the hands of Parliament.

Statesmanship Much Needed.

H. C. Charleton, of Leeds South, opening debate on the address, said the imperial conference would need all of its British statesmanship to meet the problems it had to face and find their solution. He said he hoped nothing would be spoken or done to lessen the usefulness of the Indian round-table conference and expressed the opinion that the government was pursuing the path of peace in that matter.

Premier MacDonald announced in Commons this afternoon that the Labor government was not prepared to put a tariff on wheat. "We can not do it," he said.

Thus the government officially put an end to any hopes that Canadian or other dominions' wheat products would receive a tariff preference on the British market. His announcement definitely restricted the possibilities to some system of bulk purchasing or quota arrangement which would favor the dominions as against foreign wheat growers.

CONSERVATIVES ASK BALDWIN TO RESIGN

wind would blow were noted in King George's speech from the throne, which his majesty read in person in the traditional ceremony in the House of Lords.

Two items of legislation promised by the Government, a "measure of electoral reform" and legislation "to secure for the community its share in the site value of land," indicated to many the existence of a clear understanding between the Labor government and Liberal opposition.

Lloyd George Incident.

It was noticed that when Prime Minister MacDonald, speaking at this afternoon's session in the House, mentioned both topics, David Lloyd George lowered his head in an effort to conceal a broad smile. Electoral reform and taxation of land values have been two of the chief items in the Liberal creed for many years.

The next move in the Liberal-Labor strategy came from the Liberal side.

At a meeting of the party after the close of the House session, the unusual announcement was made that the Liberals would refrain from moving any amendment to the king's speech as written by the Labor government.

Conservative Rift Prospect.

Officially it was said that no particular significance was attached to this decision, but unofficially it was remarked on every side that the Liberal-Labor entente was now complete.

The Conservative opposition furnished the final sensation of the day. Forty-four Conservative members out of a total of 260 now sitting solemnly demanded at the very beginning of the session that Premier Baldwin abandon the leadership of the party and give way to a more active head.

The expression of their dissatisfaction astonished all observers and set political tongues to wagging. If Premier Baldwin should resign as party leader, a fight might develop among the Conservatives that would render ineffectual their parliamentary opposition to the Labor cabinet.

Millions In U. S. Hear Shaw And Einstein Talk on Radio

Irishman in Light Vein, With Scientist in Graver Mood, as They Exchange Compliments at London; Dinner in Honor of German.

London, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Two of the most famous men in the world, George Bernard Shaw and Prof. Albert Einstein, spoke and exchanged compliments tonight at a dinner in honor of the German scientist.

The soft Irish brogue of Mr. Shaw and the sharp staccato German of Prof. Einstein were broadcast to millions of listeners in England and the United States.

In proposing the health of Prof. Einstein, Mr. Shaw was in his lightest vein.

"Here in London we are still a great center. I don't suppose we shall be a great center long. All that will be transferred presently to the United States. But for the moment I am speaking in a capital where the reception of great men is a very common event."

Mr. Shaw proposed a toast to the scientist as "the greatest of our contemporaries," placing him among "the men who are great among great men." Such, he said, were Aristotle, Copernicus, Galileo and Newton, also.

Prof. Einstein addressed the guests at the banquet, organized by the joint British committee for the promotion of the physical and economic welfare of Eastern Jewry, and urged international Jewry to remain true to its traditions. He said he came from virtual retirement at the urgent pleadings of the voice of his people. He believed that serving the aims of humanity should always remain highest in the scale of Jewish ideals.

"In the traditions of the Jewish people there exists a striving toward righteousness and an understanding which should be of service to the rest of the nations, now and in the future.

"Back in the Middle Ages, all vocations excpt those of tradesmen were barred to our race. Consequently, the only way in which we can help Jews of Eastern Europe is to throw open new fields of vocational activity.

"To our English brethren, the past years and even the past days have brought disappointment, which you must feel keenly. Don't bemoan the hardness of fate. Rather see in it motives of remaining faithful to the Jewish community. We should not have survived as a community if we had had a bed of roses during the centuries."

The scientist paid tribute to Mr. Shaw, saying he mocked at what others feared to approach, as only born artists could.

Shaw said he had felt it would be impossible adequately to introduce a man so distinguished as Prof. Einstein, but that he had accepted because he believed he could do it as well as anybody else. Facetiously remarking that one must be guilty of "suppressions and hypocrisy" in introducing many distinguished personages, he said:

"Suppose I had been called upon tonight to rise and propose a toast to Napoleon. I could say many things about him, but the things most appropriate I could not say—that it would perhaps have been better for the human race if he had never been born.

"There are great men, and there are men who are great among great men. Napoleon and the great men of his kind were builders of empires. But there is an order of greatness beyond that, the great men who are builders of universes. And the hands of these great men are unstained by the blood of any human being on earth."

He humorously described how Newton created "above everything else, a British, rectilinear universe," and how "a young professor got up in central Europe" 300 years later and proved that Newton was not altogether right.

"Newton knew you can not make anything in motion move in a straight line. How to make the universe English and rectilinear against that fact was a problem. But mere facts never balk an Englishman. They didn't stop Newton. He invented the law of gravitation. He created a universe that was purely English.

"For 300 years we believed in the Newton universe. I believed in it. I was brought up to believe in it."

Then he described the British dismay over Einstein's theory and facetiously quoted the professor as replying gently:

"No, I mean no harm to gravitation, but I can do without it."

Then, he said, the British replied: "What do you mean? How about that apple?"

Whereupon, he said, Einstein explained his position this way:

"Newton didn't know that apples are very intelligent. If you watch an apple closely, you will observe that it acts more intelligently than some men. But, even so, Newton should have seen some object fal lthat could later tell about it. He should have seen a man fall. Now, I went to large cities where building was going on, watched until a man fell off a scaffolding and followed him to the hospital. After I had condoled with him and said how sorry I was, I came down to business.

"When you came off that scaffolding, I asked him, 'did the earth attract you?'

"'Cetrainly not, he replied. Gar nicht. The earth repelled me—with such force that I am in the hospital.'

"'Well, my good man,' I told him, 'you fortunately did not break your own back, but you certainly broke Newton's.'"

FISH BATTLES MOVE TO RECOGNIZE REDS

U. S. Will Lose Rather Than Gain, Chairman of Committee States.

EXPORT FIGURES CITED

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., chairman of the congressional committee investigating Communist activities, told a radio audience tonight that if the United Sates should recognize Soviet Russia this country would be apt to lose rather than gain.

"Russia desires diplomatic relations nbt for purposes of trade," he declared, "but because it would increase its prestige, help stabilize its government, discourage opposition from both within and without, and permit it to intensify its revolutionary propaganda throughout the world."

He charged a "tremendous amount of inspired propaganda" has been spread throughout the country "in regard to the magnitude of our trade with Russia, all for the purpose of promoting recognition of the Soviet government."

The conference on the internal and external problems of Russia at the institute of politics at Williamstown, Mass., in August, he declared, was made an instrument of this propaganda by Ivy Lee, whom he called a "propagandist for Soviet Russia," and Paul Cravath, who, he said, "for many years has had a yearning for recognition of Soviet Russia."

"What are the facts of our trade with Russia?" he asked. "Back in 1913, when we recognized the imperial Russian government and were on friendly terms with it, our total export trade with Russia amounted to less than $20,000,000, and last year, without recognition of the Soviet government, we exported $86,000,000 worth of goods to Russia.

"The bait of Soviet trade is constantly dangled beforehand. Great Britain and Germany, both of which recognized the Soviet government, are doing four times less trade than they did before the World War. It is my firm, and carefully considered judgment that as far as the question of recognition goes we are apt to lose rather than gain trade by recognition."

Bolling Field Soldier Indicted in Robberies

He is alleged to be the "order and change" man who swindled several storekeepers by ordering groceries, requesting change for $10 and keeping the money when delivery boys responded.

Man Searched on Tip He Intended to Use Gun

Working on a tip that the defendant was going to "shoot up the court" deputy marshals yesterday searched Nathan Kaplan, 35 years old, Indiana avenue near Third street northwest, when he appeared in Judge John P. McMahon's court on a charge of threatening the life of Clara F. Reyer.

The marshals found no weapons on Kaplan. The tip, court officials said, came from the plaintiff in the case. The trial was continued until this morning when further testimony will be heard.

King George's Son Arrives For Ras Tafari's Crowning

Emperor of Ethiopia Himself Goes to Railway Station to Greet Duke of Gloucester, Also Marshal D'Esperey, Who Presents Gift of Airplane.

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, Oct. 28 (A. P.).—With the arrival today of the Duke of Gloucester to attend the coronation of Ras Tafari as Haile Belassie First Emperor of the Ethiopians, the representatives of fifteen nations are here for the great ceremony Sunday.

Enthusiastic welcomes were given the others, including H. Murray Jacoby and the American delegation.

Ras Tafari reserved his highest honors for the Duke of Gloucester because he is the son of another monarch, King George, and for Marshal Franchet d'Esperey of France—the latter because he not only has a distinguished military record, but also because French Somaliland is a close neighbor to Abyssinia.

For these the king himself went to the railway stations, whereas the others were met by the crown prince.

The reception to Marshal D'Esperey yesterday was particularly impressive. As the officer entered the city, accompanied by Gov. Chapon-Baissac of French Somaliland and half a dozen other French officials, an Ethopian military band blared the stirring strains of the Marseillaise and the emperor stepped forward to greet D'Esperey, who was a striking figure in the glittering uniform of a field marshal.

Then, with the emperor beside him in a royal automobile and accompanied by other high Ethopian royalty, the marshal was taken to the French Legation.

Following the example of Italy, the French envoy presented Ras Tafari a large military airplane, which will increase the sovereign's air force to nine and will supplement the emperor's armadas of military tanks, gifts by France and Italy on previous occasions.

Meanwhile, this primitive African metropolis, which sits 9,000 feet above the sea, has an extraordinarily festive appearance, what with all its visitors and decorations, and like an anthill with activity. Tens of thousands of white-clad and barefooted Ethiopians are working night and day that all preparations may be completed by Sunday.

The chief difficulty in the plans is that Ethiopian horsemen are finding difficulty in training ten high-strung pedigreed horses, imported from Hungary, to draw the coach that will convey the emperor and empress in the ceremonies.

Because the animals are so nervous, palace officials fear that they will become frightened by the blare of music and crash of cannon Sunday, thus endangering the sovereigns.

ZRS-5 Appropriation Included in Navy Budget

(Associated Press.)

Secretary of the Navy Adams said yesterday an appropriation for construction of the ZRS-5, the second of two Navy super dirigibles, had been included in the Navy budget to be presented to Congress in December.

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, said the Navy had asked for an appropriation of $1,500,000 for construction of the ship. The total appropriation sought for Navy aircraft, Secretary Ingalls said, was approximately $32,000,000.

KANCHOW BELIEVED IN HANDS OF REDS

Failure of Chinese City's Radio to Answer Call Arouses Fear.

INVASION LONG PLANNED

Hongkong, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Failure of communication by wireless with Kanchow, a city of 250,000 population, in Kiangsi Province, caused fear here today that it had fallen to Communists, who have occupied the City of Kian since October 5.

The local government station's calls to Kanchow went unanswered, leading to the belief Reds had interfered with the Kanchow station, which is within the city walls.

Kanchow is in southern Kiangsi, four days' march from Kian. The former city has only 1,000 troops in its garrison. At Kian recently Red leaders intimated to Bishop Magnani and Father de Jenlis, Catholic missionaries, they planned to invade southern Kiangsi.

Released to Get Ransom.

The misionaries, captives of the Reds, later were released to obtain ransom for fourteen other missionaries, held as hostages. The released missionaries, arriving at Kiukiang, told of the Communists' plans.

At Kanchow there are thirteen foreign missionaries. Six are American Catholics, five British and two German Protestants. The Americans are all priests of the Vincentian order. Bishop O'Shea of Deep River, Conn., heads the Catholic group.

A report from Chiuchow, Northern Kwangtung Province, today said the American priests John McLaughlin, of Brooklyn, and Edward Young, of Jamestown, N. Y., who had been stationed at Nananfu, Kiangsi, left there October 9 en route to Canton.

Center of Red Movement.

Virtually all government in the province is in communistic hands. Some of its radical peasants are little more than bandits.

The principal Red stronghold was reported to be on a plateau 50 miles square northeast of Kanchow. It is well guarded and approachable only by a narrow pass.

CAMPAIGN FOR JOBS IS LIKENED TO WAR

NEW YORK SPEEDS PLAN

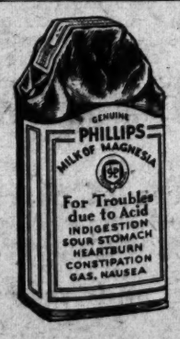
New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—This period of united effort to give jobs to those who need them is like a time of war, Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee on employment, today told women's club leaders from six States.

"This is war time now," he said, "and the common enemy is great suffering. It is making an assault upon our people.

"When Mr. Hoover wanted a job done in his program for conservation of food, the people who put it across were the women," Col. Woods said. "Now, the President expects equal results. If the women understand the problem, they can put it across again."

Meanwhile, New York City continued its efforts toward relief and providing jobs. Employment for 2,000 men until the end of the year was assured by an appropriation of $236,000 by the city board of estimate This plan makes available temporary jobs in the city parks at $5.50 a day. Each man will be employed for three days each week.

The police census of unemployed to date shows 18,806 persons are out of work. The census is not yet complete.



WHEN FOOD SOURS . . .

Sweeten the Stomach instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless. But it kills excess acids. It has remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for over fifty years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c bottles—any drugstore. The genuine is always a liquid—never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' on wrapper and bottle.

MARKETING IS TOPIC AT REALTY SESSION

DATA TO BE PUBLISHED

Detroit, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Emergence of American industry into a distribution age and the increasing importance of the problem of marketing its product occupied the attention of the industrial property division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at the concluding session of its fall meeting here today.

The increasing importance of the problem of marketing was brought up by Fred A. Gosnell, of the United States Census Bureau. He told the meeting of the census of distribution taken by the bureau in connection with the last census to obtain data for an approach to the problem.

The fruits of the Government's efforts were announced today as being compiled in book form by George C. Smith, director of the industrial bureau of St. Louis. The work will afford information to manufacturers seeking to determine definite market areas.

Gosnell said that the Government had made available for the first time information gleaned from more than 2,000,000 individual schedules showing where all kinds of products and commodities are made and where they are consumed. The information is expected to serve as a guide in the selection of future plant locations and in determination of distribution policies.

A year's study of various plans to bring additional capital to industries equipped to undertake more production, but which can not raise the necessary funds, was started today with the appointment of J. H. Van Vlissingen, of Chicago, as chairman of a committee to study the financing of industries requiring new capital.

The meeting closed tonight with an informal dinner at the Norton-Palmer Hotel, in Windsor, Ont.

Florida Oranges Move to Market

Capital Produce Places Assume Appearance of Season.

Washington produce markets during the last few days assumed a characteristic seasonal appearance with arrival of Florida oranges and Florida grapefruit, with Texas shipping a limited quantity of oranges. As many as 100 cars of Florida oranges have moved several days recently, according to a report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture.

An ample supply of late October sweet potatoes was reported. The report declared that the fall cabbage crop in South Carolina was good, with movement expected in late November.

A pronounced cut in the strawberry yield was foreseen on the basis of growers' reports. This was declared due to the drought and the scarcity of plants to reset strawberry beds, especially on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, Maryland, and in several other States.

CAPITOL RUM BUYERS HIT

ment legislation on the floor of the House, as regularly as it came up, and who was also one of my good customers. He said to me:

"George, I know my district is overwhelmingly dry. The people there believe in prohibition. They can have my vote for all the prohibition legislation they want as long as they want it. If the day comes when I get ready to retire from Congress it will be time enough for me to vote the way I drink."

"Dry" Customers' Attitude.

This particular member had no wish to keep liquor away from the other fellow, but he figured it as a practical matter that if he wanted to keep his seat in Congress he would have to vote with the majority of his constituents on this question. I found that same view pretty general among my "dry" customers.

There is no question in my mind that the various polls that have been taken in the last year or two and the referendums in some of the Western States have put courage into members of the Senate and House to vote their own personal convictions on Prohibition. Most of them won't switch until they are sure of their ground, but as soon as they become convinced their districts have gone "wet," the members I refer to will change from the "dry" to the "wet" column.

I would say that if the entire membership would vote today as they drink, you could get the required two-thirds majority in the House and Senate right now to submit the Eighteenth Amendment to the States for repeal or modification. But in my opinion these members won't act on that question until they are sure they can get by with it in their own districts.

Courtesy Breeds Secrecy.

In telling of my personal experiences with members of Congress, I figure I am doing them no harm and may be giving the general public some information that they are entitled to get.

As a matter of fact, every member of Congress who knows what is going on about him will agree that what I have told is a true picture of present conditions. More than one customer of mine will read this story and be pleased that it has been told even if he is in no position to tell it himself.

I think the reason for so much secrecy about liquor consumption on Capitol Hill has been due to what they call "senatorial courtesy." The members of the Senate regard it as a kind of a club and they don't like to tell about law observance on Capitol Hill because it might reflect on some of their associates. They practice the same rule in the House, although they don't call it by the same name.

Through With Rum Trade.

In telling this story I have not felt any malice toward any one or had any desire to injure the reputation of any man with whom I dealt. The fact is I have a kindly feeling toward members of Congress in general, and believe most of my customers will retain the same attitude toward me.

I want the world to know that I am through with working on Capitol Hill, or any place else, in the kind of business that has engaged me for the last ten years.

People who knew of my work with members of Congress sometimes asked me if I hadn't "made a million." The truth is that I never made more than a good living to support myself and my family. That was because I never went in for any of the side lines of prohibition, and never will.

One of the bad features I have observed under present conditions is that the prohibition laws make other worse offenses easier, but for ten years I stuck to my own business, worked hard, and have never even been charged with any other offenses.

No Feelings Toward Judge.

I can see plainly now that if I had gone into a different business and worked as hard as I have on Capitol Hill during the last ten years, I would be a whole lot better off today. So I intend to make a fresh start at some work that is more useful to society and more satisfying to myself.

Last July I stood at the bar in the District Supreme Court at Washington and got a sentence of eighteen months from Federal Judge Adkins for violation of the Jones "five and ten" law. If that sentence sticks it will be the first I have ever received for a felony. My other arrests for violation of prohibition laws were for misdemeanors.

I have no complaint to make against Judge Adkins. The case had been tried before Judge Gordon, and the jury had convicted me on the testimony of Sergt. George Little of the Washington vice squad that he had arrested me in front of the Senate Office Building with a pint of liquor on my person.

Appeal Is Pending.

The officer making the arrest had no warrant, but claimed justification on account of my previous arrests. That is the point the case will hinge on when it goes to the United States Court of Appeals a few months hence—whether they had the right to arrest me without a warrant.

I am willing to take my medicine without squawking, but I am going to put up a fight for my rights under the sections of the Constitution they tell me were adopted long before the prohibition amendment went into effect.

I have already served six months in the District Jail at Washington on previous deliveries to members of Congress.

Maybe I have some more coming to me, but I don't like to serve eighteen months more if it means the loss of my American citizenship.

Customers' Need Responsible.

Many good people may wonder how a man who had volunteered in the World War and served with the A. E. F. in France could come home and operate the kind of a business I handled on Capitol Hill.

I am willing to leave that question to the great majority of the folks who read my story. This, at least, is plain to every one, that I never went into the House or Senate Office Buildings without finding a welcome there from some member of Congress or his staff who had given me an order to deliver what I brought in. Every member of Congress and every secretary or clerk of a committee is under an oath to uphold and protect the Constitution. He has to take that oath before he gets on the Government pay roll.

Considering that I took the risk and did the leg work from 1920 to 1930, I am more than willing to let the general public decide how I stack up with the senator or representative who ordered the stuff and consumed it on the premises or transported it to his home.

Princess Is Given Judicial Guardian

French Court Takes Steps to Protect Fortune of Elderly Bride.

Paris, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—A French court today decided that a judicial guardian should be appointed to supervise the property of the 73-year-old Princess Marie Charlotte Constance de Broglie, who last month married Prince Louis Ferdinand d'Orleans-Bourbon, 41.

"It is necessary to defend the great fortune of the princess against disquieting covetousness," read the decision. Under its provisions the princess will be unable to use any part of her fortune for the benefit of her husband.

The court also charged that there were certain irregularities in the marriage of the couple, which took place at a London registry office.

Truck Driver Drowns In Plunge Into River

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—A man identified by papers in his pocket as Peter Lipari, 40, of Minden, W. Va., was drowned early today when he drove his truck into the Kentucky River at the Boonesboro Ferry.

The accident was discovered when the ferry boat, returning from the Clark County side of the river, struck the top of the submerged truck. With the aid of grappling hooks and cables, operators of the ferry pulled the truck out of the river and found the victim inside the closed cab.

Rate Change Asked By Western Lines

I. C. C. Gets Joint Petition for Readjustment of Rail Schedules.

(Associated Press.)

Western railroads yesterday joined in petitioning the Interstate Commerce Commission for revision of a decision readjusting Western trunk line rates.

Though the commission's projected schedules are intended to increase Western rail earnings by $12,000,000 per annum, the petition quuestioned the possibility of such a sum being earned by revised rates and urged it would be inadequate in any event.

During the first seven months of 1930 it was stated traffic volume has altered and decreased to the extent that the commission's new rates would not earn any extra money for the carriers. The decision at which the petition was aimed was intended to become effective in November, but in view of the petition and of the difficulty of preparing schedules it probably will not become effective for an indifinite period.

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe today appointed the Irving Trust Co. receiver in bankruptcy for Charles V. Bob & Co., as an aftermath of the involuntary petition in bankruptcy which was filed yesterday.

The petition for the receivership stated the company's assets consist mainly of Metal and Mining Shares, Inc., Metal & Mining Founders shares; stock of the Rainbow Luminous Products Co. and Golden Center Mines Co., bank accounts with the International Trust Co., the Guaranty Trust Co., and Chemical National Bank; also an estate at Montauk Point, Long Island., and the Westward Hotel in Phoenix, Ariz.

Political Life Is Embraced By Mrs. Wingo

Will Take Up Work of Husband in Halls of Congress.

WITH the zeal and courage of the true Southern woman, Mrs. Otis T. Wingo comes to the front of the political stage bearing the standard of Democracy and heading straight for the House of Representatives. In accordance with the wishes of her dying husband, former Representative Wingo, of Arkansas, Mrs. Wingo took the leap into politics a few days ago and, if all signs of the wiseacres are correctly appraised, the lady from De Queen, Sevier County, will be victorious on election day.

Without a moment's hesitation Mrs. Wingo took up the burden of politics as she put aside her personal grief to enter the fray shortly after Mr. Wingo's death.

Never before has the little lady from Arkansas faced the spotlight of public favor (and according to all returns from her home State it is 100 per cent favor), as her life has been one of sheltered domesticity. She may have been interested in clubs and all the usual endeavor attributed to women, yet she has engaged in little public speaking, "they" say. But with poise and assurance she seems to be carrying on as a candidate for the Fourth District of Arkansas.

And it is equivalent to election. Almost solidly Democratic the State of Arkansas surely is on the verge of sending another woman representative to Congress and under the same circumstances which led to the election of Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield, who also, in 1929, took up the work of her husband, the late Representative Allen Oldfield, of the Second District.

Significant of the gallantry of the South—and of politicians of the old type—is the withdrawal of the candidacy of Mr. A. D. Du Laney, of Ashdown, Ark., from the Democratic field upon the receipt of former Representative Wingo's last letter in which he outlined to his friend his hopes that his wife might "carry on" after his death. With true chivalry, Mr. Du Laney stepped down from the slate and is assembling the voters of his State in support of Mrs. Wingo.

Not a hard task. For "running" on the Democratic ticket in Arkansas is like riding on a merry-go-round. You just whirl on, gayly and carefree, until the thing stops and then sign up for another ride. Even the Republicans of the forested State of the Southwest are rallying to the idea of augmenting the light brigade in Congress. Almost to a man, political leaders have signified their faith in Mrs. Wingo, a pretty gesture and one of exceeding interest.

Unless all signs fail, Mrs. Wingo's quiet life about the hearthstone is flickering, at least for three years. Her chief champions, of course, are her son, Mr. Otis T. Wingo, a student at Princeton, and her daughter, Miss Blanche Wingo, who, it is said, has elected to make her future home in Washington anyway, as she will marry a professional man in the Capital.

Already the feminine group "on the hill" is waving a welcome from their own busy camps and, perhaps, some of them wishing the sailing were as smooth and the shoreline as smiling.

Miss Sorabji Will Be Feted In Washington

Indian Barrister Is to Be House Guest of Mrs. Hopkins.

Arriving in Washington November 4, Miss Cordelia Sorabji, of India, will be the guest of Mrs. Archibald Hopkins during her sojourn in the Capital. One of the outstanding women of her country, the visit of Miss Sorabji is anticipated with keen interest. She is coming from Canada, where she has been lecturing.

Miss Sorabji is a barrister of law of the High Court of Calcutta. She beat all English women to the bar, having been admitted to the legal profession in 1892, after receiving her degree of bachelor of civil law at Oxford University.

The English-Speaking Union will give a luncheon in her honor at the Willard on Thursday, November 6, and other festivities will be arranged, although the length of her visit in the Capital is uncertain and no parties have yet been planned.

A modern to the last degree, Miss Sorabji recounts with enthusiasm the strides that women of her country have made intellectually. "When Indian women go modern, they know no half measures," she says. Miss Sorabji cites the case of a school teacher, whose husband was of the same profession. The wife, however, earned a salary four times as large as her husband. He was finally relegated to the home and the task of bringing up their three children, while his wife continued to bring home the pay check.

Three War Planes Fly To Wedding of Pilot

Three planes of the Ninety-Sixth Bombardment Squadron took off from Bolling Feild yesterday afternoon in fighting formation on a mission which was distinctly unwarlike. They carried six officers of the squadron to Columbus, Ohio, to take part in the wedding of a fellow pilot.

The bridegroom, Lieut. John H. McCormick, is to be married to Miss Mary Sutherland at 4:30 o'clock today in Columbus. His Air Corps pilot friends may uncork a few tricks over the staid midwestern city to wish him good luck.

The three big Keystone bombers are from Langley Field, Va., and one of them participated yesterday in the Army observation of Navy Day. The other two flew up in time to make connection for the hop over the mountains to Columbus.

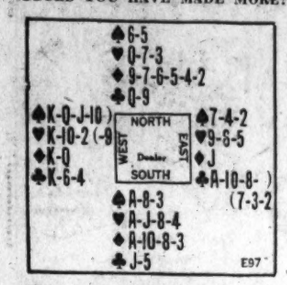
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE MADE MORE?



With the above hand at Auction Bridge South would bid one No Trump and West, a little short of the requisite strength but influenced by his honors, would bid two Spades, which would hold the contract.

At Contract Bridge South would bid No Trump, West two Spades, North would pass and East, with the knowledge that West would not bid Spades over a No Trump without material strength in the Spade suit, would bid four Spades; he has normal support in trumps, a singleton Jack and a six-card suit headed by an Ace.

Played at Auction Bridge with West the Declarer and a two-Spade contract, North had to choose between leading from a weak six-card Diamond suit or from a doubleton headed by a Queen in Clubs. South having bid No Trump, North decided that although Queen from Queen-x is a notoriously disadvantageous lead, a strengthening card might be of advantage to South and the lead might result in North's obtaining a ruff. West passed the Queen of Clubs up to his King, keeping the long Clubs in dummy, and then led a trump, which was won by South.

South did not dare return Clubs up to the complete command in dummy, and tried to save game by cashing the Ace of Diamonds and then leading the Ace and another Heart with the hope that North had the King; but West had it and won the trick. West then exhausted the adverse trumps in two leads and led a Club. When North played the Nine, West, assuming that North's original lead had been from Queen-Jack-Nine, finessed the Ten in dummy. Of course South won with the Jack and cashed a good Heart; so North and South won a Spade, two Hearts, a Diamond and a Club, and the Declarer took only eight tricks.

Could you have made more?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The error occured when Declarer finessed dummy's Club Ten at trick 8; the fact that the Jack was in the South hand was just as evident as if he had seen it. South would not have bid No Trump with a singleton Five of Clubs. He must have had at least two Clubs and the Jack was the only unplayed Club outside of the Declarer's two hands when the fatal Ten play was made. If East had won with the Ace and cashed the remaining Clubs, Declarer would have lost only the three tricks represented by South's Aces.

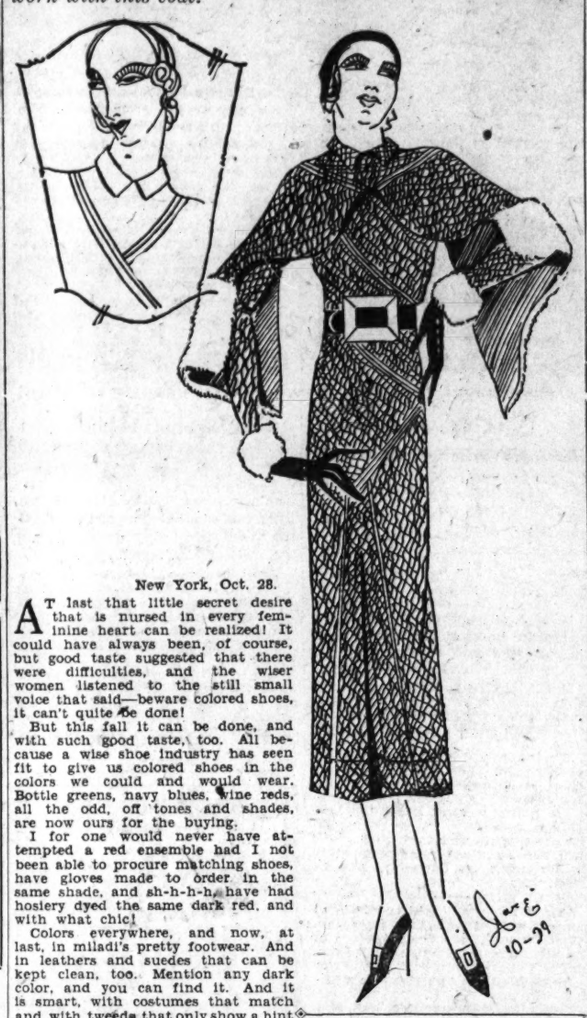
Ann Interprets the Mode

An interesting coat from Redfern is made of black and white tweed, with matching scarf, trimmed with inexpensive gray fur, and shows unusual diagonal stitching, and a large, plain belt buckle. The same fur trims the gloves that are worn with this coat.



New York, Oct. 28.

At last that little secret desire that is nursed in every feminine heart can be realized! It could have always been, of course, but good taste suggested that there were difficulties, and the wiser women listened to the still small voice that said—beware colored shoes, it can't quite be done!

But this fall it can be done, and with such good taste, too. All because a wise shoe industry has seen fit to give us colored shoes in the colors we could and would wear. Bottle greens, navy blues, wine reds, all the odd, off tones and shades, are now ours for the buying.

I for one would never have attempted a red ensemble had I not been able to procure matching shoes, have gloves made to order in the same shade, and sh-h-h-h, have had hosiery dyed the same dark red, and with what chic!

Colors everywhere, and now, at last, in miladi's pretty footwear. And in leathers and suedes that can be kept clean, too. Mention any dark color, and you can find it. And it is smart, with costumes that match and with tweeds that only show a hint of the certain color which you can accentuate with shoes and bag of solid color.

• • • •

The new shoes are completely lacking in fussiness or trimming. Tiny, most discreet bows, sometimes no wider than a quarter of an inch, and no longer than an inch, pipings of contrasting color, or lizard, a suede opera pump with a lizard heel; these make the trimming story. Oxfords for street wear, opera pumps, and one strap sandals tell the day-time story. Opera pumps and odd sandal effects tell the evening mode.

• • • •

And hats—how about sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet telling you how to make velvet berets, with variations? There are several ways to make berets, you know, and there are variations of each way. Easy, too, as you will be able to tell from the illustrated leaflet. Kiddies or grown-ups, no matter, berets are it for fall, and velvet ones are best!

The very latest in evening jewelry looks for all the world like a little schoolgirlish collar, flat, and formed of many jeweled strands. Whether of crystals, beautifully carved, or of rubies, sapphires and emeralds, they are delightful—and woe to our pocketbooks, extravagant!

• • • •

Did I tell you that I am changing color rapidly? Now that the holpolloi has given up the sun tan idea, your Dah-ray has taken it up—of necessity, I admit. Nevertheless, becoming tanned without benefit of Biarritz has its compensations—the compensation in this instance being the handsome Swede who gives me the canned sun. And now I'll have to have a lot of those new Paris frocks dyed, darn it! You can't get away with sun tan and pearl gray, for instance, but every clever French woman knows the boon of the dyeing establishments—and I always did like that new mulberry-inky color, anyhow.

What about "galyak" and "gallack." Well, it's this way. It's a Russian word, and well, you know what I mean if you have ever tried to read Russian—which you haven't, but can if you wish by buying a Russian song with translations. So it can be spelled either way, and still mean that new kind of fur that is so smart these days. Monsieur Jacques Heim, of our favorite couturier and who should-oughter know, spells it the latter way. Maybe that's the French of it—all-right, have it your way.

And here's your reminder again, to read Dare's weekly fashion letter every Sunday in The Post.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

KEEPING ADULTS ALIVE.

"THE greatest problem of today in the field of public health is to keep down mortality in middle and later life." This is quoted from the bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and is based upon bookkeeping in the lives of many million people.

They pass over the diseases of babies, a subject which engages so much of our thought; over typhoid fever, to prevent which we spend millions on sewage and water; over consumption, for which we build enormous hospitals, and, of course, over smallpox, diphtheria and such trifles. We sorrow over the loss of babies and children, but let us not forget that middle-aged people also want a run for their money.

The bulletin uses the above quotation as a part of an article on overweight and underweight. Overweight people supply the great bulk of the diabetics. The mortality from diabetes among the fat people was nearly three times the normal. Therefore, let every fat person beware of diabetes. It may be on him or just around the corner. Some of the other hazards of overweight approach diabetes. Bright's disease is in second place; arterial disease, including high blood pressure, was a close third; apoplexy was fourth; heart disease fifth, and cancer sixth. Since these are now the principal menaces to life it behooves the fat person to watch his step.

This study places pneumonia among the diseases which especially threaten the underweights. Dr. Muhlberg says that mortality from pneumonia was highest among those who were extremely underweight. He does not supply information as to the pneumonia death rate among the extreme overweights. There is an old and widely accepted opinion that fat people do not stand pneumonia well. That may be based on experience with the very fat. It is also generally accepted that fat people are poor surgical risks.

Part of the disease which accompanies overweight is due to the burden of work put on the heart, kidneys, and blood vessels by the extra body bulk. There are people who are obese because of diseased ductless glands. Many, if not most of the overweights, are so because they eat too much and do too little work or take insufficient exercise.

Many persons accept overweight as a part of life, thinking it natural to grow fat as years advance. This is not true. Any increase of weight after the age of 30 is the result of underexercise and overeating. The responsibility, therefore, for much of the fatal diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, Bright's disease, and apoplexy lies on those faulty habits which lead to obesity.

TO MAKE THE CALLA LILY BLOOM.

THE calla lily is such a familiar flower that we are apt to forget its lineage. In fact, some of its most enthusiastic admirers may not know that this stately lily bloomed along the Nile in the days when Cleopatra's golden barge, rowed by Ethiopian slaves, was wont to glide among those storied waters.

Many persons in our prosaic day who attempt to grow the calla with its wealth of tropical foliage and its great, trumpet-shaped flowers (as the spathe surrounding spadix on which the flowers are borne is called) fail to succeed with it or are perhaps successful only to a degree. They may have plants with any number of large, splendid green leaves, but that is all. They are apt to say, "My calla seems healthy, but it simply will not bloom."

Now, as an answer to this statement, and by way of encouragement, let me say: Your calla will not bloom until it has attained an age of 2 years. This is true of all callas, whether they grow in Egypt, in greenhouses or in your living room. So, after all, it may only be a case of watchful waiting on your part."

But for the benefit of those whose callas are not quite healthy or whose plants may be more than two years old, let me explain how you may treat them so as to have both leaves and blossoms.

The calla has very definite requirements regarding the soil. It must have a soil as nearly as possible resembling the alluvial deposits that are left along the Nile when, twice a year, it overflows its banks. It is in this rich soil that the Egyptian lily thrives, so we must make a loam whose constituents resemble this native soil if we would be successful with this lily.

A soil composed of leafmold, sand (for drainage), and some mucky material found about the edges of swamps or ponds suits the calla best. If you live far from any ponds or marshes, ask your florist to give you some suitable soil. He will be sure to have some that meets the calla's requirements.

Always see that you have perfect drainage, for while the calla is aquatic in its nature it resents stagnant water at its roots. Keep it wet by frequent applications of water rather than by permitting it to stand in water. Stagnant water is sure to start root decay. With perfect drainage you will have no acidity in the soil.

A little stimulation in the form of liquid manure will be found to be of benefit at the time you discover the first bud.

The calla is one bulb which must have an abundance of fresh air, but while it demands air, it abhors drafts.

In a warm, sunny room this bulb must be watered every day.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF OCTOBER 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., from 2 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Physical dangers are pictured on this date through mechanical means, such as motors, factory machinery or elevators. Health may fall below normal. Business and finances will stand still. Romantic adventures in your favor.

Children born on this October 29 will be imperious, dominative, forceful and quarrelsome. They will be inclined to "know it all," and much of their conceit will have to be taken out of them by the world. They will have alert minds, and will not be afraid of work. They will seek a public life.

Pessimism and worry debar you from much happiness and lessen your chances for success in life. Your mind magnifies all your clouds and minimizes all your sunbeams; ignores many of your blessings, but counts all your curses. You mope and brood over imaginary ills and evils. You wear yourself weary in self-contemplation, self-pity and self-distrust. You need to fight against moral defeatism. You need to exert your will and to substitute resolution for irresolution, decision for indecision, action for inaction, purpose for vacillation, and high spirits for low spirits.

You are somewhat of a dreamer, and you live on ideals and possibilities rather than the actualities of life. You seldom set the ball rolling by your own efforts. You are quick tempered and alive to slights and anything which affects your sensibilities. You often get "underneath the skin" of others through your caustic and sarcastic remarks. You love to probe the weak points of others, although it would be better to rub them with diplomatic salve.

You are not brilliantly intellectual, but you have enough ability, and clever enough hands to excel in some industry. If you be content to fit into your proper place in life, you will be happier and far more successful than in trying to do something for which you are not fitted. True happiness is not born of circumstance—it is a state of being found in the kingdom of spirit that is within us.

Successful people born October 29:
1. Justus H. Rathbone, founder of the Knights of Pythias.
2. Joe Evans, landscape artist.
3. James Percy Ault, magnetician.
4. Anna Case, singer.
5. Hannah Amelia Davidson, editor and author.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Grandfather Scolds Martha.

REMEMBER Martha, who wanted to leave her husband because he would not buy her a new fur coat? Well, Grandfather today tells Martha a few truths about marriage. Truly grandfathers today must be pretty well shocked at the modern view of all that marriage used to mean. Here's your scolding, Martha. Read every word.

Dear Miss McDonald—Grandfather, on the threshold of 80, finds great difficulty in feeling any sympathy or even respect for Martha in the plight in which she finds herself—"five years married to a man whom she is convinced will never get anywhere, because he can not provide her with the things that make life worthwhile."

But we must not be too hard on Martha. Her parents, more perhaps than she, are to blame for her present unhappiness, in that they fostered, if they did not directly distort, her outlook on life. It is quite clear from Martha's letter that her parents taught her wrong, brought her up wrong, and did not prepare her either for life's enjoyment or for the marriage which she now finds galling. Martha is chafing over the lack of money, wants her husband to sell the stock he is trying to acquire in the company for which he works. Martha does not realibe what a gem of a husband she has. He is solid with his firm, has had three raises in five years, receives gifts from the company, and is, I take it, some worker and some success ful man. Martha to the contrary, notwithstanding. What a picture! A wife with so little common sense that she can not measure the real values of life—can only see them in squirrel coats and five-dollar checks at the lunch table in some high-brow eating place.

Grandfather craves Martha's patience, while he tries to tell her of the vast mistakes she is making, and that her parents have made in grounding the idea in her mind that fur coats, and those other "worthwhile things" are really worth while. What Martha wants, in her utterly disproportionate view of life, is not at all important; never did and never can bring happiness. Probably the best thing for Martha to do is to go back to her mammon and flesh pots in her father's house, and pass on into a life of empty-handed selfishness.

Now for another picture. Grandfather knows a young couple, who are living in three rooms, with a baby as sweet as they always are. The boy makes $18 a week, and is not yet 21. Each Friday night Grandfather goes over to their flat and sits reading and nodding over a magazine while those two kids go to a movie. If change is low Grandfather puts up the price. It is their one week's enjoyment, their one evening out together. They are two red-blooded youngsters who just got married, and began to reflect about it afterward. But that girl was made of the right kind of stuff. She has no illusions about living on $18 a week. She just does it, though nobody sees how. She has no fur coat—but a sweet baby. She works, works and then some; but she is happy as a lark. Those two have paid for some furniture, paid their doctor and hospital bill. They are now saving a small part of that $18 each week. Grandfather wants them to get $100 to invest in a mortgage note as a starter to fortune. And that boy and girl have given up their cigarettes, sodas and "the other things worth while," and are living in a happiness too great and sweet to talk about here.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

The Afternoon Nap.

Most children below 5 apparently require sleep or rest during the day, but it is a mistake to try to enforce the afternoon nap rule on every child.

Recent studies of the amount of sleep required by children tend to show a wide variation in individual needs.

One child may need sleep during the day to supplement his night's rest, another is sufficiently rested by the sleep which he gets between night and morning.

Where a medical examination indicates no fatigue or irritability it is folly to try to force a child to take an afternoon nap if he does not want to.

Where, however, a child does give evidence of fatigue and still objects to his nap we must use all our skill in "putting it over" successfully.

His noon-day meal should be especially cheerful and serene and he should be put to bed with as little comment as possible.

He should understand that whether he goes to sleep or not, he must rest in his bed for a certain period of time.

In order to "put over" the afternoon nap successfully it is necessary for the child to realize there is no room for argument and no chance for escape by special plea.

If the rule is quietly and regularly enforced he will usually lose his resistance to the idea and will permit himself to enjoy the sleep he needs.

It is well to keep in mind that punishment and the kind of admonition which begins—"If you don't go to sleep you can't—" are specially out of order.

IT WAS LOCKED

By JOHN HAWK.

READ THIS FIRST.

The Earl of Winston's body is found in the room of Robin Smith, young poet, at a house party at Alston Manor. Robin has stranded so he may see Lady Gwendolen Winston, with whom he is desperately in love. In a fit of anger the poet locks his door and jumps out of the window, returning to his attic room. The next day he is arrested and the various members of the party testify at the coroner's inquest. Bruce Armstrong, big game hunter, is on the stand and believes the poet innocent. Robin Smith is called to the stand. He denies that he had anything to do with the murder. After the inquest Lady Dorothy Alston prevails upon Gwendolen to stay at Alston Manor while Scotland Yard detectives work on the murder case. Inspector Linscott hunts for clews. He receives a telegram from headquarters.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Inspector Linscott tore off the envelope and read the message. He had been excited by the announcement and his excitement grew as he read. Dated from London, the message said:

Colonial identified here as Willis Hanson. Claims entire ignorance. Offered to go to Alston to see you personally, so I am accompanying him on next train.

PHILLIPS.

The inspector turned excitedly to the butler.

"When's the next train due from London?"

"In about 40 minutes, sir." The bland countenance did not show a sign of interest. It struck Linscott as curious. Most Frenchmen he had met were animated, and this man, who purported to be of that race, was as poor an apology for a Frenchman as he had ever met.

"I'll meet it," the inspector announced, jumping to his feet. "Have I time to walk it?"

"I'm sure her ladyship——"

"I don't want a car!" snapped the inspector. "Have I time to walk it, I asked?"

"If you hurry, sir."

"Just what I feel like doing—let off some steam." Inspector Linscott rapidly gathered up his papers and put them into the attache case which he always carried with him. The butler bowed and retired, his expression as indifferent as when he first entered the room.

When the train from London arrived at Alston Station Inspector Linscott had already been for some minutes pacing up and down the circumscribed platform. This was the chance for which he had been waiting. He felt that he was close to a big discovery.

Few passengers alighted, and his eyes lit up with pleasure when he espied Inspector Phillips. The stranger with him was abnormally tall, about 6 foot 4. His head was covered with thick, coarse, straw colored hair, a clipped beard and bristling moustache, and eyebrows of the same color. He wore a ridiculously small cap, the peak of which he had pulled well down over his deep-set hazel eyes. He advanced to meet the inspector, and extended a large bony hand.

"I hear you want me," he drawled, a twinkle appearing in his eyes. "Well, here I am."

Inspector Linscott narrowly watched every gesture. The fellow was obviously a backwoodsman.

Inspector Phillips touched his arm. "I must get the next train back to the city," he said. "It's due in a quarter of an hour. I'm glad you were here to meet me, or I might have had difficulty in making it."

"But—er——"

"Mr. Hanson refused to discuss the matter with me. Instead, he entertained me with thrilling stories of his native country. You'll want to go out there as badly as I do if he gives you a dose of the same medicine."

The stranger smiled, a broad, good-natured smile, which wrinkled his entire face. "We'll get on, I can see," he said to Inspector Linscott, after he had said good-by to his other escort. "Where do we go from here?"

"I think we had better return to Alston Manor," said Linscott. "If you don't mind, we can walk."

"Me, mind? Why, I've walked 50 miles many a day!" Mr. Hanson strode from the station, and in the direction of the road. The inspector, while quick on his feet, had difficulty keeping pace with the long strides of his companion.

"Now, we may as well get down to business," commenced the Canadian, as soon as they were out of earshot of the curious stragglers about the station. He had rather taken command of the situation, to the inspector's annoyance.

"We will wait until we reach the manor," returned Linscott, with decision.

The Canadian raised his bristling eyebrows in a comic expression and chuckled, but no further words were exchanged during the walk to their destination.

As they entered the grounds surrounding the old manor house, a large motor car rushed past them, barely giving the inspector an opportunity to recognize Donald Flint. He had understood that Lady Gwendolen's fiance was staying on for a few days, and as he was not yet aware of the breaking of the engagement, he found no ready explanation for his sudden departure. Consequently he made a mental check against the financial magnate which he resolved to investigate at the earliest opportunity.

Inspector Linscott led the stranger immediately to the spacious library, which he was right in surmising the family would shun for some time, because of the memories of the inquest it contained.

"Now," he said, motioning his companion to a seat on which the full light from the long French window fell, and choosing one for himself in the shadow, but near the other. "If you would be good enough to answer a few questions. * * *"

"Rather . . ." was the drawling reply. "I came all the way from London for just that."

"First, I understand your name is Willis Hanson, and that you are a native of Canada."

"Quite correct."

"And that you were walking through this village on the evening of Friday last. . . ."

"I stopped at the inn for some food and a chat," interrupted Mr. Hanson. "Then, as it was getting dark, I made tracks for Merryville, which I was told was the next sizable place."

"But you never reached Merryville!"

"How do you know?" asked the astonished Canadian. "You weren't watching me then, were you?"

Inspector Linscott deigned to smile. "It's my business to know," was all he said.

"Well, now you mention it, I did not get to Merryville, and it is about that I took the dirty trip from London to tell you personally."

"Ah . . ." The inspector leaned forward, listening, and at the same time watching the stranger carefully.

"You see, it was this way." Mr. Hanson leaned back comfortably in the deep chair and took out a briar pipe. "Mind if I smoke?"

"Not at all!"

"So much the better," he drawled, beaming brightly at the expectant man. "I can talk better when I'm smoking." He lit the pipe and began to puff slowly without speaking.

"You were going to tell me. . . ."

"So I was. You see, it was this way," he repeated. "I came over to see the old country . . . and as right trim lady she is, I'll say—such pretty fields, so green and fertile . . . but as I was saying, I came over to take a look at old England, and I said to myself, the way to see a country is to walk through it on your own two feet, Willis Hanson. So as I'm telling you, I took a look around London first, the biggest town in the world, so I was told, and it proved a whopper of a town, sure enough! Anyway, I got fed up with houses and streets and the like. So one fine day it's me and me bundle for the country, and I walk from place to place, enjoying it like. It was Friday I came along here—you're right about the date, I'm not the man to dispute facts. And a pleasanter stretch of country and better weather I never hoped to see than when I got here that same Friday afternoon. . . ."

He paused to light his pipe, which he had allowed to go out in the obvious enjoyment of recounting his story to such an interested listener. The inspector began to move restlessly. Would the man never get to the point, he wondered, or was he deliberately playing for time? His manner was so entirely comfortable and natural that it was difficult to believe that the fellow had anything to do with the sanguine occurrence at the Manor. The inspector was beginning to feel dubious as to the prospects of any practical outcome.

"You see, it was this way," Mr. Hanson finally resumed, crossing his legs and swaying his foot rhythmically up and down. "I intended to go on to Merryville and then around through Kent. I just stopped at the inn here for a snack and a chat . . . hadn't spoken to a soul since morning, you see. . . . Though, to be honest with you, I ain't much at palaver, not me! Well, I hung around until it began to get suddenly dark. Then says I to myself: 'This looks uncommonly like a storm, Willis, old boy. Better be making tracks for Merryville.' So says I to myself, and paid by 'count to the landlord, and set off in this direction . . ."

IN THE PLAY HOUSE By JOHN J. DALY

"WHAT have you got in the way of a good seat?" a lady asked Mr. Stoddard Taylor in the lobby of the Belasco yesterday. He was tempted to say "A post!" but thought better of it and sold her one on the aisle.

In the midst of all the hilarity caused by Ed Wynn bringing his musical comedy, "Simple Simon," to Lafayette Square, the first of its kind there since "The Little Show" got under way, the serious-minded are casting glances toward next week. David Belasco then brings in a new play, by Mrs. Lily Hatvaney, called "Tonight or Never," with Helen Gahagan featured in a promising cast. A Belasco premiere in Washington is always something to bring out the old-line theatergoers.

A busy week at the National. Tomorrow night Mrs. Fiske switches from "Ladies of the Jury," the opening number in her repertoire, to "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," a vehicle that served her many years ago. The last play of the trip will be "Becky Sharp," Saturday matinee and night. As soon as the Fiske repertoire company deserts the boards in the E street playhouse, Mr. Harry Rapley will move in the greatest thriller of all, a play that startled even blase Broadway—"Subway Express." During the run of "Subway Express" at the Liberty Theater in New York, many out-of-towners, seeing the electric sign on the theater Marquis, made the mistake of entering the lobby instead of the subway, but a nickel didn't get 'em far.

For 37 years Adolph Fassnacht has been playing the Christus in the Freiburg Passion Play, now occupying the boards in the Auditorium. His exquisite voice has seldom been heard outside of the theater in this country, but tomorrow afternoon he and Mrs. R. B. Van Courtright, wife of the concert master, will sing over the radio, in an hour sponsored by Charles N. Musser—the Movie Hour over WJSV, at 3:30, from Mount Vernon Hills, Va. This station, incidentally, has another actor scheduled soon for a recital, Mr. Robert L. Downing, late star of "Damon and Pythias."

Robert Emmet Sherwood, who wrote "The Road to Rome," a play that had its premiere in Washington several seasons back, with Jane Cowl in the leading role, has just finished another bit of drama that will soon be produced. Arthur Hopkins, who looks mighty like Frank Morse, erstwhile Washington play reviewer and now a big bond and brokerage man, is going to produce the play. As yet it has not been named. Because "The Road to Rome" had such luck here on its premiere, there is a possibility that Washington may have first peep at the new play.

When "The Front Page"—that high-powered drama of newspaper life—played Washington, Mr. Lee Tracy, the star performer, was feted quite considerably by the Washington representatives of the Fourth Estate. After his week here, in the National, Tracy hit for the West Coast, where he went over big in several motion pictures. Now he is on the way back to Broadway, to take a prominent part in a new work of art, "Oh, Promise Me," which has something to do with the loan shark business, recently exposed by The Washington Post. The play is by Bertrand Robinson and Howard Lindsay.

America, heretofore, has seen samples of drama from all parts of the universe, including the Scandinavian countries; but, until now, no one ever had the nerve to introduce a Hindu play. Last night New Yorkers were privileged to see Sisir Bhaduri and his troupe from Calcutta in an ancient opus called "Sita," adapted to the modern theater by Dr. Bhaduri himself, with dancing by several nautch girls—the real article.

A new play opened in Baltimore Monday night: Thompson Buchanan's comedy, "As Good as New." On its way to New York, it was received with open arms by the Baltimoreans. Smart, spicy and humorous are the adjectives used by the reviewers. The lead is played by Otto Kruger, remembered here for his work in "The Nervous Wreck."

Smart Americans Finding Pleasant Mecca in Mexico

Mexico City, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—For two years Mexico has been a mecca for Americans—from officials of the State Department to the most inconspicuous touristas.

In this the smart world, artists, the intelligentsia and mere seekers after new worlds to conquer have shared.

Inclusion last spring of the Junior League of Mexico City in the American association aroused the curiosity of America's younger generation.

There are no "seasons" for society in Mexico City, one finds, only the wet and dry. The pleasant round of entertaining continues more or less uninterruptedly from one year's end to the next.

The foreign colony in Montezuma's ancient capital has weathered so many revolutions that there is now an "ancient regime" of Anglo-Americans that recalls the halcyon days of Diaz, when Mexico City boasted 15,000 Americans. Now the American group has dwindled to 3,000 and the British to 1,500.

But hundreds of United States tourists this year benefited by the entente cordiale established between the Rubio regime and their Government.

Already in the remotest Indian villages the American, while still an object of curiosity, is not unfamiliar.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Morrow and their entourage were a center of interest and influence in the American colony while Mr. Morrow was ambassador.

Nearly every week-end found the Morrows at their country place at Cuernavaca.

There, as a parting gesture of affection for the Mexican nation, Mr. Morrow commissioned the Mexican painter, Diego Rivera, much-discussed modernist, to decorate the east corridor of the palace built by Cortez, which is the seat of the government at Cuernavaca.

Aviation Is Alicia's Hobby But Her Romance Crashed

Chicago, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Talented Alicia Patterson has followed her sister, Eleanor, the beautiful nun of Morris Gest's "The Miracle," to the divorce court after a short-lived romance.

Alicia, younger of the two daughters of the New York magazine and newspaper publisher, sought a divorce from James Simpson, jr., youthful son of James Simpson, Chicago mercantile baron.

Mrs. Simpson charged desertion a year and a day from the time when her wedding was a social sensation. Eleanor obtained a divorce from Russell Codman, jr., a year ago.

Despite the wealth that is theirs, unmindful of opportunities for social triumphs, and spurning a life of ease, Alicia and Eleanor made names for themselves.

Eleanor had had meager amateur stage experience when Gest selected her as the nun in his stage spectacle. It was a difficult role, but critics praised her work.

Alicia was captivated by aviation. She learned to fly. Simpson, too, was an air enthusiast. Their common interest in flying led to romance and marriage.

A honeymoon in Europe—and seven months after the vows Jim and Alicia were living apart.

The younger Patterson girl also has done some magazine and novel writing. Her father is a flying devotee and on one occasion Alicia flew with him to South America and all countries of the Antilles. Alicia piloted the flying boat during part of the trip.

W.C.T.U. to Report On "Cocktail War"

Punchless Punch Bowl Has Been Aim of the Association.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The result of a year's effort to ostracize the "society cocktail" and to popularize the punchless punch bowl will be told at the annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Houston, Tex., November 14 to 19.

A year ago Mrs. James M. Doran, wife of the commissioner of industrial alcohol, was named chairman of a new W. C. T. U. department, that of "nonalcoholic fruit products." Her aim, largely, was to encourage the use by hostesses of nonalcoholic cocktails, punches and other society drinks. Mrs. Doran will report her results.

The convention will pay particular attention to discussions of results of governmental control of liquors in Canada.

Doughnuts (4 dozen)

(Old-fashioned sweet kind.)

3 eggs.
1 cup sour milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
2 tablespoons fat, melted.
4 cups flour.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.

Beat eggs and add sugar and milk. Let stand 10 minutes, to dissolve sugar. Stir several times. Add other ingredients and when soft dough forms, toss it upon well floured board and roll out until dough is 1-3 inch thick. Cut out with doughnut cutter and fry in deep hot fat. When well browned, let drain on soft paper.

Cracker Jack.

(The children like this.)

4 cups popped corn, chopped.
2 cups shelled, roasted peanuts.
2-3 cup molasses.
½ cup sugar.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon vinegar.
1-3 cup water.
½ teaspoon soda.

Mix molasses, sugar, butter, vinegar and water. Cook slowly and without stirring, until small portion "clicks" when tested in cold water. Add soda and stir well. Add other ingredients and mix well. Pour into shallow, greased pan. Spread out flat with broad side of greased knife. Let stand until firm and then cut in bars with sharp knife.

For a change, roll doughnut dough into balls 1½ inches in diameter and fry in deep hot fat until well browned on all sides. When cool roll in powdered sugar or coconut.

When sugaring doughnuts, place some sugar in a paper sack and add several doughnuts at a time. Pinch top of sack together and shake. The sugar will quickly coat doughnuts.

When frying doughnuts, turn them but once. If dough is too rich or fat not hot enough, doughnuts will be grease-soaked.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

NIGHTGOWNS FOR CHILDREN.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Summer night wear should be thin and soft. The gowns may be made of soft-finish crepe, nainsook, long cloth or thin muslin. The neck should be cut round and the sleeves should be loose and short. For winter gowns, heavier materials may be used. Outing flannel is much favored because of its warmth and softness, but mothers must remember that many children have been seriously burned because of the inflammable nature of these materials.

A spark from an open fire or from a carelessly thrown match is often sufficient to set fire to a child's garment. The greatest care must be used to guard against this danger. Part-wool flannel may be used, or heavy cotton twill with fleeced lining. Ready made night wear having legs and feet may be bought, which is both warm and soft and will keep the child completely covered. Draw strings may be run in the hems at the bottom of the garment and in the bottoms of the sleeves, to be drawn up after the child is ready for bed. In the coldest weather it may be necessary to have the child wear a shirt under his nightgown, but the day shirt should always be taken off and a different one used at night.

New Laying Record Set By Five Hens in Iowa

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Five white leghorn hens, owned by E. H. Rucker, former University of Missouri professor now living at Ottumwa, Iowa, have set a new world's egg laying record.

The hens have laid 1,589 eggs in 361 days or 318 eggs a hen. The previous record, set last year in Storrs, Pa., was 302 eggs a hen.

Fakers Must Fail
In Their Absurd Appeals
To the Fat

Fakers have flourished in their appeals to the over-fat. Not many remain. Some of their methods were harmful, some absurd. All have perished quickly in the test.

One reason is that medical science has found a great cause of excess fat. It lies in a lacking gland secretion which must be supplied. Doctors the world over now supply it, and excess fat in late years has been going fast.

A world-famous medical laboratory embodies this factor in Marmola prescription tablets. Not to oppose doctors, but to supply their best help in a very economical way. Thus Marmola opens the right way to millions who might otherwise go wrong.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. The use has grown and grown, while the frauds disappeared by the scores. Now in every circle you can see the results. Your own friends can recite them. Slender figures are the vogue.

Marmola, in every box, gives the formula complete. It also tells you why the fat goes, why new vim appears.

If you have been enticed by fakes, by silly claims, go now and use what doctors use. Combat your fat in the right and scientific way. Gain normal figure, normal vim in Nature's way. Then tell your friends about it—they should know. Go now and order a $1 box from your druggist. Read the book, watch the many good results.

PARENTS, TEACHERS MEET IN LYNCHBURG

HOME PROBLEMS CITED

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Oct. 28.—About a hundred delegates attended three sessions of the Virginia Congress of Parent-Teachers here today at the Methodist Protestant Church. The convention will adjourn Wednesday night.

Following round table discussions on humane education and child welfare, the convention was called to order by the State president, Mrs. Arthur Rowbotham, of Alta Vista. Maj. J. Tanner Kinnier's welcome was responded to by Miss Kate Wheeler.

In her annual address Mrs. Rowbotham said that the association is one of the best organizations of the day. An outline of the 1931 program was given, including an intensive study of child welfare as a major project.

Dr. Julian A. Burruss, president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, speaking on the subject, "The Science of Challenge and Industry" declared that inventions will shorten work time, predicting that the time will be cut to two hours a day.

"The important aim is to train young people for leisure now. The school must tie up with the community to see through parents and children to develop a wholesome community, social, civic and intellectual life, which should result in better homes, gardens, community planning and beautification. The great danger is that this increased leisure time will be commercialized, used for worthless forms of amusement, or even for debauchery and vice," said Dr. Burruss.

He urged that responsibility for indifference on part of young people to church and Bible rests with parents, relatives, teachers, ministers, public officials and others responsible for home training leadership, example, contacts, treatment and environment of the young.

This afternoon Mrs. John P. Buchanan discussed music in the public schools and Mrs. S. C. Cox gave a report of the Denver convention.

Tonight at a banquet in the Virginian Hotel Dr. Dice R. Anderson, president of Randolph-Macon Women's College, and Dr. J. L. Jarman, president of Farmville State Teachers College, gave greetings and an address was made by Dr. Francis Hume Scott, pastor of First Christian Church, Roanoke.

The congress holds three sessions tomorrow.

Man Found Dead in Tree Is Puzzle to Authorities

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 28.—Authorities at Richwood are puzzled over the death of James Smith, 60, a woodsman, whose lifeless body was found by boys in a tree near Richwood last night, and an autopsy has been ordered by the coroner.

A heavy twine was fastened around the neck, but there is no evidence of strangulation. The man may have been murdered or he may have taken poison in a double effort at suicide.

to be in charge of the women's activities. John B. Blandford, jr., of Cincinnati, will work with municipalities. Bryce Stewart, New York statistician, has charge of gathering information on unemployment and the places where work may be found.

Pleased With Action.

Col. Woods said he was pleased with the organization by Gov. Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, of a State employment committee, to apply the recommendations of the President's committee for a State-wide campaign for employment.

Other States in which no existing organization is functioning, he said, undoubtedly would adopt similar programs.

Plans of the Postoffice Department to place 228,490 additional persons on its pay roll during the Christmas holiday season beginning December 13, were outlined yesterday by Postmaster General Brown. In this manner about $6,720,000 will be distributed to needy breadwinners, President Hoover having previously signed an executive order waiving civil service qualifications, to make certain of the widest distribution to the most destitute.

Although about 200,000 extra employes were used last Christmas, many were not in actual need. The Postmaster General has issued specific orders to postmasters throughout the country to determine the financial condition of the applicants.

Will Award Contracts.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said the Veterans' Bureau would award contracts within a few weeks for hospital units costing $7,000,000, which would provide work for 4,500 men. The hospitals are to be at Indianapolis, Ind.; Waco, Tex., and Camp Custer, Mich. Additions will be undertaken at Northport, Long Island; Somerset, N. J., and Tucson, Ariz.

Bids were opened yesterday for a $5,270,000 office building for the House of Representatives in Washington, as another unemployment measure.

In addition, Secretary Wilbur advised the President's emergency committee that he had instructed the engineers of the $165,000,000 Hoover Dam project, on the Colorado River, to expedite their request for bids on initial construction. Bids aggregating $10,000,000 on units of the various projects will be opened within a few weeks under this plan.

Appeal for Assistance.

While the campaign moved forward, appeals for work reached the committee as well as offers of assistance.

S. B. Creveling, president of the Civic Club, at West End, Pa., wrote:

"I appeal to you to give as much help as your good office can to the west end of Schuylkill County, where 1,800 men were thrown out of employment by the closing of the mines."

He suggested the State be urged to put some of the men to work on a highway project between Tremont and Pine Grove, Pa.

Col. O. Emmendorfor, of St. Louis, representing the Spanish-American War veterans' organization here, said, in a telegram, that men were begging for jobs in that city.

Mrs. Charles J. Reeder placed the New York Federation of Women's Clubs at the service of the committee.

ZIHLMAN IS DARED TO PROVE CHARGES

Ill Behooves Candidate to Denounce Brooke Lee, Speaker Says.

PROGRAM IS PRAISED

Challenging Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican candidate for reelection to Congress, to prove his charges of dishonesty and vote buying in Montgomery County, George P. Hoover, chairman of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, yesterday defended Democratic principles before a meeting of the Woman's Democratic Club of Montgomery County held in the State Theater, Bethesda.

Mr. Hoover declared that it "ill behooves" Representative Zihlman, under indictment in connection with his F. H. Smith Co. activities, to denounce Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, "whom every one knows to be honest and sincere." He then discussed F. Barnard Welsh, Republican candidate for State's attorney, whom he dubbed a "malcontent" and charged that the entire Republican campaign was one of "villification without justification." He explained the provisions of the Cramton bill.

Miss Lavinia Engle, Democratic candidate for member of the Maryland House of Delegates, told the gathering that both State and county Democrats in office had made a splendid record in promoting a comprehensive program of education, public health and social welfare improvements. She urged support of the Democratic tickets, State and county, in order that these programs could be carried out.

Mrs. Richard Cleveland, daughter-in-law of Grover Cleveland, told of the immense improvement that has been made in Maryland in educational and public health endeavors under Gov. Ritchie's administration.

Marvin Farrington, of Chevy Chase, Democratic candidate for member of the House of Delegates, lauded the great improvement in the county school administration under the present Democratic administration. Mrs. C. E. Roach, chairman of the club, presided. Stedman Prescott, Democratic candidate for State's attorney, introduced the speakers and spoke briefly in defense of the use of bond issues for public improvements.

Antilynching Law Conviction Gained

Man Given Four-Year Term Is First Found Guilty Under Statute.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 28.—What is believed to have been the first conviction secured under the Virginia antilynching law was obtained at Boydton, in Mecklenburg County, yesterday. John Hagood, a merchant of Lacrosse, was sentenced to four years for his participation in the activity of a hooded band which whipped Milburn Neal, young farmer. Seven other defendants similarly charged are to be given hearings in December.

Neal testified that he was called from his home one night last summer by Hagood and that when he reached the yard he was seized by men in automobiles who wore masks. Hagood, who he said was not masked, told him that because he had sent his wife to a Catholic hospital that he was to be whipped. He was placed in a car, driven a mile, whipped with hickory sticks and then brought back to his home.

His mother joined him in identifying Hagood, who in testifying admitted calling Neal from his home, but denied particiaption in the whipping. There was further testimony that on the following day Neal was threatened in a paper signed by the triple initials of a hooded order.

FOUR FIRE FIGHTERS INJURED AT BLAZE

OTHERS BURNED BY ACID

Trapped by flames in a century-old house on the Lee highway near West Falls Church, Va., Lieut. Robert Bailey, of the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department, was seriously hurt yesterday morning when he fell from the attic of the structure. He was taken to Georgetown University Hospital, where he is said to be suffering from several broken ribs, a possible fracture of the hip and burns.

Three other firefighters, members of the Falls Church company, also suffered injuries in fighting the blaze. The combined efforts of the Fairfax, Vienna, Cherrydale, Clarendon and Ballston volunteer companies were required to subdue the blaze, which swept through the house after destroying a two-room section.

The other injured firemen are Chief Edward M. Ward and Firemen Joseph Birch and Judy Forrest. Mr. Ward's foot was pierced by a nail from the wreckage and his two assistants suffered burns from acid used in chemical extinguishers.

The blaze, starting in a defective stove in the kitchen, gained rapid headway while G. C. Frazier, tenant of the house, ran to the nearest telephone, half a mile away, to summon help. Scarcity of water in a nearby stream, due to the drought, handicapped the firefighters and the age-dried timbers of the ancient dwelling were soon a mass of flame.

The house is situated on the Camp Alger tract, used as a cantonement during the Spanish-American War. It is owned by Galliher Bros., of Falls Church, who are said to be planning a real estate development of the 1,700 acres of land adjoining it.

Although most of his furniture was saved, Mr. Frazier is reported to have lost the canned products of a summer on the farm. He was to have moved from the place yesterday.

Plan Is Approved For Capital Gate

Circle Preserving 60-Foot Roadway Is Favored for Wisconsin Avenue.

After studying various proposed treatments for the Capital portal at Wisconsin avenue and the Maryland line, the coordinating committee yesterday approved construction of a circle through which would be preserved the present 60-foot paved roadway for arterial traffic.

The committee will recommend establishment of a circle with an inner radius of 115 feet and an outer radius of 175 feet, in accordance with plans drawn by Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor. Under this program the present building line would be moved back 5 feet. Copies of the plans, which were approved with minor revisions, will be forwarded to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, as soon as the specified changes are made.

It was explained by Capt. E. N. Chisholm, jr., engineer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and chairman of the coordinating committee, that the present roadway and street car tracks through the proposed circle may be eliminated at any time in the future if advisable, and it was to provide for such contingency that the additional 5 feet are to be made available by moving back the building line.

Mr. Town was appointed by the president's council of the church in a meeting at Omaha, Nebr., according to the Associated Press. He resides at 106 Lincoln avenue in Takoma Park. The group named the Rev. J. H. McEachern, of Reno, Nev., publishing secretary of the Far East Conference, and the Rev. W. P. Bradley, of Walla Walla, Wash., as the conference's educational secretary.

MISSIONS DEPLETE ADVENT TREASURY

Church Is Forced to Draw Upon Reserve Fund to Continue Work.

BARS ANY CURTAILMENT

Omaha, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The problem of continuing its world-wide missionary activities came before the delegates to the annual fall conference of the Seventh Day Adventist Church here today.

Facing what officials called a financial crisis, 500 denominational leaders from virtually all the world decided it would be unnecessary to recall any missionaries, thanks to the existence of a mission reserve fund of more than $1,000,000, accumulated in the last fifteen years. The Rev. C. H. Watson, of Washington, D. C., president of the conference, who presided at the opening session, urged the delegates to ask God for adequacy in meeting the problems of the session and to remain cool, reminding them that "a panicky people is almost sure to do the wrong thing in the face of a crisis."

I. L. Shaw, of Washington, D. C., the treasurer, announced that during the first eight months of 1930 the church had expended $187,000 more than its income on mission activities.

Three presidents of European conferences requested a total of $1,247,828, to assist them in their work. Requests from other conferences were: Africa, $379,518.65; China, $555,903.13; the Philippine Islands, $459,789.10; Southern Asia, $498,650, and South Africa, $385,785. These came to $5,584,411, but to meet them there was only $4,112,543 and the reserve fund, Shaw said.

Young Perrone was attempting to cross the street near Sixth and G streets northeast when he was struck and knocked down by Ensor's car. After taking the youth to the hospital Ensor was arrested by police of the Ninth Precinct. He is being held on a charge of reckless driving.

Virginia Girl Married To Brookland Fireman

WATER CONNECTION IS EXPECTED SOON

Maryland Board's Application to Capital Made and Approval Due.

MAIN WILL BE 8 INCHES

Application for the fifth connection with the District water system has been made by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission of Maryland and is expected to be approved by the District Commissioners in the next day or two. It already has been approved by Capt. Hugh Oram, assistant engineer commissioner in charge of highway and water departments.

The new connection is to be made at the conjunction of Western avenue, Forty-seventh and Fessenden streets northwest. The main is to be of 8-inch size and is expected to carry something like 100,000 gallons of water a day into nearby Maryland communities.

There already are four other connections by Maryland with the District water system. One is at Chevy Chase Circle and another at Runnymede street and West avenue northwest. Water taken through each of these connections is from the so-called fourth high pressure system and is paid for at the rate of $75 per 1,000,000 gallons.

Other connections are at Georgia avenue and the District line and at Rhode Island avenue and the District line, and water obtained through these, like the new one at Feassenden street, is obtained through the so-called third high pressure system of the District and is charged for at the rate of $65 per 1,000,000 gallons.

Under the law Maryland may not get more than 3,000,000 gallons of water a day from the District. The new connection is not expected to raise the total taken to the limit. District officials are not very much concerned with the amount taken except as a matter of law. When the limit was fixed by Congress it was predicated on the amount of water brought into the District through the one conduit from Great Falls. There are now two conduits and the District could afford to give as much as 6,000,000 gallons a day, Capt. Oram said.

Playground Tract Offered by Beale

Annapolis Is Given Chance to Develop Park on Waterfront.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 28.—Through the benefaction of Truxton Beale, of Washington, and Mrs. Beale, the municipal authorities here have the opportunity to develop a playground center or public park. Mr. Beale, past 70 and living in retirement, formerly was in the diplomatic service.

His announcement was that he recently purchased a tract on Spa Creek, part of the old Primrose estate, and that he and Mrs. Beale had decided to deed 40 acres of this to the city, the idea being to preserve, for the use of the public, some of the waterfront from which it is now virtually shut off.

COURT DENIES VOTE TO D. C. RESIDENTS

Test-Case Decree Declares One-Year Residence Rule Applies.

VICTORY SEEN FOR G. O. P.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 28.—That residents of the District of Columbia are ineligible to vote in any part of Maryland unless they have complied with the one-year residence rule is the substance of the ruling made by Chief Judge F. Neale Parke, of the Fifth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland, sitting in Anne Arundel Circuit Court here today.

The decision holds that an act of the Maryland Legislature passed in 1929, which sought to remove the one-year declaration of intention clause, is inoperative, unconstitutional and in conflict with both the State and Federal Constitutions, which lay down uniform regulations for the government of voters.

Of Great Importance.

This decision, of far-reaching importance, is a sweeping victory for the State and the Republican State and county leaders, who challenged the right of 325 residents of Washington or the District, who were registered on Anne Arundel County books this fall.

The specific case was that of John W. Keadle, whose Washington address is 5235 Georgia avenue and who operates a battery service station in Florida avenue, but who claimed residence in North Beach Park, this county, having built a home there five years ago.

Associate Judges Robert Moss and William H. Forsythe, concurred in the ruling and the name of Keadle was ordered stricken from the registration lists of the Eighth District.

Judge Parke said tonight that the remaining cases would be taken up in groups tomorrow, to expedite the proceedings, and it is expected all will be disposed of during the day.

Democrats Chagrined.

Democratic leaders here plainly are chagrined over the situation. They stoutly maintained that Washington residents, as property owners at the various shore settlements in the county, are entitled to the franchise.

The Washington address given by Keadle, in obtaining automobile license tags, proved a big factor in determining the test case. It is understood that the same holds true concerning the more than 300 others who have been protested by Republicans. It completely broke down the claim of the Democrats.

Keadle was not in court yesterday when his case was first taken up, but he appeared as a witness today and examined at length. He told the court he clamied Anne Arundel County as his home.

WILLIAM A. MOODY, FORMER SECRETARY OF THE NAVY IN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S CABINET, IS ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES.

OCTOBER 29, 1905.

The Washington Post this morning carries a head, "Washington on a Wave of Prosperity Unprecedented in History of Capital," in which it declared that the city's population was increasing by leaps and bounds and that "the real estate men multiply and their business multiplies with them."

The scare of wholesale dismissals among Government employes, arising from a presidential order that the President and members of his Cabinet could wield the ax in cutting off employes for incompetency, passes after a two weeks' period devoid of removals.

A scandal was hinted in the affairs of the Government Printing Office in testimony made during an investigation now in progress by the Landis subcommittee.

The Goofus Canary

The Goofus Canary has gotten quite wary
Since finding her beak has a leak,
And eats only seeds
And sweet smelling weeds
Of a kind she can hold in her beak.

All day she makes tethers to fasten her feathers
As they lately have started to bolt,
Which she finds rather strange
As she hasn't the mange
And Goofus Canaries don't moult!

TECH CONQUERS CENTRAL, 18-0, TAKES SERIES LEAD

Marine Team Threatens Terrors

Veteran Eleven May Mar Clean Record of W. Maryland.

Ex-College Stars to Be in Line-Up Here Saturday.

IF past experience counts for anything, and it usually does, then the team that trots out on the gridiron at Griffith Stadium Saturday night to represent the All-Marines certainly has to be given plenty of consideration as having an excellent chance of stopping Western Maryland's sensational winning streak, which has reached 17 games and 21 tilts without losing, for in the Devil Dog line-up are no less than nine players who formerly starred on college gridirons.

The roll call includes Lieuts. Dave "Peggy" O'Neill, A. H. Butler and E. H. "Joe" Bauer, all of Navy; Private L. M. Kirkes, of Vanderbilt; Corpl. Kenneth Truckenmiller, of Cornell; Lieut. Joe McCaffery, of Penn Military College; Lieut. Albert Moe, of Southern California U.; Lieut. Orin K. Pressley, of Clemson, and Lieut. C. R. Allen, of Florida.

A tenth player who starred in his playing days at Navy, Russell "Whitey" Lloyd, was unable to make the team and is not included in the roster of the squad that will come here for the game. Coach Keady found Lloyd too brittle and unwilling to make the grade in his backfield.

O'Neill, Bauer Offset Lloyd's Loss.

Lieuts. O'Neill and Bauer, of Navy, more than make up for Lloyd's defection. The former is a whale of a fullback, packing dynamite and destruction in his well-distributed 165 pounds, while Bauer, 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighing 190 pounds, is the regular right half back and one of the most valuable men on the squad. O'Neill, hampered by injuries while at the Academy, resigned in 1926 to accept a commission in the Marines, where he has since starred in both football and baseball.

Of the other collegians the best-known are Lieut. Pressley and Corporal Truckenmiller. Pressley was the runner-up to Peter Pund, captain of Georgia Tech's national champion eleven in 1928, for the all-American team at center. He formerly played at Clemson. Truckenmiller is one of Gil Dobie's Cornell tackle products. Every one who knows football knows Dobie really turns out tackles. So do all of the Marines' opponents. It will be interesting, yes, more than that, to watch the work of this strapping product of Ithaca and Ludwig "Tiny" Pincura, the pride and joy of Coach Harlow's line.

Newcomers, Allen, Moe, Are Valuable.

Lieut. Moe, of Coach Howard Jones' great Southern California Team of a few years back, is likely to see plenty of service in Saturday night's game at tackle, too. He is a steady performer, as is Lieut. Allen, of Florida University, who played on the 'Gator Team until his graduation in 1928. Both Moe and Allen are serving their first year on the squad.

The other collegians mentioned above are likely to see action, too. Butler is a second-string half back, and Kirkes is another reserve back who is quite likely to get into the game.

There is an unusually heavy demand for tickets for the game, which promises to bring out one of the largest crowds to see a grid contest in Washington this year. Reserved seats may be had at Spalding's, the Sport Mart, at Griffith Stadium and at Marine headquarters.

Helen Hicks Will Sell Real Estate on Coast

Del Monte, Calif., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Helen Hicks, New York, generally rated second best woman golfer in the country, will move to Pebble Beach, Calif., to sell real estate.

This was announced today by the realty firm which will employ Miss Hicks. She will move here January 1.

Middle West Trails East, South, Far West In Intersection Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—A check-up today on the returns from intersectional football games played so far this season revealed the East, South and Far West with a winning average of .500 or better.

The East has won seventeen and lost eleven; the Far West's record is two victories and one defeat, and the South has ten wins and ten losses to show for its intersectional warfare to date.

Largely because they have been unable to hold their own with Southern adversaries, the Middle Western standard bearers have nineteen defeats, as compared with fifteen victories.

	East	Midwest	South	Southwest	Far West	Total won
East	..	9	8	0	0	17
Midwest	9	..	2	3	1	15
South	2	7	..	1	0	10
Southwest	0	1	0	..	0	1
Far West	0	2	0	0	..	2

W. Maryland Plays G. U. In 1931

Third Clash Between Teams Scheduled for Washington.

By JACK ESPEY.

GEORGETOWN and Western Maryland will meet in a football game here next October 3, it was learned yesterday following a conference between Hilltop and Westminster athletic officials. It will be the third game between these schools in as many years, and probably will be held in Griffith Stadium.

In announcing the arrangement of the contest, the spokesman for the Athletic Association of Georgetown took occasion to defend the eligibility rules of Western Maryland, which recently have been the target of criticism both here and in Baltimore. Georgetown, the spokesman said, is satisfied that there are no grounds for complaint against the Green Terrors.

In reference to a report that Georgetown might schedule the All-Marines Eleven next fall, it was stated: "The Marines have never figured in our calculations for the 1931 football season."

Mills Drives Team for Michigan State.

Head Coach Tommy Mills gave the Hilltoppers a hard workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Michigan State game Friday night in Griffith Stadium. For more than an hour the varsity took the offensive against the freshmen, but failed to satisfy Mills with their blocking.

Mills has a deep respect for Michigan State and thinks Georgetown can win if it plays the brand of football of which it is capable. The Hilltoppers must show better blocking than they did yesterday, however, to achieve victory.

Michigan State, undefeated in five games thus far, is well equipped with talented material—players with plenty of beef, brawn, speed and experience. The Spartans' ends and tackles, it is reported, should afford the Hilltoppers a lot of trouble both on offense and defense.

Invaders' Ends Bigger, More Versatile.

In the Notre Dame system, in which both teams are trained, the ends play a most prominent role in the attack. According to reports, the Michigan State ends are bigger and more versatile than any pair the Hilltop can muster.

Emile Bozek, who was expected to clinch the right half back position on Georgetown, was injured again yesterday and may not be able to start Friday night. He suffered a recurrence of a shoulder sprain, first sustained in practice last week.

Booth to Face Dartmouth Saturday

2 Columbia Regulars Return to Line-Up for Cornell Game.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—A definite announcement that Albie Booth will play against Dartmouth Saturday was made by Yale's football authorities today. Booth ran the first team in a two-hour signal drill. Dud Parker, brilliant kicker, was placed in Booth's back field.

Crippled Army Squad Hears of Mistakes.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 28 (A.P.). A somewhat crippled Army football squad was gathered today to hear a discussion and analysis of the mistakes it made against Yale. Carlmark, King, Fields, Bowman and Humber were unable to drill. Preparations for the North Dakota game will begin tomorrow.

Columbia More Hopeful For Cornell Game.

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Columbia turned out a stronger and more hopeful team to prepare for the Cornell game today. Joe Stanczyk, plunging full back, and Sherwood, tackle, returned to practice, and it was announced that Moss, 200-pound lineman, who was injured the first week, would be in uniform tomorrow.

"Old Grads" Address Princeton Squad.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Two "old grads" of widely different stations addressed the Princeton Team today as preparations for the Chicago game began. One was John Grier Hibben, president of the university; the other, "Biffy" Lea, '96, one of the Tigers' most famous ends and father of Langdon Lea, who holds that post on the current team.

Holy Cross Revamped For Brown Game.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Only three of the Holy Cross players who started the Brown game were on the first team today as the Crusaders started preparations for Rutgers with a stiff scrimmage. Capt. Garrity, Clark and Pyne held their places.

New York U. Stages Long Scrimmage.

Carnegie Tech Starts Hard Practice.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Carnegie Tech had the first of four hard sessions in preparation for the N. Y. U. game today, scrimmaging a half hour against the scrubs.

Stars Missing From Harvard Practice.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Capt. Ben Ticknor, Barry Wood and Bernie White were left out of the hard part of Harvard's preparations for William and Mary today. All are expected to be able to play. A 45-minute offensive scrimmage took up most of the session.

Syracuse Coach Worried Over Brown Game.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Coach Vic Hanson, of Syracuse, is worried about the outcome of the Brown game, he admitted today, because his powerful line will be outweighed. However, he gave the Orange only a light drill after Monday's scrimmage.

Ingram Polishes Navy's Play.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—With a comparatively easy game against West Virginia Wesleyan ahead and a shower of strength, Princeton Bill Ingram spent today smoothing out the rough spots in the Navy's play. Interference was stressed in a dummy scrimmage.

Pitt, Stiff and Sore, Drills for Nebraska.

G. U. Freshmen in Debut Against Sailor Eleven

Georgetown University's freshmen gridmen will inaugurate their campaign Saturday afternoon at Norfolk, Va., where they will engage the team representing the Norfolk Naval Base.

Composed of former high and prep school luminaries, the Hilltop first-year team is expected to make a creditable debut. In practices with the varsity, the freshmen, coached by Tom Murphy, former Notre Dame player, have been able to hold their own on a number of occasions.

Football, Basket Ball In Schools Is Criticized

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Football and basket ball as a part of a physical education program for high schools is "positively silly," Dr. Charles A. Keene, of Buffalo, N. Y., told delegates to the American Public Health Association convention at a child hygiene session today.

"How many of you have played football or basket ball since you left school?" he asked. "Why, its perfectly silly to include such courses in the curriculum. Football is all right for the gladiatorial type of individual, but it should not be included in a physical education course. Games, such as tennis, handball, skating, hiking and the like that the adolescent boy and girl can enjoy in after life are the courses that should be taught in the schools."

CENTRAL BACK GAINS THROUGH TECH LINE

"Snapper" Garrison, Famed Jockey, Dies; Sensational Career Made Name Byword

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The American turf lost a picturesque figure today in the death of Edward H. (Snapper) Garrison, king of the jockeys when he was at the height of his career in the 90's.

He died this morning in the Swedish Hospital, Brooklyn, after a heart attack. He was 62 years old and his connection with racing, which dates back to the early 80's as an apprentice rider, was maintained up to the time of his death.

The man who made the "Garrison finish" a byword on the turf everywhere was the highest-salaried jockey in the business in his prime, receiving as much as $23,500 for a season's contract work in 1894. He became famous against great competition, rival riders of his day including McLoughlin, Fitzpatrick, Isaac Murphy, Andy Hamilton and Isaac Lewis.

Garrison Survived by His Teacher.

He rode the winners of nearly all the big stake events, East and West. In the $60,000 American Derby at the world's fair in 1893 at Chicago, Garrison rode Boundless, an outsider at 15 to 1, to victory after a delay of nearly two hours at the post.

Garrison was born in New Haven in 1868. He was developed at Hartford, Conn., by "Father Bill" Daly, who is still alive, and rode for him for many seasons. It was in the running of the Futurity of 1889 that Garrison was beaten by Jockey Day, who rode Chaos, defeating St. Carlo, ridden by "Snapper." At that time the finish of the Futurity was directly in front of the paddock at Sheepshead Bay, and just before reaching the finish Garrison eased up St. Carlo, believing he had the race won, while Day brought Chaos up on the inside to win by a head. Jockey Day was a protege of Garrison.

Garrison Loser in Race That Earned Soubriquet

"Snapper" Garrison's great ride on Tenny in the famous match race against Salvator at Sheepshead Bay in 1894, in which Tenny lost, was so sensational that the loser became the hero, and the phrase, "Garrison finish," became a part of the sporting terms of the country.

Jockey Murphy had the mount on Salvator in the match race for $20,000 a side, put up by Haggan and Pulsifer, respective owners. Tenny ran out and was almost lost at the head of the stretch, when he quit sulking and began to run, and his finish was so fast that a short nose, the width of a man's hand, separated the two steeds at the end.

After Garrison quit the saddle on the flat he took up steeple-chasing and tried his hand at that end of the game for a while, but after a few bad falls decided to retire from the saddle for good. In recent years Garrison had been connected with racing as an official at Keeney Park, Fla.

Recalls Match Race Lost on Salvator.

In an interview with the Associated Press last winter at his home in Miami, Fla., Garrison told of some of his memorable races, the match in 1894 in which he lost on Tenney to the Negro, Ike Murphy, on Salvator; the time he won the famous Suburban with Tammany in a three-horse nose-to-nose finish in 1892; of the year 1887, when he raced his own stable and won $62,000, including twelve straight on Eolian.

Garrison regarded Tammany as the greatest horse he ever rode. Perhaps greater than the renowned Man o' War. He considered Tod Sloan as the greatest jockey of all time, Laverne Fator the finest of modern riders. Fator, he remarked, was a stronger finisher than Earle Sande.

Snapper Garrison was a blacksmith's helper in New Haven, Conn., before he rode to riches and fame on some of the greatest thoroughbreds of his or any other time.

Succeeded Tod Sloan As Most Famous.

Garrison was the successor as an internationally famous jockey, to the colorful Tod Sloan. Of the latter Garrison once remarked, "Horses ran for Tod."

"Garrison's finish" became a by-word of the turf.

The label stuck to Garrison, who never liked front-runners and rated his mounts along to do his stuff in the stretch, where, he remarked, "the money is."

Garrison's most famous race, the one about which more fanciful tales were written than any other, was his victory on Boundless in the $60,000 World's Fair Derby, at Chicago, in 1893. On one pretext or another, such as fixing his straps and saddle, Garrison helped delay the start exactly one hour and 42 minutes, spending most of his time on the ground and keeping the weight off his horse. In a big field Boundless, at 15 to 1, was booted home before 100,000 spectators, although Garrison was fined $1,000 for his part in the long delay.

Garrison won, lost, and partially regained a fortune in the racing game. He quit as a jockey in 1897, later serving as an official at numerous tracks, especially in the South. He had spent the last few winters at Miami, Fla. He is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Ed Yeomans in Finals In Mid-South Net Play

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Two University of North Carolina students, Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., and Ed Yeomans, of Washington, will play this week for the mid-South tennis championship.

Hines, national junior singles champion, and Yeomans, national public parks doubles champion, advanced to the finals today.

Lenoir Wright, of Charlotte, another university star, was eliminated by Yeomans in a four-set tussle in the semifinals. Yeomans' net game proved Wright's downfall. The scores were 8—6, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4. Hines disposed of Ed Graham, Chapel Hill, and Philip Liskin, New Rochelle, N. Y., in straight sets.

The men's doubles matches were narrowed down to the semifinals with Hines and Wright facing Graham and Shuford in the top bracket and Yeomans and Hendlin meeting R. O. Covington, Asheville, and Herbert D. Vail, Glencove, L. I., in the lower division. Vail teamed with Robert Crossland, Charlotte, to win the doubles' title last year. Crossland is not entered this year.

Mother, 6 Feet Tall, First to Greet Carnera

Genoa, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera's mother, a great big woman, well over 6 feet, was the first to greet the giant Italian heavyweight when he arrived today on his return from an American boxing tour. The mother wept with joy.

"He is such a good son," she said. "Why, he sent me a million lire (about $50,000) and wrote me to spend it buying a big enough bed for him."

Primo's father, brother and a host of other relatives, in addition to his mother, showered him with embraces.

Detroit Mayor Raps Big Ten For Denying Charity Game

DETROIT, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Mayor Frank Murphy today branded as "inconsiderate and selfish" the action of Western Conference officials in refusing to allow Notre Dame University and Northwestern University to transfer their game from Dyche Stadium in Evanston to Soldiers Field in Chicago for the benefit of charity.

"These conference faculty members take themselves too seriously," the mayor said. "When people are suffering it is time for everybody to drop his smugness."

The mayor's remarks were made in connection with the proposal that the University of Michigan and the University of Detroit play a Thanksgiving Day charity game at Ann Arbor. The action of the conference officials on the Northwestern request was taken as refusal to sanction such a game.

The mayor indicated he might seek a Thanksgiving Day game between Notre Dame and the U. of D. in the Michigan Stadium or try to get the Michigan State-U. of D. game transferred to Thanksgiving Day and played at Ann Arbor, the proceeds of either event to go to charity in Detroit.

G. W. Freshmen Meet Massanutten on Friday

George Washington's freshmen eleven will make its second appearance of the season Friday afternoon when it meets the Massanutten Academy Team at Woodstock, Va. This will be the initial start of the Buff and Blue yearlings since the "strike" of eight players who were dismissed for demanding free tuition, board, and room.

Massanutten is undefeated to date and is making a strong bid for the State prep school championship.

Latonia, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The card at Latonia this afternoon was featureless. Each of the seven events carried a claiming clause and only the cheaper grade of selling platers and 2-year-olds competed over the dull track. This condition did not prevent spirited racing, and several close finishes resulted.

The long-shot players were given their biggest thrill of the meeting when R. W. Geisler's Sarcastic, a recent arrival from the Ohio circuit, led home a mediocre band of platers in the third at odds of almost 100 to 1. The exact amount of each $2 mutuel refund was $199.62.

Ens Signs to Manage Pirates Again in 1931

Pittsburgh, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Jewell Ens, who was beset with injuries among his players during his first full year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, fifth-place finishers in the National League standing of 1930, will pilot the team again in 1931.

Uncertainty which had existed among the club's followers as to whether Ens would be tendered another contract was dispelled today when the management announced he had signed for another year. Terms of the new contract were not given out.

"We have confidence that Ens will keep the Pirates in the flag race next year," Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pirates, said in discussing the contract.

Ens, whose playing days were given largely to the minor leagues, has been with the Pirates since 1921 as player, coach, and manager. He was secured from Syracuse, of the International League, and served as a utility player until he was made a coach. He succeeded Donie Bush as manager late in the 1929 season.

TOUCHDOWN MARCH FOLLOWING KICK-OFF WITNESSED BY 10,000

hands and stepped to Central's 37-yard line before being grounded. Nelson chose to kick and the ball was brought out to Central's 20-yard line, but Mirman's kick went barely to Central's 35. Reichman, Nelson and Sachs moved the ball down 25 yards, a lateral pass bringing a 10-yard profit. Sachs dashed through left tackle for the remaining 10 yards and a touchdown. Gormley missed the placement for the point.

Mirman's straight-up kick in the last period marked the start of Tech's drive for the third touchdown. Reichman and Sach hit hard for 20 yards, placing the ball on Central's 20-yard mark. Reichman ran the remaining distance through most of Central's team for the tally.

Pickney Checked by Tech Defense.

Larry Pinckney, who was expected to supply most of Central's drive, found himself completely bottled up. Only on defensive work did Central's hefty acting captain poke a head above the others. Tech's line more than successfully weathered his plunges.

Stung by Tech's early touchdown, Central hit center with impelling power in the second quarter and battered its way 37 yards to Tech's 13-yard line only to lose the ball on downs. The end of the third quarter saw Central again in Tech territory, but the Blue and White again lost the ball, this time on Tech's 25-yard line. As the game ended Central had placed the oval on Tech's 27-yard line via the aerial route.

FIRST QUARTER.

Sachs received the kick-off for Tech and returned 10 yards to his own 35-yard line. In a drive off the Central tackles, Sachs pounded his way to Central's 26-yard line to the bewilderment of the Blue and White. On a fake spinner, Sachs took the ball around left end to Central's 1-yard line. Gormley crashed the line for a touchdown. Nelson's attempted pass for point was incompleted.

Hinkel took the ensuing kick-off for Central and returned to his 35-yard line. Hinkel, Pinckney and Cumberland marched to Tech's 45 where Hinkel was thrown for a 9-yard loss by Melkeljohn. Cumberland on the next play passed to Hinkel for 10 yards. Tech held for downs on its 40-yard line. Nelson punted to Central's 26. Mirman kicked back as the quarter closed with Tech holding the ball at midfield.

SECOND QUARTER.

To open the second quarter Nelson punted to Cumberland deep in Central territory, and after a series of line smashes by Hinkel, Pinckney and Cumberland, Pinckney passed to Hinkel for a gain of 35 yards to place the ball on Tech's 45. Hinkel sustained a fractured collar bone when tackled, but remained in action until the half intermission.

With DeLisio joining in the Central backs ripped through Tech's forwards to the Manual Trainers' 14-yard line, at which point DeLisio fumbled and recovered for a 5-yard loss. Hinkel made up this loss with an end run and on the next play barely missed Pinckney's pass at the 9-yard line on fourth down, thus surrendering the ball to Tech.

Nelson gained 7 yards and then punted. Pinckney punted back and Tech had the ball on its 15-yard line as the half closed.

THIRD QUARTER.

Deveau returned the kick-off for Central to his 45-yard line. Pinckney gained 5 yards and then attempted a pass which Goldman intercepted for Tech and ran to Central's 37-yard line. Nelson punted over the goal line. After a fumble by Pinckney, Mirman punted, but got off a poor one, which was downed by Tech on the Central 35-yard line. Reichman, in two rushes, advanced to Central's 15, where Tech was penalized for offside. Nelson picked up 5 yards and a lateral; Reichman to Sachs added 5 more. Sachs on a spinner went 10 yards through the line for a touchdown. Gormley missed a placement kick for extra point.

Cumberland returned the kick-off 10 yards, but injured his ankle and left the game. Central rallied and attacked the Tech line for tthree successive first downs, with Pinckney, DeLisio and Colella carrying the ball to Tech's 27-yard line. Colella fumbled, losing 4 yards as the quarter closed.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Pinckney was tossed for a 15-yard loss on the first play and Mirman kicked poorly, the ball traveling only to Tech's 34-yard line. Reichman sliced tackle for 10 yards, but Sachs fumbled in midfield and Central recovered. Central was tossed back, and even with Mirman's kick Tech regained the ball in midfield. Reichman and Sachs battered their way to a touchdown in alternate smashes at Central's right tackle and guard. Reichman sped around end 20 yards for the touchdown, narrowly skirting the sideline. Gormley missed the placement. Pinckney repeatedly in the waning moments of the game, with Colella camping under two heaves for a ground gainage of about 25 yards. The game ended just after Colella's second nab and saw the ball on Tech's 25-yard line.

Atlanta Seeks Bout For Stribling-Sharkey

Atlanta, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The Constitution says that W. L. ("Young") Stribling, heavyweight contender, has agreed to meet Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, here in January and that a guaranteed offer of $50,000 has been made to Sharkey for the fight by the Atlanta Baseball and Amusement Co.

The promoters already have booked a Stribling-De Kuh bout here on Armistice Day.

Sharkey recently expressed himself as eager to meet the Georgia fighter, and an offer of $50,000 to Stribling for a bout in New York was made about that time. The offer to Sharkey's manager was telegraphed tonight, with a request for an answer as soon as possible.

Wimsatt Eliminated In Potomac Golf Test

S. C. Wimsatt, medalist, was defeated, 2 and 1, yesterday in the semifinal round of the annual West Potomac Park fall tournament by E. H. Mellon. Mellon's consistent golf in the face of a heavy wind caused the downfall of the medal winner.

In the other semifinal matches F. Krattenmaker disposed of H. R. Allen, 2 and 1; Earl Freeburger eliminated W. D. Richardson by the margin of 4 and 3, while Harry Gershenson nosed out Jimmie Thornton in an extra-hole match, 1 up.

In the women's flight, Mrs. R. Shantz won from Mrs. R. H. Stevenson, 3 and 2; Rosa B. Morris defeated Harriet Doktor, 4 and 8, and Alice Marston put out Frances Gershenson, 2 and 1.

VOLTEAR LEADS ALL THE WAY IN LAUREL FEATURE

Dixiana Colt Outclasses Field

Beats Frumper 1½ Lengths With Coltiletti Up.

Abdel Equals Record for 5½ Furlongs in Maiden Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 28.—A favorite finally scored in the fifth race, the Tolchester Claiming Handicap, the feature here today, when the Dixiana Farm's Voltear, giving away much weight, led all the way. Ryland H. New's Frumper was second and H. C. Hatch's Montanaro third. Golden Auburn was fourth in the five-horse race.

The victory of Voltear, which clearly outclassed his field, made a double for Coltiletti. The field was off to a good start, Voltear immediately taking the lead from Montanaro. Scared o' Nothing showed early speed. On the back stretch Frumper moved up resolutely and hung on to the finish, Voltear having a margin of a length and a half. The time was 1:46 4-5 for the mile and a sixteenth. The winner paid $4.70.

A large crowd was out and the weather was summerlike. There was much criticism here during the afternoon over the evident failure of several favorites to run up to their expected form. It was reported the stewards were about to tighten up on the lax racing of the last few days.

Petabit Wins by Head In Opener.

G. Willing Browne's filly, Petabit, won the first race, winning by a head. F. J. Buchanan's Meek, another one overlooked in the pari mutuels, was second, and H. G. Bedwell's Justiclary, still another outsider, was third. The winner, E. Watters up, paid $20.60.

Your Flag was the favorite. She was a contender until rounding into the stretch, when she began stopping. Meek closed fast and almost got the decision. She was $14.70 to place. Peach Basket, second choice, was close up in the early pace. The time was 1:14 1-5.

Another favorite failed when Gerard lost the second race to Elizabeth Bolla by a length and a half. Caroler was third, and Honeyman fourth. Elizabeth Bolla, ridden by Apprentice Madely, overhauled Caroler in the stretch turn and drew away. Gerard challenged through the stretch, but he started his campaign too late.

Elizabeth Bolla was gaining at the end and ran the 6 furlongs in 1:13 flat, repeating her last race here last week when she won. Nae Breeks, marked up at 100 to 1, was in front at one time and Col. Seth also ran well. Gerard is probably the most inconsistent horse running at this track. The winner paid $8.40.

Abdel Equals Record In Maiden Race.

The third race for maiden 2-year-olds was an easy victory for C. R. Allen's Abdel, which, with Jockey Watters up, won by 6 lengths. Street Singer was second, and Prince Pest third. The winner was one of the favorites, paying $8.10. Tancred was fourth. Twelve started. Street Singer was second from the gate, the winner leading all the way. The time was 1:05 4-5 for 5½ furlongs, equaling the track record and the fastest race of the meeting.

Mayor Frank Hayes, of Waterbury, Conn., had the satisfaction of seeing his horse, Bounding Deep, Coltilleti up, win the fourth race by a length and a quarter. The favorite, Amsterdam, was vanquished. Vimont got the place by a close shave, beating Stern Chaser by a head. Star Run was fourth. The winner paid $9.10.

Make Believe Scores By a Neck.

Le Mar Stock Farm's Make Believe won the sixth race by a neck from Eilona, with Wrackell third. This was another upset that marked most of the races here today. Eilona led most of the mile and a sixteenth journey, with Vacation trying in vain to catch her. Make Believe joined the chase on the back stretch and finally overcame the leader at the finish. A half length separated the second and third horses, Vacation finishing far back. The winner paid $22.70 and the second horse $17.20 to place.

Candy Pig, 6-year-old gelding owned by H. T. Archibald, of Washington, made a show of his field in winning the final race on the program today and rewarding his backers with a $6.40 mutuel for $2 straight tickets. Ten platers started in the mile and a sixteenth test.

Under a well-judged ride by Watters, Candy Pig was off in front and made every post a winning one and at the end had a three and a half length margin over Baritone, which beat Night Signal a head for the place. Fair Thorn was closest in pursuit of the winner until the field turned into the stretch, where Baritone closed resolutely to beat out Night Signal for second money. Candy Pig was the second favorite of the day to win.

PETABIT, hard hustled to assume a slight lead, raced YOUR FLAG and PEACH BASKET into submission, gamely withstood a drive and just lasted. MEEK worked her way up on the outside and closed with good courage. JUSTICIARY improved his position gamely and outfinished PEACH BASKET. Latter was used up forcing the pace and weakened in the final issue. TRICE faltered after a determined effort entering the home stretch. YOUR FLAG stopped.

STREET SINGER, hard ridden all the way, was best of the others. PRINCE PEST worked his way up steadily to close with good energy. TANCRED had no excuses. POLITICAL turned in a good effort. BAROMETER, a slow breaker, was outrun. LONGITUDE was left.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOUNDING DEEP, $9.10, $5.30, $6.30; VIMONT, $7.60, $6.50; STERN CHASER, $13.30.

BOUNDING DEEP, steadied along for the first six furlongs, reached contention when ready, came determinedly when called on and, wearing the leaders down, was going away at the end. VIMONT began slowly, worked his way into contention and finished in stout fashion. STERN CHASER had a lot taken out of him getting to the front and he tired. STAR RUN hung in the final drive. AMSTERDAM quit, as did DUNLIN'S ELK.

BOUNDING DEEP SPLASHES TO VICTORY IN FOURTH.

VOLTEAR raced in hand first six furlongs, shook off GOLDEN AUBURN when straightened out in homestretch and drew away at his leisure. FRUMPER moved up stoutly rounding far turn and was carried very wide by GOLDEN AUBURN entering home stretch. MONTANARO finished gamely on inside. GOLDEN AUBURN tired.

VOLTEAR SCORES CLEAN-CUT WIN OVER FRUMPER.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:32. Off at 4:36. MAKE BELIEVE was rated off the pace until straightened out in home stretch, wore EILONA down last furlong and outgamed her at end. EILONA went to the front with a rush in run to first turn and raced VACATION into submission, saved ground entering home stretch and hung on with good courage at end. WRACKELL finished gamely. ORMONBIRD could not menace the leaders. VACATION weakened.

MAKE BELIEVE IS NO ILLUSION IN THE SIXTH.

CANDY PIG outclassed his opposition, sprinted away into a commanding lead and held sway, winning with much in reserve. BARITONE lacked early speed, worked his way up on the outside to reach his field and closed with energy. NIGHT SIGNAL finished with good courage. FAIR THORN weakened when put to a drive.

MARYLAND EXPECTS WARM BATTLE FROM VIRGINIA

Byrd Is Wary Of Virginia Eleven

Comparative Scores Against V.M.I. Team Shows Strength.

Maryland Regulars Resting; Cavaliers' Stars Fresh.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND figures it has little, if any, edge on the University of Virginia for their annual football game at Charlottesville Saturday.

The Old Liners are taking the relative showing of Maryland and Virginia against V. M. I. as a basis for their opinion. Virginia beat V. M. I. 13 to 0, on the latter's home field, which means something, while Maryland won over the Cadets, 21 to 0, on a neutral gridiron in Richmond. The "breaks" of the game also were with the Old Liners in the Richmond battle.

Another factor that should help Virginia considerably is that it rested its regulars last Saturday, playing only reserves against Kentucky, while all the Maryland first-stringers played at least half of the contest with V. M. I.

Coach Curley Byrd, of the Old Liners, will continue his policy of working the regulars only lightly and letting the reserves do most of the real toiling in preparing for the Cavaliers. His second-stringers, who failed so badly when sent in against St. John's on October 18, did well when used against V. M. I.

Carliss, Tackle, Only Casual.

Carliss, big right tackle, is the only casual among the Old Line regulars and the chances are that he will be fit for action in Saturday's tilt. He was not in such good trim early last week, but played a bang-up game against V. M. I.

While the varsity team is away Saturday, the Old Line Freshmen, who have beaten the North Carolina and Virginia yearlings, will entertain the V. M. I. cubs in a game starting at 2 o'clock. Last year the teams played a scoreless game at Lexington.

Bryant, 200-Lb. Back, Sent To Tackle on Va. Eleven

University, Va., Oct. 28.—Herbert Bryant, Virginia's 200-pound full back, has been shifted to a tackle position in the line by Earl Abell, head coach of the Cavaliers.

Lack of line reserves caused him to make the change, Coach Abell explained. When Virginia played Kentucky last Saturday three tackles had to be held out of action. Bob Kimball, letterman, is still in the hospital with an injury received while playing against V. M. I. Capt. Hunter Motley has an infected foot and Buck Poss, first year Tide star last season, is still bothered by a leg injury.

Chris Thompkins, playing his first season on the varsity, and Kenneth Robinson, a guard recently shifted to tackle, played all the Kentucky game. Both these men performed creditably, but both have a long way to go before becoming finished forwards.

Capt. Motley was back in action Monday. His foot had healed enough for him to get in dummy scrimmage. Thompkins was paired with him in the team A line, but later on Bryant was given a chance.

Bryant is a big man and the fastest on the squad in a short sprint. For some reason he has not shown the ball-carrying ability expected of him and the coaches have decided to try him in the line, where replacements are greatly needed. Johnny Peyton, who won his letter at end last fall, is also being tried as a tackle.

LAUREL NOTES

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 28—Jockey Frankie ("Peanuts") Slate, who rode with much success in Canada the past summer and who is under contract to John Bosley, will make his debut as a steeplechase rider tomorrow. He will be astride Arc Light in the $10,000 Governor Ogle.

Jockeys R. Workman and A. Robertson leave tonight for New York, where they will attend the funeral tomorrow of H. P. Whitney. Workman will resume riding Thursday.

Marshall Cassidy, starter on various Canadian tracks, who was here for a few days, said before leaving that he was very much impressed with the C. M. Waite stall gates and may use them next summer at his various meetings.

H. C. Hatch, well known Canadian sportsman, has purchased the 2-year-old Backwoodsman from E. R. Bradley.

Bill Denham has shipped Tempter to Bowie, where he will be rested up for the meeting beginning November 17.

Jockey Mack Garner went to Baltimore this morning to have X-ray pictures taken of his injured leg.

The Fox Catcher Farms Volunteer was returned from Virginia, where he took part in a hunt meeting.

Joseph McLennan announces that the following horsemen will ship to New Orleans at the conclusion of this meeting: W. L. Brodie, C. Holland, Colgate Stable, Ray Bryson, J. McKeever, O. Chaney, W. P. Gaines and A. Carlson.

With the President of Cuba seeking refuge on a warship, horsemen hereabouts who had planned to go to Cuba are beginning to get uneasy as to the winter's racing there. New Orleans, Miami and Agua Caliente stalls are fast being filled and if Cuba by any chance fails to go, many a small stable will have difficulty making expenses this winter.

The Boy Who Made Good —By H. T. Webster

YOUNG MAN, I'D LIKE TO GIVE YOU A BIT OF ADVICE—DON'T BE FAMILIAR WITH THE BOSS. IT DOESN'T PAY
FOR 10 YEARS AFTER I CAME TO WORK FOR THE FIRM I NEVER ADDRESSED THE MANAGER OTHER THAN AS MR. RATFAYCE
I WAS AWFULLY AFRAID IT WOULD APPEAR PRESUMPTUOUS TO CALL HIM CHIEF BUT AFTER I HAD BEEN HERE 10 YEARS I DECIDED TO TRY IT ONE DAY
HE DIDN'T OBJECT SO I JUST NATURALLY KEPT IT UP. I'M SURE HE WOULD HAVE RESENTED IT IF I'D BEEN A YOUNG UPSTART WHO HAD ONLY BEEN WITH THE FIRM 5 OR 6 YEARS
I'LL NEVER FORGET THE DAY I CALLED HIM G.K. I'D BEEN HERE 25 YEARS WHICH ENTITLED ME TO THE PRIVILEGE. G.K. LIKED IT I THINK FOR I CONTINUED TO CALL HIM THAT. HE CALLS ME STUPID IN THE SPIRIT OF FUN
GOSH! I WONDER IF I'LL EVER—
DON'T BE IMPATIENT. REMEMBER ROME WASN'T BUILT IN A DAY. CHANCES ARE IN 25 OR 30 YEARS YOU'LL BE CALLING THE CHIEF G.K. TOO

OTTLEY LOST TO V. P. I. ELEVEN

Diminutive Star of Back Field Hurt, Out of W. & L. Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Oct. 28.—V. P. I.'s eleven is going about its preparations for the twenty-eighth game with Washington and Lee, but without "Bunt" Ottley, flying midget of the Gobbler back field. Ottley, who weighs barely 150 pounds, sustained a fractured rib in the game with Davidson last week and will be out of the line-up for remainder of the season.

Practice efforts are being redoubled now that one of the back field mainstays is definitely out of the picture. It will be hard to replace the scrappy youngster who halted late Carolina drives by alert defensive work, who scored the touchdown that upset William and Mary, and was leader of the Techmen on offense and defense until injured when he intercepted a pass at Davidson last week.

Ottley's place at right half back belongs to Bus Hall or Sam Hardwick. Hall, who is just a sophomore, took the place of Phil Spear early in the season when the veteran all-Stater was injured. One of Hall's best assets is nice ability to hurl passes, and it may be this knack with the aerials that may win him the place ahead of Sam Hardwick, a fleet-footed youngster with a hobby for wide end runs.

Howard Proves Smashing Back.

Frank Howard, sophomore full back, lacks the steadiness of a veteran campaigner, but is proving to be a hard-driving back with lots of natural ability. Howard and Mitt Owens, the 190-pound veteran, will renew their training feud this week. The youngster started the Davidson game, but Owens is expected to be well of injuries in time for the clash at Lexington, and it is recalled that the veteran line smasher, then only a sophomore, played one of the finest games of his career when Tech won from the Generals on the same battleground two years ago.

Arol also informs us Jackie Purvis trounced Roy Mitchell and is preparing for a busy winter campaign.

W. MARYLAND POINTS FOR MARINES

Terrors Expect to Find Game Here Real Test.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Oct. 28.—The Green Terrors of Western Maryland College will face their toughest opposition of the season this Saturday when they meet the All-Marine Eleven in Griffith Stadium, at Washington, D. C.

The All-Marine Team, composed of the pick of Leatherneck gridders from the entire corps, has shown itself to be a powerful eleven of major proportions in every game so far this season and will undoubtedly give the Green Terrors a real battle. The best of the Marine football men, recruited from every United States Marine post in the world, have been assembled at Philadelphia, where they have been in training since September under the direction of Head Coach Keady. In their first game of the season the Leathernecks gave a hint of their possibilities by shutting out John Carroll University's strong eleven, 14 to 0.

In their next contest the Marines took over Washington College with ease, and the following week held Boston College's mighty eleven to a 13-7 victory. Last Saturday Coach Keady's Devil Dogs took Lebanon Valley College into camp, using substitutes throughout most of the game.

Harlow Changes W. M. Tactics in Drills.

The Marines will present a style of football entirely different from anything the Terrors have ever faced, and Harlow will probably change his tactics considerably in preparing for the coming contest.

Both teams use modifications of the Warner system, which concentrates on power, but in this respect the Marines will have an edge on Western Maryland, boasting a line which averages more than 195 pounds from end-to-end. The Devil Dogs' back field is equally impressive, averaging 175 pounds and including such men as "Corny" Long at full and "Biff" Bauer at half.

Fortunately, Dick Harlow's small Terror squad has not been further depleted very much by serious injuries so far this season.

November Offers Trouble For S. Conference Leaders

Next Month's Schedule Makes Rocky Road for Alabama, Kentucky, Georgia, Florida, Clemson and Tulane, All Unbeaten.

By DILLON GRAHAM
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The schedule makers who arranged the November slate for Alabama, Kentucky, Georgia, Florida, Clemson and Tulane—Dixie's undefeated conference elevens—certainly set up a herculean task for their teams.

Alabama, safely over a rough October road which included Mississippi, Sewanee, Tennessee and Vanderbilt on successive Saturdays, has no idle moments in the November stretch, for Wallace Wade's Crimson Tide has little time to point for any single team with Kentucky, Florida, Louisiana State and Georgia ahead.

Georgia probably has as hard an assignment with Florida, New York University, Tulane, Alabama and Georgia Tech standing in the path to touchdown glory.

Kentucky Looking To Alabama Fray.

The Florida Alligators, caught napping by Furman last week, engage Georgia, Alabama, Clemson and Georgia Tech, with Tennessee furnishing the last action early in December.

Kentucky looks upon Alabama as its immediate foe, but the fast-moving Blue Devils from Duke will call for a full show of strength by Kentucky next week. Virginia Military may offer something of a breather the following week, but the Kentuckians must hit their top stride again for Tennessee Thanksgiving Day.

Clemson, victorious in a series of skirmishes along the Atlantic seaboard, has a well planned November card. The Bengals meet Tennessee Saturday, with Virginia Military as the next opponent. Florida and Furman close the schedule, thus allowing Clemson time to point for Tennessee and Florida, the two real opponents along the conference row.

Tulane probably has the easiest road with Mississippi A. and M., Auburn, Georgia and Louisiana State. Bierman's 1929 champions have three weeks to prepare for their titular struggle with Harry Mehre's Georgians, and Tulane supporters believe if the Green Wave can roll over Georgia, it will finish the conference race undefeated.

Duke Is Anxious as Villanova Nears.

Duke's Blue Devils hope to lead the South's high average in intersectional combat this year with a victory over Villanova Saturday. Last year a crippled Duke Team was crushed under the Villanova avalanche, 58 to 12, but Jimmy DeHart's men have shown they possess power in sinking the Navy, 18 to 0, a week before the middies gave Princeton its worst beating in modern football history.

Encouraged by its first showing away from home and with a full complement of strength available, Duke is confident of reversing last year's decision.

Mississippi College, of Clinton, will represent the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in the intersectional wars this week. The Choctaws have already won from one conference team, Mississippi A. and M., and have two association victories, but last week dropped a hard battle at Chattanooga.

German Party at 1932 Olympics May Be Small

Berlin, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Because of the financial stringency in Germany, the government has informed the German Athletic Union that the state subsidy for the German athletes competing in the Los Angeles 1932 Olympics would be considerably smaller than it was for the 1928 Olympics at Amsterdam.

The German Olympic committee will meet November 15 to consider the problem, which threatens to make the German contingent small.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 28.—The annual baseball banquet of the St. Mary's Celtics, champions of the Washington Independent League, will be held Thursday night at 1424 Duke street. Mrs. Ruth Kidwell will serve the feast. The affair will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Haywood Hamilton has been elected as treasurer of the Del Ray Athletic Club. Coach "Doggie" Hamilton has called a special practice of his team for each night this week on Duncan Field in preparation for Sunday's game with the Petworth A. C.

The Alexandria Bluebirds will meet the Friends Athletic Club gridders tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock on Haydon's Field. This is one of the contests for the midget title of the city.

The St. Mary's Celtic gridmen will meet the Seaman Gunners, of Washington, Sunday afternoon on Baggett's Field. Coach Rube Hayman has called a practice of all players for Thursday evening at Baggett's, beginning at 8 o'clock.

On Friday the Alexandria High School gridders will play their second conference game, opposing the Washington-Lee High School Team at Ballston. A win for the "Twins" will give them leadership in the District series.

Manager Bill Hammond, of the Pirate Athletic Club, has called a special meeting of his club for Wednesday night at Queen and Fairfax streets at 7 o'clock.

New Spirit at W. & L. Noticeable in Practice

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 28.—A different Washington and Lee team will take the field this Saturday afternoon against the V. P. I. Gobblers in Washington and Lee's feature homecoming day attraction, if the spirit prevailing practice periods here this week can be used as a basis of prediction.

The rejuvenated spirit was first noticeable in Monday's practice, when the linemen showed some of the ability they so noticeably lacked against the Johnnies. The machine was bucked a little harder, the dummy was snapped off its pulleys with vicious lunges, and linemen pitted at each other developed the desire to smear their opponents over the lot.

The specter of a possible State honor looms in the distance for the winner of the game here Saturday. V. M. I. has already been eliminated, although there is an outside chance of a tie-up all around.

C. U. OFFENSE POLISHED BY BERGMAN

Cardinals Practice Without Aid of Scouting.

MINUS the customary "scouting" information, Catholic University is concentrating on perfection of its attack this week in preparing for New River State, its opponent for Saturday in Brookland Stadium.

The Cardinals are not worried over what New River State may have in the way of strength, and have made no effort to scout the West Virginians. They are mainly concerned with polishing up their own plays and believe that by achieving perfection they will have no particular difficulty turning back the invaders, whose 1930 record is more or less of a mystery to Washingtonians.

New River Reported Improved.

New River State, coached by Ken Shroyer, former Western Maryland College football coach, is reported to have taken on consiedrable new material this fall, but just exactly what benefit it has derived still remains to be seen by the football world as a whole. It is significant, however, of hopes for better things that the West Virginians have succeeded in scheduling teams above their class. Besides Catholic U., they have listed Holy Cross for a game, which is to be played November 8 in Worcester, Mass.

Johnny Oliver, star running back of Catholic, will be able to perform Saturday, whereas it had been feared that injuries received in the Duquesne clash last Friday night would keep him out of action.

CLAIMS NEXT CUE CHAMP.

Philadelphia is backing either Andy Ponzi or George Kelly, of that city, to take the world's pocket billiard title away from Ralph Greenleaf, present champion. The point is made that Greenleaf has been off form in recent months and that the youngsters Ponzi and Kelly are comers in the cue world. Kelly, it is pointed out, has an edge on Ponzi inasmuch as Ponzi has been sticking to the three-cushion billiard game for the past year.

Benzol Blended BETHOLINE Prevents Destructive Piston Shock and Lengthens Car Life

And no wonder! At 40 miles an hour your engine fires 100 times each second. Any piston shock, however slight, is a destructive trip hammer, steadily jarring your car to pieces. But Benzol-Blended BETHOLINE prevents Destructive Piston Shock. Instead of exploding with damaging violence BETHOLINE actually burns—smoothly, and progressively! No sudden, jarring crash. The special Benzol-Blend distributes BETHOLINE'S vast energy over the entire piston stroke, building up a mighty s-w-e-e-p of power—a mechanically perfect follow-thru.

This elimination of piston shock is the secret of longer car life. But it is only one of the many advantages resulting from Betholine's Benzol Blend.

For your car's sake use this remarkable Motor Fuel, now selling at its lowest price in all history.

STOCKS MAINTAIN IMPROVED COURSE

COPPER SHARES RALLY

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Security and commodity markets maintained their recent firmness today; in fact, considerable strength was evident in certain directions, notably, wheat, cotton and the copper shares. Bonds again advanced.

Until the late trading, stocks rose with an unobstrusiveness that was heartening to those who have been hoping for a gradual improvement rather than an abrupt upturn. Although profit-taking and short selling in the last hour claimed a substantial part of the 1-to-6 point rise, the market held its firm undertone and receded as slowly as it had risen. Closing quotations were irregularly higher. Sales totaled 2,016,200 shares.

Directors of United States Steel failed to declare the extra dividend which would have been welcomed by the reviving bull faction, but the corporation's earnings statement—an outstanding item in a day of rather important news—was probably better than had been anticipated. It showed third-quarter profit equal to $2.06 a share against the most optimistic forecasts of $2, swelling the year's earnings to date to a total safely above the full dividend requirements.

Copper Shares Strong at Close.

Arrival in New York of two producers of copper in the Belgian Congo, who are ready to cooperate in the world-wide production curtailment program that is seen as a major need for the industry, was the signal for the rally in the stocks of the jaded red metal companies. Kennecott, American Smelting and Anaconda rose 1 to 2 points, and were especially strong in the final dealings when the rest of the market was easing off.

Further cuts in crude oil and gasoline prices and a batch of unfavorable earnings statements were rather dampening, although the petroleum shares were quiet. Studebaker's income last quarter was equal to 20 cents a share against $1.24 a year ago; nevertheless, the corporation declared the regular dividend.

The weekly condition statement of the Federal Reserve member banks revealed a significant decline of $116,000,000 in loans on securities, the item which Wall street is watching most carefully. The decline in collateral borrowings this month amounts to $341,000,000, making the total only $222,000,000 higher than it was a year ago. Commercial loans, unable to develop much of a trend, turned downward, showing a drop of $33,000,000. The gain reported a week ago, it was recalled, was contrary to the seasonal movement, but this week's statement indicated that the demand for credit is exceedingly slow.

Funds Available at 1 Per Cent.

Member banks continued to add to their investments, which means a helping hand to bonds. Further expansion of these holdings is indicated in the embarrassment of riches with which the call money market is placed. Funds were available today at the ridiculously low rate of 1 per cent. There was, however, no change in the official charge, 2 per cent.

Railroad equities reflected the generally better September income statements and there was enough demand for Atchison, New York Central, Norfolk & Western and Pere Marquette to lift them 2 to 4 points. Utilities and industrial specialties developed considerable buoyancy before the rally ran into stock. Eastman Kodak was notably heavy, dropping 8 points, but Ingersoll Rand, United Aircraft, Worthington Pump, Case, and Columbian Carbon were strong.

Bethlehem Steel had a sinking spell prompted by an unofficial estimate of earnings, but recovered when the company let it be known that the dividend would not be affected. U. S. Steel climbed a point to 154, its best price in some time, before reacting. It closed with a fractional loss.

General Electric Loses.

There were small declines in General Electric, Westinghouse, Radio, Air Reduction and Allied Chemical. Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, National Power & Light, Sears-Roebuck, National Biscuit and Studebaker were up a fraction to about a point at the close. American Can and General Motors finished steady.

The advance in cotton reached the impressive proportions of $1.80 to $2.75 a bale, pointing to the success of efforts at stabilization. It was reported in trade circles that a prominent automobile manufacturer was buying low-grade cotton in the South.

Wheat gained 1½ cents as the export demand improved, and corn was up nearly a cent on the average, reflecting small receipts and a better cash market.

The expected shipment of gold to Montreal took place, to the extent of $4,000,000, on continued firmness of the Canadian dollar. The Spanish peseta rallied further.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 28 (A.P.) (U. S. BONDS MOVE AHEAD IN MORE ACTIVE DAY

Southern Railway 5s and 4s and C. & O. General 4½s Advance.

FOREIGN GROUP STRONG

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The upward movement in bonds gained momentum today and all sections of the list reflected the improved demand. Activity was moderate, although the volume increased sharply from the very quiet session yesterday.

One and 2-point advances were liberally sprinkled throughout the domestic list. The demand for railroad issues bore some resemblance to the bullish tone which characterized their movements through the summer. Liberty 1st 4¼s reached a new high for the year. United States Governments generally were firm. Foreign obligations were buoyant.

Conditions were considered favorable to an advance in the bond market as call money held at 2 per cent and loaned outside at 1 per cent. The stock market was firm and there was virtually no competition from new financing.

Rail Bonds Unusually Active.

The inquiry for railroad bonds was the best in several weeks, extending to both prime and second-grade obligations. Large gains were made by Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Burlington 4½s, St. Paul 5s, Chicago & Northwestern 5s, Illinois Central 4s of 1955, Pennsylvania general 5s, Southern Railway 5s and 4s and Wabash Railway 5s D. Several of these issues have been mentioned in connection with the annual revision of the New York list of investments legal for savings banks. Decreased earnings have placed their standing in jeopardy and have resulted in sharp declines.

Utilities and industrials both reflected the greater interest of investors. Best grade utility issues whose quoted value has been only slightly impaired moved quietly but there were some sharp advances elsewhere in the group, notably Brooklyn Edison 5s A, Denver Gas & Electric 5s, International Hydro Electric 6s, International Telephone debenture 4½s, Ohio Public Service 7½s A and Utah Power & Light 5½s.

Stock Privilege Issues Rise.

Bonds of oil, rubber and steel companies led the advance of industrials, rising a point or more in many instances. Stock privilege issues were generally higher.

Strength of German governments stood out in the foreign section together with the continued buoyancy of Latin-American bonds led by Brazilian obligations. German 5½s rallied 1¼ and the 7s gained ⅜ in a large turnover.

Gains of 1 to 4 points were again common among South American Bonds which have been helped by the cessation of hostilities in Brazil. Bogota City 8s rose 11 points. Colombia, Chilean, Argentine and Peruvian issues participated in the advance although there were some soft spots here and there.

Offering will be made tomorrow of a $2,503,000 5¾ per cent issue of Wayne County, Mich., which includes the City of Detroit.

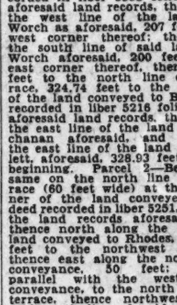
CLAIRVOYANTS

CLAIRVOYANT THE MAN WHO KNOWS



608 12th St. N.W.
Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

FAIRFAX TO REQUEST EXTENSION OF MAINS

Committee to Make Formal Application for Benefit of Falls Church Section.

FACULTY GROUP NAMED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The special water and sanitation committee composed of three members of the Falls Church Town Council and several citizens of the town has made arrangements to make a formal application to the Arlington County Board of Supervisors for the extension of the Arlington County water mains into the Fairfax County portion of the town of Falls Church. The mains are already installed in the Arlington County portion of the town in accordance with the bond issue several years ago. A conference has been held by the committee with Arlington County Engineer C. L. Kinnier in regard to the engineering details of the proposed extension.

A subcommittee has been appointed by the special committee for the town to study the engineering features of the proposed water system. The persons named to this subcommittee are John T. Bowen, Carrol V. Shreve and Edwin Rosegarten. Engineer Kinnier has been asked to familiarize himself with the various problems relative to the installation which the Arlington County supervisors will wish to discuss when they consider the town's formal application.

The committee is considering making a recommendation that the installation of a water system be financed by a bond issue. As the town lies in both Arlington and Fairfax Counties and as the town's charter conflicts somewhat with the general State laws regarding bond issues, several legal and technical difficulties have been encountered. Any proposition to install a municipal water system must first be submitted to the citizens of the entire town, although water is now available to the Arlington County portion of the town. Falls Church does not have the authority to assess the abutting property owners for the cost of the system and therefore it can not finance such a public utility except through a general bond issue.

Under the opinion given by Attorney John S. Barbour, who had been asked to pass upon the legal phases of the proposed installation, no immediate action can be taken by the town council to have such a system installed to meet the present emergency as a question of a bond issue must first be voted upon favorably by the freehold property owners after 20 days' notice and then again by the qualified voters after the petition has been approved by the Circuit Court of the District.

The town can only bond itself for 18 per cent of its assessed valuation on real estate which amounts to about $1,000,000 under the present assessment. The payment and interest on the bonds must be guaranteed by a tax upon the property and if the town of Falls Church bonds itself to furnish water to both the Arlington and Fairfax County portions of town and the residents of both sides will have to be taxed and no front-foot assessments can be made against the Fairfax County residents, the committee contemplates, the refunding of the money that has already been paid by the Arlington County residents to Arlington County to connect with the water mains already installed.

The only other method of securing water to meet the emergency would be to grant a private corporation the franchise. Before the amount of a bond issue can definitely be determined it will be necessary first to decide on the source of supply. If possible to obtain the water from Arlington County mains the question will be simplified, but if this is found to be impossible it would be necessary to locate and drill wells and install electric pumps and a water tower similar to that contemplated by the town of Fairfax. This would increase the cost of a water system materially.

JEWS URGE HOOVER TO TAKE ZION STAND

Resolution Adopted at Session in Baltimore Asks Opinion on Policy.

BRITONS DEFEND ACTION

Baltimore, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—President Hoover today was asked in a resolution adopted by the Mizerachi Organization of America to take cognizance of and express his opinion on the change of policy by the British government in Palestine. The organization, composed of Orthodox Jews of America, which tonight adjourned its annual convention, called the Passfield policy, restricting the emigration of Jews to the Holy Land, a "breach of honor and good faith" and a repudiation of the Balfour declaration.

The resolution was presented by the committee headed by Rabbi I. M. Davidson, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. A copy was dispatched to the White House by wire.

All officers were reelected. They are Rabbi Meyer Berlin, of Palestine, honorary president; Gedaloah Bublick, New York, president; Rabbi J. Imselbach, Brooklyn, first vice president; Rabbi Wolf Gold, Brooklyn, second vice president, and Max Nadler, Brooklyn, treasurer.

"British Honor at Stake."

London, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency says the Marquis of Reading admonished the British government not to "create the impression all over the world that it had played false to the Jews," in the House of Lords today immediately after the reading of the king's address.

"I am desirous to impress the government that this is not a question merely between the Jews and the Arabs, but a question of British honor," he said.

"British honor is at stake. It is the government's duty to clear up any difficulties there may be and to restore its position as far as it can.

Blow at Critics.

"The government must no longer be open to the attack of the critics who complain that it pledged its word to the allied nations and to their associated nations during the war, and that when danger passed the government took a different view and really resigned the promises it had given."

Speaking of Arab and Jewish equality, Lord Reading continued, "no one would controvert the statement that the religious liberties of the Arabs must be respected as well as those of any other section of the population. Nevertheless when the government onces stated it pledged itself to establish a Jewish national home it should not be at liberty in later years to take action which produced the impression among many who were interested all over the world that the government had really played the Jews false.

Labor Policy Defended.

"I hope that the government will be given an opportunity in the near future to put a different complexion on the situation."

The Labor government's "white paper," which contained the recent statement of policy in Palestine, was defended by Lord Parmoor, lord president of the council.

"I feel certain that we made every effort to fulfill the obligation of our national honor both toward the Jews and toward the Arabs.

"It is not an easy question, but I think the allegation that we have not done our best to deal justly with the Jews and Arabs alike has no foundation whatsoever."

Widow of Col. Hutter Succumbs in Sandusky

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Charlotte Stannard Hutter, 73, wife of the late Col. J. Risque Hutter, died Sunday night at her home, Sandusky, Bedford County. She had been ill ten days.

Mrs. Hutter was a daughter of the late Edward Sextus Hutter, and was born at Popar Forest, one of the homes of Thomas Jefferson, which has been owned by the Hutter family since the days of Jefferson. She is survived by four sons and a brother, C. S. Hutter, Lynchburg.

Rain Extinguishes Forest Fire.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 28 (Special). A sudden shower of rain last night accomplished what a group of firefighters could not. Extinguishing a big forest fire on Red Hill, near Keedysville, Md., the rain came when the fire, which had been burning in timber for several hours, had got beyond control and was threatening several large apple orchards and buildings.

WOMEN ARE LAUDED FOR GOOD SCHOOLS

G. O. P. Club Told to Be Active in Politics So Work May Continue.

PLANS FOR VOTING MADE

Montgomery County's excellent school conditions are due largely to the interest taken in the school system by the women's clubs, Mrs. Helen L. Koch told an enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Montgomery County yesterday at the home of Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Bethesda, Md. She urged the women to take an active part in politics in order that the progress could be continued. Mrs. Koch presided at the meeting.

Mrs. William Woolfe Smith detailed political organization and precinct work. Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, vice chairman of the Bethesda District, urged the women to get out every vote possible. Mrs. John Holmes, of Rockville, State chairman, and a member of the Republican State central committee of Montgomery County, urged intensive work in getting out votes. Lewis Keiser also spoke.

Dr. Charles C. Galloway, of Takoma Park, candidate for member of the Maryland House of Delegates, spoke on the school situation in the county, and John Humphrey, candidate for county commissioner from the Wheaton District, told of organization work which had been carried on in Takoma Park.

Mrs. Koch, who is president of the County Club Federation, named the delegates to attend the State convention of the Federation of Republican Women of Maryland tomorrow in Baltimore. Those named are: Mrs. E. W. Moore and Mrs. Albert Miller, Kensington; Mrs. Z. Huntington and Mrs. Ida Dove, Rockville; Mrs. Elisha Hanson, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor and Mrs. Franklin Getzendanner, Bethesda; Mrs. S. J. Ross, Friendship Heights; Mrs. Eugene Stevens, Chevy Chase; Mrs. C. W. Mitchell and Mrs. Lloyd Beers, Silver Spring; Mrs. John Clarke, Wheaton, and Mrs. E. H. Hartnett, Battery Park.

It was voted to turn over $100 realized at the Manor Club card party to the Republican State central committee for use in connection with the Browning campaign fund.

A rally for Republican women of the Takoma Park section will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, it was announced. Mrs. Virginia White Speel, president of the District Federation of Republican Women, will speak.

Ritchie Is Bolted By Women's Group

Governor Is Dripping Wet and Mad With Ambition, Committee Asserts.

Charging Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, with being "dripping wet," and "mad with ambition," the Women's Democratic Law Enforcement committee, meeting at Baltimore, yesterday bolted the Democratic Party and switched its support to Mayor Broening, Republican.

"Because the Republican Party in Maryland has gone on record for law enforcement and has a strong dry plank in its platform," said a resolution adopted by the committee, "and its candidate for governor, Mayor Broening, promises he will stand firmly on his party's platform, regardless of his position in the past."

The organization also went on record as supporting Bishop Cannon against "vicious attacks by the wet press and enemies of the country and the eighteenth amendment who are determined to persecute and wreck him." This support was given, the resolution pointed out, because the bishop has "fought to rid our country of Tammany domination" and defended prohibition. Support also was pledged to Representative T. Alan Goldsborough.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

FOOTBALL GAME CURIOSITIES.

I.
O, gaze if you will
At a wonderful mortal:
He loses no time
In locating his portal!

II.
Mark well this miss—
A joy to men:
She never asks
"What happened then?"

III.
If you've a little praise,
At this boy aling it:
He has a raccoon coat—
But didn't bring it!

IV.
Attention, please! Observe this dame!
She's most unique, I'm saying:
She understands a football game—
And almost knows who's playing!

V.
Look! Look! Look!
A grad divine:
He thinks the seats
He got are FINE!

VI.
Behold with amazement
The J. Buxton Chaggs:
They come in an auto
Not covered with flags!
They haven't a feather
Displayed in their hats
And none of the boy friends
Is wearing white spats!
No one in the party
A gay blanket totes,
And all of the ladies
Are wearing cloth coats!

VII.
Quick, Watson, quick!
A Yale man and
His tie's not blue!

VIII.
Oh, step this way, folks, step this way,
And see the wonder of the day!
He brought a bottle, but, alas,
He wouldn't drink without a glass!

IX.
Eyes this way!
An oddity!
His flask is full Of ice-cold TEA!

X.
Extra! Extra! Here's a man
Who is some wizard's double:
He found a place to park his car—
With very little trouble!

A DISTURBING THOUGHT.

An insurance company's office was held up by New York bandits and robbed of $9,000. Wouldn't it be ironic if the company carried no insurance?

EXTRA! DIAMOND ASSAILANT COMES CLEAN.

Hi.—I wish to confess all. Tell Commissioner Mulhooney and District Attorney Crain to cease firing. I shot "Legs" Diamond. My motive? I was sick of reading about him. Yours truly. ELMER TWITCHELL.

Gloria Swanson has sued the Marquis Henri de la Falaise de la Coudraye for divorce. Just a "noble" experiment.

"Bugs" Moran, gangster, seized as a public enemy, protests that he is a business man. "I am vice president of the Cleaners & Dyers Association," he declares. Punning, no doubt.

IZZAT SO?

"DO you know what happens to 100,000 men born on the same day? Eighty thousand one hundred twenty-nine live to be 27; 64,311 live to be 52, while only 32,582 reach 72."—Life Extension Institute advertisment.

* * * *

Now that we know, it is more confusing than ever.

IT'S A GOOD TRICK—IF HE DID IT!

"When the discussion was finished the surly man jerked his head around to Festine. He was sitting on his right hand, his elbows on the table, his big, fleshy hands clasped."—From Edgar Wallace's "Fourth Plague."

BATTLEFIELD PARK SECTION IS VISITED

Army and Park Commission Officials View Site Near Petersburg.

WILL COST $1,000,000

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 28.—War Department officials, patriotic organization leaders, park commission members and city heads of Petersburg today visited the site of Battlefield Park, near here, to have explained to them the project which will cost more than a million dollars when completed.

Among those in attendance were: Assistant Secretary of War F. H. Payne, Maj. Haislip, Col. Gibson, U. S. A., who is in charge of battlefield parks; Col. H. L. Landers, of the War College, Washington; Maj. Gen. C. Clem, retired, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, who is the chairman of the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania County Battlefield Memorial Commission; Capt. H. N. Comey, of Danvers, Mass., member of the Petersburg Battlefield Park Commission; Maj. Arthur E. Wilburn, director of the Petersburg and Fredericksburg Battlefield Parks; Oswa'd E. Camp, resident engineer of the Fredericksburg Park; members of A. P. Hill Camp Confederate Veterans and heads of the Petersburg Battlefield Park.

Secretary Payne and four other War Department officials came to the airport, near Hopewell, in an airplane, having left Washington at 9 o'clock this morning, arriving at the airport at 10 o'clock. Each of the visiting delegations was met by a delegation from the Battlefield Park Commission and escorted to the park, which is in Prince George County, about 2 miles from Petersburg. Capt. Comey, a member of the Battlefield Park Commission, came all the way from Danvers.

The War Department officials went over the area to be covered by the park accompanied by P. H. Drewry, of Petersburg, representative of the Fourth District of Virginia, who for three years or more has labored in Congress in behalf of the park, which will contain many of the original fortifications and forts of both the Confederate and Federal Armies, all of which are remarkably well preserved. Recently a large force of workmen have been put to work cleaning up the grounds in the vicinity of Fort Steadman, where was fought one of the last and most sanguinary battles of the Civil War.

A big barbecue and brunswick stew was tendered the visitors and invited guests under a large tent. Representative Drewry was toastmaster. Addresses were made by Col. Gibson, Col. Landers and Assistant Secretary of War Payne. Congress has already appropriated about $15,000 for the cost of the project.

Television Scientist Among Those Who Will Address Convention.

JEFFERSON ONE SUBJECT

University, Va., Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Television, X ray, projection of pictures in relief, color photography, electrooptical measurements, the spectrum, and radiation are among the subjects to be discussed when the Optical Society of America holds its fifteenth annual meeting at the University of Virginia this week.

This three-day session here Thursday Friday, and Saturday will bring together scientists from all over the Nation. Three winners of the Nobel Prize are among the members of the organization, and one of them—Prof. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago—will present a paper Friday afternoon on the "Optics of X Rays."

Relief pictures and projection in relief will be discussed for the benefit of the public at an illustrated and experimental lecture Thursday night by Dr. H. E. Ives, of the Bell Telephone Laboratories of New York.

Dr. Ives is well known as the man who has complete charge of the development of television by his company from the beginning down to the most recent advances in transmitting colored pictures in two-way television.

Dr. L. G. Hoxton, professor of physics here, is chairman of the committee on local arrangements. Associated with him will be Profs. C. M. Sparrow, F. L. Brown, J. W. Beams, John J. Luck, and Walter S. Rodman.

Thomas Jefferson's work as a scientist will be the subject of a paper by Prof. Rodman, to be delivered at the Thursday afternoon session. President Edwin A. Alderman will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session.

Danville Strikers Are Reprovisioned

Union Officials Reticent as to Cost; Halloween Precautions Are Taken.

Danville, Va., Oct. 28.—Union officials today executed new contracts with local concerns for reprovisioning of strike commissaries, but efforts to determine what was being spent drew the statement that the union is not disposed to discuss its financial details.

Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, today termed an "outrage" the bringing to Danville of seven private detectives of which, he said, he had authentic knowledge. The strike situation was epitomized by a large sign appearing on the picket line at Schoolfield, proclaiming "All Quiet on the Western Front." The police, it was learned, are preparing special protective measures for Halloween night, despite the passage recently by the city council of a special ordinance forbidding disguises on the streets that night.

Commonwealth's Attorney John W. Carter this evening admitted that it was possible that he would tomorrow ask for a nolle prosequi of twelve cases involving strikers alleged to have intimidated workers, scheduled for hearing tomorrow. All of these cases originated in Schoolfield and were moved for some reason, obscure to the Commonwealth's attorney, to the Danville court. Mr. Carter believes that the cases should be handled by county magistrates and not shifted to the city.

Industrial School Student Dies.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 28 (Special).—Marvin Fields, 17, a student at the Blue Ridge Industrial School, near Dyke, Greene County, died suddenly yesterday at that institution. The body was brought here and forwarded to Bluefield, W. Va., for the funeral and interment.

Campbell County Girl Is Wed.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 28 (Special).—Miss Dollie Irene Minx, of Campbell County, and Samuel Lewis Cook, a Franklin County farmer, were married here yesterday, the celebrant being the Rev. W. S. Royall, of the Baptist Church. They will live near Piggsville.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED FOR CAPT. CRANFORD

ROAD COMPLAINTS HEARD

Between lines of Masons and volunteer firemen, the body of Capt. B. Wesley Cranford was borne from Trinity Church to his last resting place in the churchyard in Upper Marlboro yesterday. Cranford was killed Saturday when the Marlboro fire truck, of which he was captain, overturned while answering an alarm.

The ancient church was crowded with those who had come to pay their last respects to the fellow townsman, and many were unable to enter the building. Volunteer firemen from all over Prince Georges County were present, and there was a huge wreath from the county association of firefighters.

Services were conducted by three ministers, the Rev. Aubrey C. Gilmore, of the Memorial Church of St. Paul in Philadelphia; the Rev. Francis McManus and the Rev. J. C. M. Shrewsbury, rector of Trinity Church. Mr. Gilmore was once pastor of the Marlboro Church and returned to the Maryland town especially for the funeral. He was also a personal friend of all the Cranford family.

Miss Maude Gibbons sang two solos and there was music by the regular vested choir. Leaders in town affairs who had been friends of the dead man acted as honorary and active pallbearers.

Many of those attending the funeral gathered at the Cranford house in the southern part of the town and filled the long line of cars which followed the hearse to the church. Many more gathered at the church, although the circuit court did not recess for the burial, due to press of business.

The county commissioners of Prince Georges County heard complaints yesterday of the state of the Metzerott road between the bridge and the Baltimore boulevard. Residents of the Berwyn and Branchville section said that the grade from the bridge to the boulevard, already steep, had been made even steeper by the widening of the Baltimore road. The narrow bridge on the road and houses near the intersection, making it difficult to see approaching cars, are additional hazards, the complainants said.

The many school children passing the point make it imperative that some action be taken in the near future. The commissioners directed the supervisor of roads to look into the matter.

A zoning hearing was also held in regard to changing four lots in Ducat Town, on the Edmonston road, from residential to commercial. The lots are numbered 5, 6, 7 and 8. Action on the change was postponed until next week to give a representative of the Parking and Planning Commission a chance to be present.

The change has already been disapproved by the commission on the ground that it will make "spotted" zoning. It is customary to have some one from the commission appear before the commissioners before they will take any action which would overrule the zoning body.

The heaviest sentence meted out at this term of Circuit Court was given to William Love yesterday when he was sentenced to serve eight years in the penitentiary for arson. The man had been convicted by a jury of setting fire to a neighbor's house in Fairmont Heights.

Frederick Dorsey was another of the four persons sentenced yesterday. He will serve eighteen months in the Maryland House of Correction for larceny and receiving stolen goods. He pleaded guilty after three others who had been indicted with him had their cases nolle prossed. On a similar charge, Rutherford Meade received a sentence of one year in the House of Correction.

Pleading guilty to a charge of housebreaking and larceny, George Shanks was sent to the House of Correction for a year. This case grew out of the robbery of the garage of Amos Davis.

Bernard C. Gray was convicted of nonsupport of his wife, Pauline, and child by a jury which was out nearly three hours. It took another jury less than an hour, however, to free Charles Immick on a similar charge.

A jury, after deliberating an hour and a half, brought in a verdict of manslaughter against William Green, colored. Green had been indicted for the first degree murder of Richard Diggs by the grand jury, but State's Attorney J. Frank Parran asked only for the manslaughter return. Witnesses testified who had seen the scuffle between the two men at a dance, and had heard a shot, but none of them could swear that Green fired the shot. Green was defended by Frank Hall and Leroy Pumphrey.

Albert S. Cook, State superintendent of schools, was chief speaker last night at the dedication of the new Mount Rainier High School. Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools, was also present, as was Forrest P. Blunt, principal of the school. Representatives from the mayor and council of Mount Rainier and Brentwood were there, and others from Mount Rainier civic bodies appeared.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra, which accompanied vocal selections by Mrs. May Willis Baker and Mason Willis. Mrs. P. W. Cawthorne, representing the Women's Civic League, was among those attending. Community singing featured the dedication exercises.

The Rev. H. B. Baker delivered the benediction, while the Rev. D. C. Gordon spoke the invocation.

Robert O'Keefe, a fire warden stationed at Waldorf, Md., received injuries to his hand yesterday when the car he was driving ran off the road. O'Keefe was responding to an alarm at Croom and was between Nottingham and Brandywine when the accident happened. He was taken to the office of Dr. W. H. Gibbons by Mrs. Evelyn Baden, whose car happened to be passing. Dr. Gibbons took six stitches in the man's hand before he was allowed to return to his home.

Mount Rainier residents will seek the construction of a new sidewalk from Grape street to the new high school through the efforts of a committee appointed from the local citizens association. W. P. Barnett is chairman of the committee, while H. W. Blandy and A. Worman are the other members.

A bazaar and supper will be held tomorrow night by the St. Mary's Guild at 5:30 o'clock. Needlework and novelties will be on sale and a menu of chicken, ham and oysters will be prepared for the diners
